Welcomes Optimists

Sedalia Mayor Ralph Walker welcomed Optimist Club members from throughout Missouri as they began two days of meetings here Saturday morning. Optimists registered at Holiday Inn beginning at 8 a.m. Saturday. The two days of activity will end with a family dinner Sunday. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Optimist Club Members Kick Off Meeting Here

About 150 Optimist Club members from throughout Missouri helped kick off the third quarterly district board meeting at Holiday Inn here Saturday, with Mayor Ralph Walker delivering a welcoming address.

The meeting began early Saturday morning with registration and will be concluded following a family dinner at 12:30 p.m. today at the Agriculture Building on the Missouri State Fairgrounds.

The first general session began shortly after 8:30 a.m. Saturday with Gov. Bill Kasmann calling the meeting to order. The Rev. Charles Hendrickson gave the invocation and Robert Settles introduced Mayor Walker.

Walker, after apologizing for the snow flurries which greeted visiting Optimist Club members here, welcomed the group to the city.

Following Walker brief talk, international and district officers were introduced by Kasmann.

Theme of the two-day meeting is "Lead the Way," with past governor C. R. "Red" Osborne leading a discussion.

Saturday's agenda included a Model Club Luncheon at 12:25 p.m. at Holiday Inn with an address by Past governor Bill Bailey; a second general session at 2 p.m. including zone meetings; a training and planning session for lieutenant governors and a session designed to put Missouri first in "all of Optimist International in our golden anniversary year."

Sunday's session scheduled to begin at 9 a.m., included a sermonette, attendance prize drawings, reading of minutes and a financial report. The two day meeting will adjourn at 11:45 a.m., to be followed by the family dinner.

Intelligence Ship Tour 'Educational' To Court

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher's civilain attorney said a Navy court of inquiry's two-hour tour of another intelligence ship Saturday gave its members "an appreciation of the situation on the Pueblo" at the time of her capture by North Korean forces.

The visit to the USS Palm Beach—it was the first time any of the court's five admirals had been aboard an intelligence ship was "educational and instructive," E. Miles Harvey told newsmen.

"It adds to the court's storehouse of knowledge in evaluating testimony," he said.

Harvey, who accompanied the court members on the ship tour assented. "You can see where they (the Pueblo's crew) destroyed publications...where the Korean guard stood... You could understand the difficulty in going topside...the exposure of the gunmounts.

"We had thought the Pueblo's research spaces were larger than they turned out to be. We know now how crowded the Pueblo was."

His tour of the Palm Beach, Harvey said, made him "more sympathetic with the problems Cmdr. Bucher (the Pueblo's skipper) was faced with."

Recalling Bucher's testimony that he had picked up the wrong telephone prior to the Pueblo's capture by the North Koreans, Harvey said, "Today aboard the Palm Beach we saw how easy this was to do with two identical phones side by side in a crowded space."

See Continuing Enemy Pressure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The enemy is likely to continue military and political pressure on South Vietnam in coming months while making minor concessions at the Paris peace talks, according to an analysis being circulated within the Nixon administration.

No all-out offensive on the scale of last year's Tet attacks is expected during the forthcoming lunar New Year holidays. The 1969 Tet falls on Feb. 17 and the Viet Cong already have started their version of a holiday cease-fire.

Instead, the U.S analysis indicates Hanoi is banking on a long-haul strategy which it hopes will wear down the South Vietnamese government and the willingness of Saigon's allies to contribute heavily to it.

The import of the study of the enemy's fight-and-negotiate tactics thus is that no diplomatic breakthrough toward a peace settlement can be expected soon and that military-terrorist activity will be pursued though at a lower rate than a year ago.

Says Segregation Not Barred By High Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court's school decisions outlaw deliberate racial discrimination, but not segregation as such, says the Nixon administration's key official for domestic affairs.

Robert H. Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, drew the distinction in an interview with The Associated Press.

"If you look at the Supreme Court decision, segregation, in fact, is not prohibited by law," said Finch.

"What is prohibited is deliberate discrimination," he said. "And so, you have to find hard evidence that someone, the people in a community, are deliberately creating situations which lead to discrimination.

"If segregation in fact were prohibited by law, what are you going to do with all the solid Negro schools in solid Negro areas in northern cities?"

Finch made the comment in discussing federal desegregation guidelines which, he pointed out, the new Republican administration inherited from its Democratic predecessor.

"And so far as I'm concerned as secretary, until I'm satisfied that these guidelines are either inaccurate or not fully relevant, I have to respond to the clear intent of Congress and the Supreme Court."

Finch, who has cut off federal funds from eight Southern school districts for failing to meet the guidelines, said "this doesn't mean the guidelines shouldn't be examined. We are re-examining them."

He suggested there are other approaches that haven't been fully explored, including whether a given district is making a genuine effort to make certain that every child, regardless of race, is getting an equal share of the district's educational resources.

"That's a test that we really haven't applied in many of these cases," he said.

Finch added that he was not arguing for a dual school system, which he described as "prima facie an indication of deliberate discrimination."

Asked if he was consulted by the Justice Department before it filed lawsuits against school discrimination in Houston and Louisiana, Finch replied, "As a matter of fact, I was not."

He said the timing and nature of the action were entirely under Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell's control, but added that "I think down the road, we're going to have to have a greater interface between the two—Justice and HEW—in this whole compliance area and across the nation."

South Vietnam To Observe 24-Hour New Year Truce

Forces Will Hit Back To Counter Any Attack

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam, with the consent of its allies, announced Saturday a 24-hour truce covering Tet, the lunar new year Monday, and warned it is ready to strike back if the enemy attacks.

The Viet Cong's seven-day cease-fire opened at 7 a.m. but the allies ignored it, pressing 60 large offensive sweeps looking for the enemy and raining more air blows along Saigon's approaches.

Several minor enemy incidents marked the opening of the Viet Cong's truce, and more were expected. But allied sweeps failed to flush any sizable enemy forces.

Wary lest the enemy loose an onslaught as it did during a Tet truce last year, the South Vietnamese government had delayed announcement of its own cease-fire.

"Prompted by the love of peace and the respect for the sacred traditions of its people, the government of the Republic of Vietnam declares a 24-hour truce on the occasion of the Ky Dau lunar new year, effective from 6 p.m. Feb. 16, 1969, to 6 p.m. Feb. 17, 1969," a Foreign Ministry statement said. "No offensive operations will be conducted during this period.

"The allied governments have been consulted in this matter and have endorsed the above decision.

"Experiences in previous truces have shown that Communist North Vietnam never complied with the truces. On the contrary, they took advantage of these occasions to attack our armed forces and population, as was the case during the Tet Mau Than (1968).

"In case of violations of the truce by North Vietnam and its auxiliary forces, the government of the Republic of Vietnam will take appropriate measures to assure security for the state and the population."

U.S. officials quickly concurred in the truce, a spokesman saying: "United States troops will observe the period of the suspension."

As the Viet Cong cease-fire began at 7 a.m., two guerrillas fired machine gun bursts at U.S. positions guarding the Y bridge on the southern edge of

Four Charged In Abortion Raids Friday

KANSASCITY (AP) — Preliminary hearings have been scheduled for Feb. 20 for four men charged with abortion following a Friday night police raid on a mid-town makeshift hospital.

Police say 11 young women, ranging in age from 17 to 22, were in the ground-floor office at 1806 Baltimore when the place was raided. Their identities were not disclosed, but authorities say they came to Kansas City from various parts of the country including Colorado, Florida, Iowa, Illinois and the Kansas City area.

All the girls have been hospitalized.

Joseph Teasdale, Jackson County prosecutor, identified the four men charged with abortion as William H. Carlos, 46 a former osteopath in Kansas City; Veto Crabtree, 32, Kansas City, a chiropractor; Robert E. Whitney, 45, an Overland Park, Kan., chiropractor; and Stephen S. Dobson, 48, a Kansas City chiropractor.

Teasdale said Carlos and Crabtree were on the scene when the raid took place. Whitney and Dobson who already had been charged were taken into custody Saturday.

Bond of $2,500 each was set.

Teasdale said several of the girls told him abortion procedures had already begun when the raid occurred.

Sunday cloudy southwest, snow ending elsewhere. Highs from the upper 20s to the low 30s. Mostly cloudy Sunday night and Monday. A little warmer Monday.

Sees GOP Supplanting Democrats

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Saturday night that Republicans are forging a new political alliance to supplant the Democratic coalition that has dominated national politics for more than 30 years.

"People are simply unaware that the old Democratic alignment built on the America of the 1930s cannot appeal or apply to the America of the 1960s," Agnew said.

He assailed the Democratic coalition, whose major elements have been organized labor, the South, the cities and minority groups, as "a 'Tin Lizzie' vehicle that cannot work . . . a mystique that has lost its magic and its myth."

Agnew's speech was prepared for a meeting of the Missouri Association of Republicans.

Terming the Republican coalition "an All-American Alliance," Agnew said it is "based on ideas rather than income; on philosophy rather than geography; on identification with the values shared by all Americans rather than the interests held by any special group of Americans.

"This All-American Alliance," he said, "is composed of the children and grandchildren of immigrants who are more interested in where their country is going in the future than where their families came from in the past.

"The old politics of our grandfathers is dead and the new politics of our sons and grandsons is rising," he said.

The vice president listed as major components in the Republican alliance blue collar workers who "now seek to consolidate and build upon the fruits of their labor"; the South; "the responsible youth of this country who strive for a resurgence of individualism"; older Americans; black Americans; "the new liberal who interprets progress not as more government for the people but more government of the people and by the people"; and "that great majority of Americans who are often called the forgotten Americans.

Scouts Wind Up Week

A week of Scouting activity in Sedalia was climaxed at 10 a.m. Saturday with a flag-raising ceremony in front of the Pettis County courthouse.

Marred only slightly by snow flurries and cold wind the brief ceremony was highlighted by an appearance by Mayor Ralph Walker, who accepted a framed copy of his proclamation for Scout week.

A brief address was delivered by Scoutmaster Bill Deuel of Troop 56, Heber Hunt PTA. Webelos Leader Earl Bell, Pack 57, Mark Twain School, was in charge of the color guard.

District Commissioner Joe Wright prepared the Scout lineup and Dr. James Burkeholder and Robert Edmonds had charge of the program.

The flag was raised by Jerry Young, Second Class Scout from Troop 150, RLDS Church; Cub Scout Scott Flippin, Pack 165, Den 7, Washington School PTA; Life Scout Tim Salmon, Post 66, First Christian Church; Life Scout Charles Dale, Post 66, First Christian Church; Cub Scout Dale Hinken, Pack 165, Den 3, Washington School PTA; and Scout Dennis Kerns, Troop 61, Trinity Lutheran Church.

Scout Ceremony

Sedalia's observance of Boy Scout Week was terminated here with a flag raising ceremony in front of the Pettis County Courthouse Saturday morning. Participating in the ceremony were, left to right, Second Class Scout Jerry Young; Cub Scout Scott Flippin; Life Scouts Tim Salmon and Charles Dale; Cub Scout Dale Hinken and Scout Dennis Kerns. Several Items Added To Case Against Shaw

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A puff of smoke, muddy footprints and a housewife's reaction to gunfire were added Saturday to Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's case against Clay Shaw, charged with conspiring to assassinate President John F. Kennedy.

These items are part of Garrison's evidence that Kennedy died in a conspiratorial crossfire and not at the hands of Lee Harvey Oswald alone as the Warren Commission said. Shaw, 55, is being tried on a charge that he conspired in 1963 with Oswald and David W. Ferrie, both now dead, to kill Kennedy.

Prosecution evidence in the trial's fourth week included a home movie of the slaying—which the jury has seen seven times in two days—and testimony about Kennedy falling backward when shot, about two men with a gun and an Oswald accomplice in fleeing the scene.

The trial adjourned before noon Saturday when the state ran out of witnesses. Former Texas Gov. John B. Connally and his wife are scheduled to testify Monday. Connally was wounded by the gunfire that killed Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963, in Dallas' Dealey Plaza.

A tall Texan was the first of three state witnesses called Saturday in the effort to show that Oswald, who purportedly fired from a sixth floor window, was not the lone assassin.

J. L. Simmons of Mesquite, Tex., a postal worker, testified he saw what looked like a puff of smoke on Dealey Plaza's grassy knoll when Kennedy was shot.

"After I heard the shots, I looked to see if I could see where they were coming from," Simmons said. "Right up under the trees, I detected what appeared to be smoke, or just a puff of smoke."

Simmons said he was standing atop the triple underpass over Elm Street facing the presidential motorcade. When he heard the shots and saw the smoke, he said he walked along a fence to the suspicious spot.

He found a lot of muddy footprints, he said. On cross-examination, Simmons said these could have been left by spectators. He was not looking at the spot before the shooting, he said.

Guarantees Nixon Security in Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Mayor Klaus Schuetz declared Saturday the dignity and security of President Nixon is guaranteed for his Feb. 27 visit to West Berlin.

The mayor gave this assurance in an interview with the newspaper Morgenpost on a day marked by further street demonstrations by the city's rambunctious New Left.

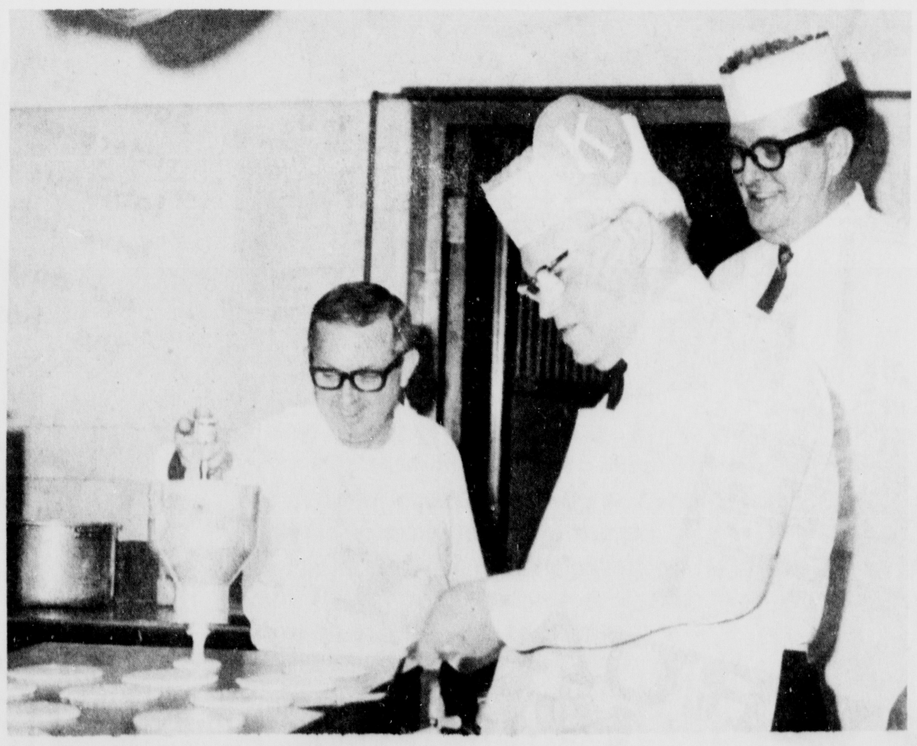

The leftist student leadership at the Technical University of Berlin called on students and young workers Friday to demonstrate against the U.S. chief executive when he shows up here on his European tour.

A U.S. presidential jet, a Boeing 707, practiced landings at the mid-city Tempelhof airfield despite snowy weather. Witnesses said it touched down and rolled in three times.

Tempelhof is ringed by high apartments and the runway of about 5,000 feet is shorter than those at the outlying Tegel airfield. But if Nixon could land safely at Tempelhof it would save time on his tight schedule.

More than 2,000 leftist marched in the snow, clashed sporadically with police and shouted slogans at the Spanish consulate against Gen. Francisco Franco's regime.

The United States, Britain and France share responsibility for the security of West Berlin, 110 miles inside Communist East Germany.

Another Success

The Sedalia Kiwanis Club's Annual Pancake Day Saturday at Sacred Heart Cafeteria was another big success this year, with many people sampling the good food offered up to 7 p.m. Shown above are Herb Taylor, left, with the makings of a new pancake, while Henry Salveter turns one over as Gene Landon "supervises." Proceeds from the annual affair are reserved for the benefit of underpriviledged children and work for boys and girls sponsored by Kiwanians. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Second Concert Of Season Set Monday

The second concert of the 33rd consecutive season of the Sedalia Symphony Orchestra will open at 8 p.m. Monday in the Smith-Cotton auditorium.

Abe Rosenthal, conductor, will direct the orchestra in a mixed classical and light program. Mimi Allen, noted harpist, will be the guest soloist.

Admission will be by season ticket or door sales, with adult tickets at $2 and students, $1.

The stage in the gymnasium of St. Paul's Lutheran School will be the setting for two dramatic presentations Tuesday, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

An operetta entitled "Cabbage Patch Magic" will be presented by the children of the primary grades, under the direction of Mrs. Herbert VonStrohe.

Later in the evening, students from grades six and seven will put on a play entitled "It's Cold In Them Thar Hills," a hillbilly comedy in one act, under the direction of Cliff Koenig.

Entertainment between the acts of the operetta will be provided by Mrs. Mueller's morning and afternoon kindergarten groups.

There will be no admission charge. However, a free-will offering will be taken, which has been designated for the debt retirement fund of the school gymnasium.

The public is invited.

Louisiana Officials Indicted

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Louisiana's attorney general, a state legislator and two other men have been indicted on charges of obtaining money and property by fraud and conspiracy.

The 16-count indictment returned Friday by a federal grand jury stemmed from the bankruptcy of the Louisiana Loan & Thrift Corp., which had about 1,400 depositors and deposits of $2.5 million.

Jack P.F. Gremillion, state attorney general since 1954, said, "I am deeply shocked and surprised at the indictments. I will be completely vindicated."

The indictment accuses the five defendants of making false statements to prospective purchasers to stimulate sales of LL&T bond investment certificates and of diverting money from the firm to their own benefit.

It lists one count of conspiracy and five counts each of mail fraud. Fraud in the sale of securities and sale of unregistered securities are listed in the 25-page indictment.

State Rep. Salvador Anzelmo, 45, a New Orleans attorney; Joseph H. Kavanaugh, 35, of Baton Rouge, counsel for the State Public Service Commission and a former assistant attorney general; Charles H. Ritchey, 30, a lawyer from the New Orleans suburb of Metairie; and Earnest H. Bartlett, 29, of Fort Smith, Ark., chief executive officer and chairman of LL&T's board of directors, were the others named in the indictment.

Youth Will Take Larger Role in World's Affairs

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A U.N. study predicts that before the end of the 1970s the generation conflict "will assume proportions nor previously imagined" and that youth will begin to predominate in world affairs.

The 80-page report, the first detailed review of youth problems by the United Nations, was made public Friday. It will be considered next week by the U.N.'s 32-member Commission for Social Development.

The report notes that many young people today are resorting to antisocial behavior because of frustration, but concludes that in general the world's youth want to participate in national development.

"What appears to be a problem may actually be development potential," it says.

The youth, defined in the study as including those between 12 and 25, already total more than 500 million. With the present rate of increase, the report estimates this figure will rise by 150 million during the next decade.

"With a younger world population," the report says, "it is not inconceivable that the world will develop faster and advance further than ever before. We have already observed that this is a new kind of population ready for change, open to new ideas, prepared to make sacrifices and take risks."

The report states that "what is being done—or not being done—for youth, with youth and by youth" is perhaps the most important yardstick for judging the effectiveness of economic and social development plans in all countries.

Unless governments of both developed and developing countries take younger people into full account, it continues, plans for economic and social development "are themselves on trial." It urges that the young not be dismissed as a "minority group."

Youth's increasing demand to participate is responsible for the spreading student revolts, the study says, citing demonstrations in more than 50 countries lat year.

"The younger generation seems, by and large," it says, "to have lost confidence in the capacity of the older generation to guide affairs without some assistance and planning from young people who believe their views are worth considering."

The report was prepared by unidentified staff members of the U.N. secretariat.

Ann Landers

Angry Feelings Need Releasing

Dear Ann Landers: Perhaps I can help the woman who had a terrible problem with her child when a second baby arrived. I lived through a very difficult time until I hit on a solution.

Our son was two and a half years old when his little sister was born. I had to remain with them constantly to catch flying objects and prevent him from pinching and hitting her. After months of policing the boy I could stand it no longer. I became so angry I came within inches of spanking the living daylights out of him.

Suddenly I realized that if I, an adult, could not contain my anger, how could I expect a two and a half year old child to contain his? When I get very angry I feel like striking out at something. So I reasoned if he were half as angry as I, he must feel like striking out at something, too.

I made a game of it. When we became angry we went together and kicked all the soft furniture in the room. Then we kicked the floor as hard as we could.

You can't believe the change that came over this boy. Within days he was a wonderful child again. Please tell parents not to intensify a child's anger by spanking him. Instead show him to direct his anger toward an inanimate object — and get rid of it. — HOOSIER STATE MOM

Dear Mom: Hostile feelings must be released. If children could be taught to vent their anger against furniture and not other people, they would grow up to be healthier and happier adults and we could close some of our reform schools and penitentiaries.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter Mary was going steady with Arthur. After he left for Vietnam they exchanged letters three times a week.

Then Chuck appeared on the scene. Her letters to Arthur fell off. Chuck kept pressing to be her one and only. Mary stopped writing to Arthur completely.

Four months later Mary accepted a diamond from Chuck and the wedding plans were set. Then Arthur came home. Mary saw him on the sly and the poor girl was a wreck. She couldn't make up her mind which boy she loved. Until the day of the wedding I wasn't sure she'd go through with it.

Well, Mary did marry Chuck and that was eight months ago. Last week she told me she made a mistake. She says Chuck is a bore and she is in love with Arthur. She is sure if she divorces Chuck, Arthur will marry her although she has not seen him since the wedding.

I am ashamed to go to a preacher with this. You can't imagine how it hurts a mother's heart to see her 19-year-old looking for a second husband already. What can I do? — SHATTERED MOM

Dear Mom: Nothing. This is your daughter's problem. Unfortunately Mary wasn't ready for marriage. If she chucks Chuck and marries Arthur she'll probably decide in eight months that Arthur is a bore. This girl has a lot of growing up to do before she can be a fit wife for anybody.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Drop Seen In Turkey Inventory

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Missouri turkey raisers had a sharply curtailed number of birds on hand at the beginning of 1969 compared with the number Jan. 1, 1968. And the value of the turkeys was down from $1,644,000 on Jan. 1 last year to $1,173,000 this year.

The Crop and Livestock Reporting Service calculated the number of turkeys in Missouri this year at 247,000, a 29 per cent drop from the 346,000 on hand Jan. 1, 1968.

The inventory of livestock and poultry was generally down except for hogs.

But the value of livestock and poultry on Missouri farms was up 8 per cent reaching $860,710,000 this year compared with $798,857,000 at the beginning of last year.

The hog inventory was 4,257,000 beginning 1969, up 2 per cent from 4,174,000 last year.

Chickens declined from 8,133,000 to 7,982,000. Sheep and lambs decreased 8 per cent to 306,000 from 330,000. The number of milk cows decreased, the number of beef cattle increased slightly and the all cattle inventory was 4,748,000, the same as a year ago.

Tight Rein On Money Is Urged

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Rep. E. J. (Lucky) Catrell, D-Overland, said today he wants his House Appropriations Committee to eliminate arbitrarily any money requests for programs that have not been formally authorized by law.

He said the budget for the coming fiscal year is sprinkled with requests from state agencies for money to finance programs that never have been authorized. He blamed the federal government for much of the problem.

Cantrell said a federal grant will be offered some state department to start a new program. The federal money will finance it in full. But later on, after the program is established, federal funds will be reduced or cut off. That forces the state agency to ask for an appropriation out of state funds.

He cited an expaned driver training program started by the Education Department as an example, but said there are many others. He declared he personally was going to tell agency heads if they wanted state money for some new program they first must get the program authorized by state law.

He said the Appropriations Committee doesn't have time to consider the merits of the programs—that should be done by law.

Accidents

A 1961 Ford owned by Sandra Jones, 107 East Morgan, was involved in a hit-and-run accident while parked at 106 East Johnson at 10:21 p.m. Friday.

The left rear of the Ford was damaged in the collision.

A two-car accident occurred on the IGA parking lot at 10:14 a.m. Saturday.

Involved were a parked 1967 Ford owned by George R. Reese, 1406 East 16th, and a 1963 Chevrolet driven by Marcus K. Kitch, 17, 1620 West 14th.

The right side of the Ford and the right rear of the Chevrolet were damaged in the collision.

Four young persons escaped serious injury when the auto in which they were riding left the roadway about two miles east of Highway 65 on Route V at 2:07 p.m. Saturday.

According to the Missouri State Highway Patrol, a 1965 Ford Mustang, driven west on Route V by Richard Posey, 19, Garden, Kan., left the road on the left side and slid broadside into a tree just off the pavement. The car was demolished.

The injured were taken to Bothwell Hospital by the Sedalia Ambulance Service. Posey and two passengers, Donald Hunnel, 20, Sunrise Beach, and Jack Baker, 20, Sunrise Beach, were treated for minor bruises and abrasions and released.

Donna Baker, 17, wife of Jack Baker, sustained a fractured left leg and was given emergency treatment by Dr. A. R. Maddox and Dr. Elliot Braverman and admitted to the hospital. She is scheduled for surgery today.

Darnell's wrecker removed the car from the scene.

Posey was issued a patrol summons for careless and imprudent driving for failure to keep to the right side of the road.

Trooper Joe Dayringer investigated the accident.

Sheriff Report

L.W. Buess, Lincoln, Neb., reported Thursday night someone stole his briefcase containing a diamond ring, some cash and important papers.

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax was notified Friday that a man believed by authorities to have taken the items belonging to Buess left Holiday Inn without paying his bill amounting to $32.13.

In his investigation Farifax learned that a subject had bought clothes amounting to $65.15 at the Colonial Shop in the Thompson Hills Shopping Center and paid for them with a check reportedly forged in Buess's name.

It was also learned Friday that a subject identifying himself as L. W. Buess tried to purchase an airplane ticket in Kansas City to Detroit, Mich., and when the teller became suspicious of the man and called a guard the man left without his credentials, later identified as those of Buess.

Sheriff Fairfax reported that he is following up several leads on the incident.

Dies In Collision North of Marshall

MARSHALL, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. Laura Nease, age unknown, of Grand Pass, Mo., died Friday night several hours after a two-car accident at the intersection of M-41 and M-122 north of Marshall.

Investigating troopers said the Nease auto pulled from M-122 into the path of the Anglen car.

CMS Fine Arts Festival Features Top Attractions

WARRENSBURG — The 1969 fine arts festival at CentralState College, "Sight-Sound 2," features the production of two award winning one-act plays and the world premiere of an original American opera. The festival runs Monday through Thursday.

Being produce during the four-day festival are the one-acts "Kiss a Grog," by Steven M. Vizney, and "What Do You Tell the Laughing Wind?" by Robert K. Anderson. The two original plays won top honors in a national playwriting contest sponsored by Per-Se magazine. The world premier of the one-acts was Feb. 13, with the plays also being staged Feb. 14, 15, 18, 19, and 21. Curtain time for all productions is 8 p.m. and admission is free.

"Ismene," an original American opera, is the work of three CMSC faculty members, Dr. Donald Bohlen, assistant professor music; Dr. Robert Jones, associate professor of English; and Richard Monson, assistant professor of art. It will have its world premier on the opening evening of "Sight-Sound 2," Monday. The opera will be staged again on Thursday.

Sight for the production of the original opera is Utt Recital Hall, with curtain time set for 8:15 p.m. Also featured in the opera is the CMSC Opera Ensemble under the direction of Dr. Daniel Scott, associate professor vocal music.

Other activities scheduled during the festival include the continuous showing of contemporary art films, Tuesday in the College Union Conference Center. Additional films will be shown on Wednesday.

A Gallery Concert at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, will feature faculty and students from the Music Department in a program of musical selections written by modern composers. Also as a part of this program, student poets representing the Writer's Union and Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, will read original compositions.

Activities scheduled for Wednesday include a jazz concert presented by the Faculty Jazz Ensemble, the showing of additional art films, and the repeat performance of the two award winning plays.

The final day of the festival features a second permormance of the opera "Ismene" with the production again being staged in Utt Recital Hall at 8:15 p.m.

On display during the festival will be a faculty art show in Grinstead Gallery spotlighting work by the 11 members of the CMSC art faculty.

Students' paintings, designs, ceramics, and sculpture will also be exhibited duringthe fine arts festival. The student art is a special display and will be exhibited in the conference Center of the College Union.

The purpose of Sight-Sound 2 is to focus attention on the atmosphere of creativity and performance that is brought to the campus by the faculty and students in the fine Arts Divisions of the college.

The public is invited to take part in all of the "Sight-Sound 2" programs.

Hayakawa's Flamboyance a Part Of Role

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — S.I. Hayakawa signs his name with a bold, flamboyant flourish, each period a conspicuous black dot. He was taught more conservative penmanship, but then Hayakawa is not, and never was, a conservative.

"You might say," says he, hands jammed in the pockets of an avacado pinstriped suit, "I'm arty."

Hayakawa is an acting college president, the jaunty, controversial fellow who wore a plaid Tam O'Shanter to riots, put flower pots in his conference room, wore an orchid lei to meet the press, and blasted dissident students with: "Get the hell out of here."

He was named acting president of San Francisco State College last November, succeeding Dr. Robert R. Smith, who resigned during student disorders, faculty dissension and repeated campus closures involving militant Negro students and sympathetic faculty members. He was selected for the post by the board of trustees of the California state colleges.

At the height of student protest on the campus, he suggested on-duty police festoon themselves with flower garlands, the sign of peace to hippies. He asked college trustees to invite Mahalia Jackson to sing in the quad, to soothe wayward souls.

He reluctantly gave up driving his red Alfa Romeo sports car in favor of police escort. Yet threats and criticism have not subdued his showman's flair for a spicy phrase or the unexpected.

Invited as a guest to the KQED television program "Newsroom," viewed in San Francisco, he was inteviewed as part of an hour-long program focusing on campus problems. He didn't stay long.

Five minutes after his interview began, he denounced the questioners as "enemies," pounded his fists on the table and, with untold thousands watching, stomped off the set.

"You're a hero to some, a son-of-a-bitch to others," says a salty, undaunted Hayakawa.

Whether one agrees or disagrees with his approach, he's nonetheless effective in one respect: drawing unprecedented attention to San Francisco State. People around the country began to ask "Is he real?" "Is he fake?" "What's going on at San Francisco State?"

Issues in the San Francisco State dispute are complex and brittle, ranging from a demand for more minority students to reinstatement of a Black Panther teacher, suspended for suggesting Negro students carry guns. Strikers, both students and some faculty, refuse peace offers. They say their 15 demands are non-negotiable.

"Lots of colleges have militant students," says one college professor, "but, for better or worse, no one else has Hayakawa."

To fans, he's a cause celebre, a dimunitive Don Quixote wielding a sword for academic freedom, steeled in his belief that a teacher's duty is to teach, a student's duty is to learn. And the school, at all costs, must remain open.

Critics say he's making a mockery of education.

Hayakawa's launch-pad into the national spotlight probably occurred most vividly the day he leaped atop a student sound truck, tam on his head and fiery of manner, ripped the sound system asunder and told a throng of students to shut up.

"This is a self-revealing job," Hayakawa said in an interview at his office. "I've found out some things about myself that I didn't know."

When he leans back in his black leather swivel chair, his feet barely touch the floor. He's an unassuming 5 feet 6 with thinning salt and pepper hair, a neatly trimmed moustache and thick tortoise shell glasses. He looks younger than his 62 years.

Women find him charming. Men says he tells a crafty joke.

"I've always known I was patient," he said, "but I didn't know I could move as fast as I can. Like when I ripped those wires."

He grins impishly, goes to his office refrigerator and peers in. There are hard boiled eggs, kippers, rolls and beer. He takes out a snack. He's not very good at sitting, he says. He paces to and fro.

"I've found that when a situation involves challenge or danger, I dress up for it," he said.

"For instance, I wore a real good suit today, a brand new necktie and shirt and my I. Magnin vest. I've bought two new suits in a month. I never buy two new suits in a month."

"The tam," he continues. "Same thing. Dress up." He wears the tam nearly every day, even to the state capitol to visit Gov. Ronald Reagan. He bought it several years ago for fun, now admits it comes in handy.

Hayakawa has been involved with causes before, as a columnist for the Negro newspaper "The Defender," as an organizer of the Anti-Digit Dialing League to preserve telephone prefixes, as jazz critic, and as a parent in mental retardation. One of his three children is a mongoloid.

He describes himself as one "seized by a terrible sense of duty in life." He's a fisherman, art collector, fences weekly to keep his 150-odd pounds trim, then splurges by cooking Oriental dishes for his wife, Marge.

In news conferences, he's a professional, wearing pastel tones for the cameras. He reads news releases, handed out prior to his arrival, with gusto, as if telling a thrilling bedtime story.

Both friends and critics say sometimes he talks to much.

The day nine persons were hurt in campus violence, he said, "It's the most exciting thing since my 10th birthday, when I rode a roller coaster for the first time."

On a recent network television interview program, he said he thought some teachers backed student revolts because alientation "is a literary fashion among intellectuals now. If you want to spit in the eye of the Establishment, you are praised for it, you are told you are a bright boy."

He added that striking teachers who return to class with the start of the spring term Feb. 17 will be reinstated, although their salary will be docked for their time on strike.

After 14 years on the faculty, he now teaches but one class, a Monday night seminar. There are waiting lists for his courses.

As acting college president, much of his life since last Nov. 26 has been restricted to room 103, a persimmon colored office behind a locked door in the administration building. A security officer stands guard. Police once used tear gas and drawn pistols to drive yelling students from room 10 .

His office overlooks the green belly of the campus, spread out across a hillside shaded with redwood and pine, ringed by picturesque Bay Area homes. He lives in a split level home nearby.

Sometimes he stands silently at the window, watching the unaware on the outside.

"It's as if a whole generation of young people—militant white and black young people—have missed part of their education. Namely, how to resolve disagreement." He twirls the large turquoise ring on the middle finger of his left hand.

"Maybe we could blame Little League baseball," Hayakawa says.

"I've noticed kids are over-supervised in Little League baseball. They can't resolve a fight over whether a strike's a strike without an adult referee. No adult, no ballgame. A whole bunch of kids nowadays don't know how to solve problems on their own."

Hayakawa's appointment raised a howl when it bypassed the Presidential Selection Committee, of which he is a member. It's said he didn't even know the names of the college deans. He admits he has never administered anything.

His major credentials appear to have been the public drubbing he gave school officials only 10 days before he took office.

Duty to Life

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of San Francisco State College, is nothing if not positive in his devotion to duty, as he sees it. He is shown here dealing with conflict by direct action. He had ordered sound equipment kept off the campus during a period of student unrest; when it was brought in, he leaped on to the truck and dismantled it himself. His aim is simple. The school must remain open at all costs. (AP)

Noticeable Action

Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of San Francisco State College, is an uncompromising champion of academic freedom — to teach and to learn. He adopts unorthodox tactics to impose order on his own troubled campus. This includes dressing for danger; part of his response to challenge or danger is to dress up for it. The tam o'shanter he is wearing here is part of his battle dress, and is now almost as well known as he is. (AP)

Charles Lazenby

OYF Award Presented By Jaycees

Pettis County's Outstanding Young Farmer of the year, Charles Lazenby, Route 2, Hughesville, was awarded his trophy and plaque Thursday night at a meeting of the Sedalia Jaycees at the Bothwell Hotel.

Lazenby, who farms several hundred acres near Dresden, was unable to attend the Jaycee Distinguished Service Awards banquet last month, at which time his selection for the honor was announced.

The program of the evening was presented by Kenneth Hintz, Wellsville, Mo., field consultant for the Missouri Heart Association, who showed a color film, "Twentieth Century Epidemic," on heart and vascular diseases.

Hintz pointed out that Pettis County is the highest county in the state in per capita giving to the Heart Fund. He also pointed out that the incidence of deaths here from heart disease is less than 49 per cent, one of the lowest in the state.

Hintz was introduced by Dennis Onwiler, Pettis County Heart Fund chairman.

The Jaycee of the Month award for February was presented to Ronald Dale, a new member.

Dave Robinette and Ted Brown reported on the State Jaycee Mock Legislature held in Jefferson City last weekend, at which Jaycees participated as senators and representatives to learn more about the legislative process.

Dr. Robert Edmonds, local pediatrician, was welcomed as a new member.

President Barry Williams, whose wife had given birth that morning to twin boys, presided.

New Red Cross First Aid Course

Pettis County Chapter of the American Red Cross, is offering a standard first aid course with Dale Philliber as instructor. The class starts Feb. 19 and will be held at the Farm and Home Building, Fifth and Osage, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. for five weeks. There is no charge for the instruction but a Red Cross First Aid Textbook, costing 75 cents, is required. Anyone interested may call 827-0618, to enroll.

Will Show a Film At NAACP Meeting

A film on Social Security, followed by a question and answer period, will be the program at a meeting of the NAACP at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Taylor Chapel United Methodist Church, 400 North Lamine. A representative of the local Social Security office will be present.

Mrs. Elnora Green, president, will preside.

Leigh Hunt, Percy Bysshe Shelley and John Keats were called the "Cockney Poets."

Dr. McIlrath To Address Sorosis

Dr. Patricia McIlrath, chairman of the Department of Speech and Theatre, University of Missouri at Kansas City, will be the speaker at Sororsis Monday at 2 p.m. at Heard Memorial Club House. She will take for her subject: "The Need for a Regional Professional Theatre in Missouri."

Dr. McIlrath received her B.A. with history major from Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa; her M.A. from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. in speech and theatre; and Ph.D., Stanford University, Stanford, Calif., theatre major, and English minor.

Her previous academic experience includes: teacher and director of theatre in Houston, Mo., Batavia, Ill., and Webster Groves, Mo.; assistant in theatre, director, Downtown Campus, Thorne Hall Theatre, Northwestern University, Chicago; instructor in speech and theatre, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.; lecturer in speech, Stanford University; assistant professor, speech and theatre, University of Urbana, Ill.; assistant professor of speech and theatre, University of Kansas City; and professor of speech and theatre UMKC.

Dr. McIlrath's professional affiliations include: American Association of University Professors, American Education Theatre Association, American National Theatre and Academy, Speech Association of America, Speech Association of Missouri, Children's Theatre Conference, American Association of University Women, Central State Speech Association, Speech Association of Kansas City.

Her honors include Zeta Phi Eta, Pi Epsilon Delta (National Collegiate Players), Associate Editor, "Quarterly Journal of Speech;" "Who's Who of American Women." "Who's Who in the Midwest;" "Who's Who in American Theatre;" member of the Legislative Assembly, Speech Association of America; former president, Speech Association of Missouri; former member of Advisory Council, National Children's Theatre Conference; member, Governor's Committee on The Arts, 1963-64; Missouri Council on the Arts, 1963-64-68.

Effort to Give Negro Just Place in History

WASHINGTON (AP) — An intense campaign is under way in the nation's schools and universities to restore the Negro to the pages of American history where his role in the past has been frequently inscribed with invisible ink.

Major school systems, colleges and universities—many of them in the South—are changing texts and curricula to adopt more Negro history and to reflect this nation's pluralistic society.

The effort is for the most part the work of enlightened educators but also is partially the result of demands from Negro leaders and community authorities and from legislators attuned to Negro voters.

Operating on the fringe are those who see opportunity in economic exploitation of black history.

"It's pathetic," says Seattle School District Director of Social Studies Armand Golang. "This is too important a topic to exploit. But we've reached a peak. We are oversaturated with material and too much of it is no good—too much of it is a publisher trying to make a buck."

The prestigious Lincoln Filene Center for Citizenship and Public Affairs at Tufts University has just completed a federally financed research project on instructional material and teaching strategies for dealing with race in American life.

Correlating results of the research, the Center's John S. Gibson reported: "It is generally assumed that instructional materials which have pictures of black students, stories about blacks in the suburbs and considerable emphasis on key black figures of history serve to make a substantial improvement in the teaching and learning about democratic human relations. This assumption is invalid."

The Lincoln Filene Center research, Gibson said, demonstrated that it is more effective to give a child a realistic understanding of past and present by including contributions to the development of America by people from a wide variety of groupings and nations.

Textbook publishers, Gibson says, can make significant contributions by focusing their materials on "the realities of life in our society and a balanced presentation of man and society in tl : United States yesterday and today."

Dr. Joseph Applegate, director for African studies, believes many schools and colleges are hurriedly adopting African culture courses under pressure and without a clear idea of what they're getting into.

"In a way, it's like the frantic activity which took place in some fields after the Russians put up Sputnik 1," Applegate says. "There were Russian departments and Russian studies springing up all over the place. But eventually things settled down, just as they will in this area of Afro-American studies. We will attain a greater expertise in this field and then we will have an extra dimension gleaned from the ideas contributed by a totally different culture."

Other factors besides a search for identify are involved in Negro student demands for courses in African culture and language, Applegate says.

"What many people call the search for identity is something else," he adds. "It's the idea that the students want to get information from sources which have been neglected. These sources may be people from Africa or they may lie in material many people would toss aside as worthless.

"But a great many of these students identify themselves, after all, as Americans. Still, they want to get ideas which may be quite different from those they have been able to acquire for ordinary sources available to them in the past."

In Seattle, Golang also believes the time is past for looking at the need for compensatory courses on the Negro solely from a quanitative point of view.

"We have to look at it qualitatively," he says, "what we need to do is incorporate black history into regular American history. To kids who demand separate Afro-American courses, I say: 'You are at 9 a.m. yesterday when it is 4 p.m. today.' "

Demands for establishment of independent African departments—with student authority to hire and fire teachers—has led to disturbances in some university campuses.

These demands have been made by the more militant black students joined by radical white student organizations.

But Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has said that "black students asking for black automony within colleges is another version of Jim Crow segregation."

These campus disturbances are considered by many educators as incidental to the principal issue which is the overwhelming trend to spread the instruction of the Negro's role in American history in schools, colleges and universities across the land.

Seattle has introduced elective black history courses at most high schools and incorporated "minority history" into social studies classes in elementary and junior high schools.

All colleges in the Seattle area offer at least one elective course in black history.

Seattle's Garfield High School, with an enrollment 55 per cent Negro, offers the city's most extensive black studies program, including courses in Afro—American history, black art history, African dance, Swahili and an anthropology class on origins of the Negro race.

New university programs in Afro-American studies include a program at Yale under which students will be able to major in the field during their four undergraduate years.

Anticipating objections that the new program may have been stimulated by political rather than intellectual motivations, a Yale spokesman said:

"The only valid justification for the program, and the only one advanced by those who propose this major, is that it fulfills legitimate educational needs at Yale and meets the standards we expect in all our majors. It is hard to say which is the most appalling, the ignorance of whites about black people or the ignorance of Afro-Americans about their own experience."

Study of the Negro in U.S. history is required at Illinois State University, Cornell is establishing a new Afro-American studies program and three courses on black culture have been instituted at the University of Montana.

Enrollment in a University of Minnesota course in "Race and Nationality in American History" has jumped from 30 to more than 200, and the University of Pennsylvania is offering a wide spectrum of courses on the Negro in American culture, including "The Negro in Revolt" and "Race Relations in the United States."

Northwestern University's curriculum now includes four new undergraduate courses on African culture; Harvard has established seminar courses in Afro-American history and the University of South Carolina this year offers "Geography 501," a course for juniors, seniors and graduate students on economic development and urbanization in Africa.

South Carolina University plans to establish in addition a Language and Area Center for studies of Africa south of the Sahara.

Indiana University this year launched a year-long look at social, political and economic contributions of black Americans in a series of courses labelled: "Focus: Black America."

P.T. Baker, administrative director of instruction for schools in Austin, Tex., acknowledges that a shortage of qualified teachers is a major problem in trying to step up instruction in this area.

"We are moving into the subject more every week," says Baker. "But, being brutally frank, our teachers are not qualified to go very deeply into this."

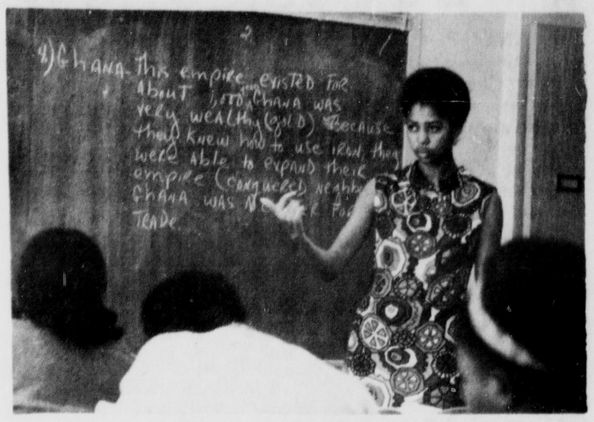

To help meet the problem Austin has instituted a series of training lectures for social studies teachers.

As for texts there is disagreement among publishers regarding whether sufficient materials are available to meet increasing demands for Afro-American courses at all school levels.

Spokesmen for Holt, Rinehart and Winston Inc. and for Prentice-Hall said they have taken a hard look at the subject and have "attempted to integrate materials on the issue."

They concede, however, that neither company yet offers anything dealing specifically with Afro-American history.

A spokesman for Houghtor Mifflin Co. said the demand for materials dealing with Afro-American culture has been extremely active not only in recent months but for the past few years.

African Culture

There is an overhwelming trend to spread the teaching of the Negro's role in American history through schools, colleges and universities across the land.

Dubcek Shows Confidence

VIENNA (AP) — Moscow appears to have slackened its reins on Czechoslovakia's liberal leaders but Soviet occupation troops can tighten the reins at any time.

Prague's Communist party boss Alexander Dubcek, condemned by the Kremlin as a "revisionist" after the August invasion, has reappeared as the political strongman with an ideological offensive supporting the reform ideas that brought him to power in January 1968.

In a speech this week at his home town of Uhrovec, Slovakia, Dubcek said the nation's post-January reforms should not only be defended but pursued. He declared that communism in Czechoslovakia must continue to develop according to the country's liberal and democratic traditions.

"It will be no help for us to defend the post-January policy," said Dubcek. "It is necessary to develop all values of the post-January policy in our confrontation with the present, more complicated reality."

It was a marked change from other speeches by Czechoslovak leaders since the invasion. They had promised to try to retain some of the freedoms gained before the Soviet tanks rolled in, but also urged caution and warned the people not to hope for too much too soon.

Dubcek spoke like a man sure of his position. A week earlier he confidently told a meeting of high army officers that the Prague leadership had overcome "perhaps the most serious crisis since August." Dubcek also urged cleansing the party apparatus of conservatives who disagree with the party line.

The two speeches led observers to conclude the 47-year-old Dubcek had weathered a major confrontation with pro-Moscow hardliners and emerged on top, at least for the present.

East European sources said the confrontation came at the time of the death and funeral of Jan Palach, the Czechoslovak student who immolated himself to protest loss of freedoms under the Soviet occupation.

The sources said Czechoslovak conservatives tried to use the unrest in the country following Palach's death to stage a palace revolution against Dubcek. Their reported candidate for a replacement was Jan Piller, a member of the ruling party Presidium and a conservative, but not considered a Kremlin puppet like some hardliners.

According to one report, the plot never got off the ground because the Soviet leadership refused to give its blessing. This strengthened Dubcek, but Moscow's men remain in the background.

The Day Is Long In Biafra

UMUAHIA, Biafra (AP) — Umuahia comes to life each day long before the whistling, croaking sounds of the bush night have died away.

In predawn darkness, candles flicker on in low stucco buildings as Umuahians seek out the news on short-wave radios. At 6 a.m., housewives are already picking through the stalls in the twisting alleys of the market, and at 7 the banks are open.

Bombs occasionally fall when the sun is high, so the people in this last of Biafra's administrative centers have pushed forward their daily activities. The streets are relatively clear later in the day.

It is an example of how life can be made to go on in what is left of Biafra, the secessionist republic surrounded for months by Nigerian federal forces. The Biafrans moved their government and military establishments here after Aba fell last August.

It was an unlikely capital, a sprawling agricultural center of 30,000 persons, straight dirt roads and low buildings with tin roofs.

In hotels, apartment blocks, private villas and even trailers, an army of neatly dressed government secretaries and clerks zip mounds of official correspondence through chattering typewriters.

Electricity is shaky but often available until late at night. One of several portable generators was bombed and out of commission for weeks. It was repaired and works now.

Cars are plentiful, although many have to be started by pushing because of the scarcity of batteries. Gasoline, although rationed, is available for $2.40 a gallon.

There is no more beer at any price, but milky white palm wine is plentiful and cheap.

Many families, especially refugees from elsewhere, have fled to the bush because of the bombing. Many others are staying, and the town is still crowded with perhaps three times its original population.

Yet Umuahia presents no picture of panic. There has been some pilfering, officials say, but no serious outbreaks of robbery or looting. No weapons were see among the traders on a visit to the market. Although the nearest front to Umuahia is about 35 miles away, a feeling of security seems to pervade the town.

Tanjore Regarded As Omen of Danger

NEW DELHI (AP) — One of the most grisly clashes in recent Indian history has riveted attention on a looming dilemma for this heavily populated country —the perils of agricultural prosperity for a few, coexisting with the relative poverty of many.

On Christmas Day in the Tanjore district of Madras State, 20 children, 19 women and 3 men —all untouchables—were burned to death in a large hut in which they had taken refuge.

The 42 victims were landless farmhands and their children. Their slayers were hired hands of landlords, with whom the untouchables had been bargaining for higher wages.

The raid that razed the untouchables' village was launched in retaliation for the Christmas Eve murder of a worker loyal to a landlord.

This killing, in turn, was an indirect attack on the landlords who, refusing wage demands, brought in outside labor to harvest rice.

The Tanjore clashes, disquieting in their own right, have reverberated throughout government and diplomatic circles here because they appear to be omens of strife in the countryside, where 435 million of India's 530 million citizens live.

Several political parties—first among them India's Left Communist party and uncounted Maoist sects—are eager to galvanize the underdog side of an emerging class struggle.

Tanjore is south India's rice bowl. Thanks to fertilizers and new high-yielding seeds, the district produces the biggest rice crops per acre in the country.

Agricultural experts in and out of government agree that the fundamental lever of change in Tanjore is the "green revolution" that has brought real wealth to the richer landowners and opened the eyes of the poor and landless peasants to what might be theirs, but isn't.

The green revolution has also brought stable prices in tandem with increased productivity. The result, experts stress, is that the rich farmer no longer has the lucrative, open-ended seller's market of only a year ago.

Moreover, fertilizer costs have risen, as demand for fertilizers has risen faster than supply.

So the rich landlord considers himself in a squeeze.

When, as in Tanjore, his laborers demand a one-third raise in salary—in keeping with production rises—the farmer's reaction is to look elsewhere for labor, one commodity that is in large supply.

With population increasing by 13 million annually, landless laborers seem likely to increase faster than jobs for them. There are about 36 million landless laborers in India—about 23 per cent of the agricultural work force.

Though about 112 million farmers own their own land, only those wealthy enough to purchase fertilizers, irrigation equipment and new seeds are contributing to and benefiting from the green revolution.

Private Club Discrimination Is Under Fire By Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Supreme Court appeal that could begin to crumble the last great citadel of discrimination—private clubs—has won the potent support of the Justice Department.

Moving much as it did before another landmark civil rights decision a year ago, the government Friday jumped to the assistance of two Negro women who claimed they were banned from a nominally private swim club in Arkansas.

In the earlier case, a private suit was elevated to a government crusade when the Justice Department backed a plea brought by a racially mixed St. Louis couple who were unable to buy the house they wanted.

The result was the monumental court decision last June that more than 100 years ago Congress had prohibited racial discrimination in housing sales and rentals.

The government is basing its argument in the current case on the same law which gave Negroes freed in the Civil War the right to "make and enforce contracts without discrimination."

The women, Mrs. Doris Daniel and Mrs. Rosalyn Kyles, want to use Lake Nixon, a club 12 miles west of Little Rock that offers swimming, picnicking, boating, sun bathing and miniature golf.

The club charges a membership fee of 25 cents, giving it a private character beyond the reach, so far, of modern-day civil rights law.

Entering the case as a "friend of the court," the Justice Department insisted the 1866 law "prohibits all private, racially motivated conduct which denies or interferes with the Negroes' right to enter into contracts to purchase that which is freely sold to white citizens. That membership in the Lake Nixon Club is a contractual relationship can hardly be denied."

The government said the equal accommodations section of the 1964 civil rights law also forces Lake Nixon—and nominally private clubs like it—to open their doors to Negro members.

The reason, the government said, is that by importing juke boxes, records and 15 paddle boats from out of state and by serving interstate travelers at a snack bar, the club is in interstate commerce and therefore forbidden to discriminate.

As welcome as the Nixon administration's action will be to civil rights forces, it goes just so far.

It does not encompass what the government called bona fide private clubs. "Purely social or personal arrangements are beyond the intended reach of the 1866 law," the department said.

Swearngins Observe 74th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Swearngin, Lincoln, will observe their 74th wedding anniversary on Feb. 24. The following day, will be Mrs. Swearngin's 94th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Swearngin have four children, Mrs. Roberta Mothersbaugh, Windsor; Mrs. Helen Peterson, Orlando, Fla.; Ernest Swearngin, Sedalia; Guy C. Swearngin, Warsaw.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Swearngin are quite well for their age and are looking forward to welcoming friends and relatives on their anniversary.

Quintet to Play Here

The Young Audience's, Inc., Kansas City Brass Quintet, sponsored by Sacred Heart grade school and the Missouri State Council on the Arts, will give a concert Monday at the school at 12:30 p.m.

The concert is the fourth in a series of five. The Hollander String Quintet, the Kansas City Woodwinds and the Lyric Opera Group performed earlier this school year, the latter to return for a performance at 1:45 p.m. Feb. 26.

The ensembles make possible the presentation of live music to school children through the use of the dialogue method, thus involving them and evoking questions throughout the program, according to Young Audiences, Inc.

Schools interested in arranging such programs may write: Kansas City Chapter of Young Audiences, Mrs. Michael Spielman, Executive Director, 3514 W. 78th Street, Prairie Village, Kan., 66208, or call 913-MI9-1605, a Young Audiences release reports.

Prep Schools Exist, But Few Thrive

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The American boys' prep school—a small but significant and seemingly secure outpost—has read some unsettling handwriting on the blackboard.

John Esty, headmaster of the prestigious Taft School, has said: "During the next 25 years all but a few of the leading private secondary schools will vanish."

Not every one ranks Esty as the Nostradamus of the Ivy League's Little League, but they know what lies behind his prophecy. Economic, social and academic uncertainties are challenging the boarding schools. This raises two questions:

1—Can they survive?

2—Should they?

The answers lie in whether the independent boarding schools can maintain financing. And whether in a volatile society, they can maintain relevance, a tired but true term.

At first glance the prep schools appear as timeless and safe as bank vaults: Well-to-do, trustworthy places to leave Junior while his voice changes and he gets ready to take on Yale and, later, Wall Street.

Just the other day a young chap in a three-button blazer told an inquirer that he had come to the affluence of St. Paul's School in Concord, N.H., "because my father came here, his father came here and it's a good way to get into Harvard."

These rareied repositories of tradition—where one still can actually find teen-aged boys reading Cicero in the original, going to bed at 10 p.m. and surviving on the worst cooking in the United States—are alive and abiding on their accustomed mountaintops and village greens in New England (and, occasionally, elsewhere, although a prep school, like a Maine lobster, somehow just doesn't look right too far south of the Housatonic River).

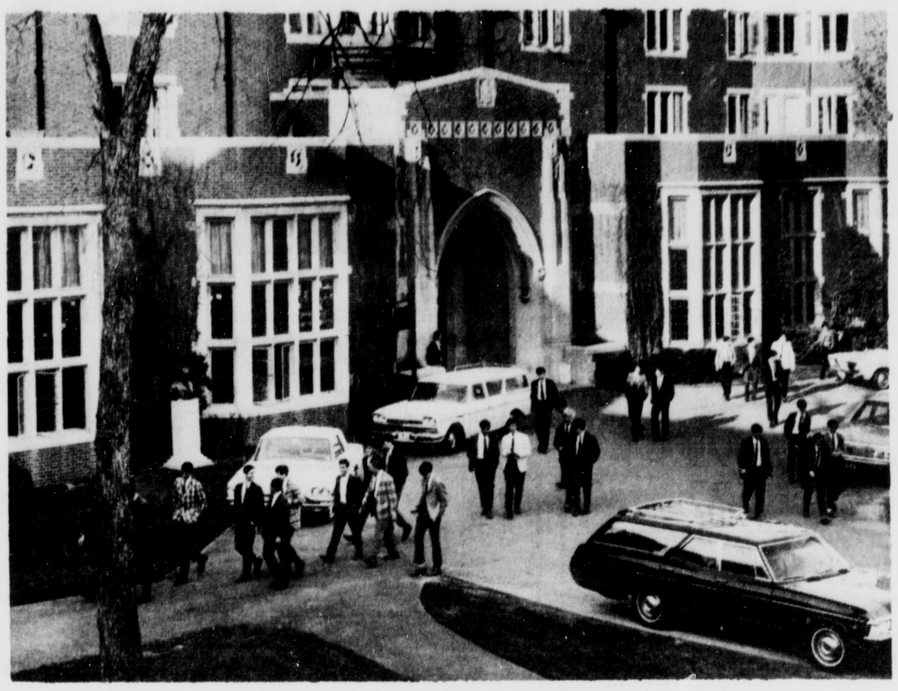

But beneath their Georgian brick or white clapboard the boarding schools are changing.

True, you still find an abundance of gilt-edged sons of Weschester or Fairfield counties, Lake Forest, Grosse Pointe.

True, white Anglo-Saxon Protestants preponderate. But ... the son of the only black family in a town in Rhode Island chose to attend St. Paul's so he could get to know some other Negroes.

The athlete with his letter sweater is now more of a campus character than campus hero. "When I talk to a ringer (athlete)," said Phil Pasmanick of Exeter, not entirely in jest, 'I speak slowly so he won't think I'm calling signals."

"Preppies," as they mockingly call themselves, still get into the Ivy league but Negroes now have as good a chance as whites. "Colleges really want us black cats," said Ridgely Banks, an Exeter halfback. They do.

Dignified Facade

At Taft School, Watertown, Conn., students stroll in front of Charles Phelps Hall. Taft is one of the independent boarding schools, American boys' prep schools, whose futures are challenged by questions of survival. The problems are solvency and social relevancy. The best of the schools are dealing well with both. (AP) sex—long on "saint" and short on sex.

Compulsory chapel has been made less so on many campuses after a chorus of clamor from students. And the schoolmasters, fearful that they may lose students to those schools where the girls are—or are not far from—are casting coltish glances at the seminaries down the road.

While none of this may exactly equal the 'Frisco quake, it is relatively earth-shaking in the basically conservative prep school world.

The prep schools manage considerable diversity. Look under "P." There is Portsmouth Priory —Catholic, monk-taught; Putney —levis, coed and do-your-own-thing; Phillips Andover-big, $50-million rich, highly competitive; Pomfret—a name that echoes with oak-panelling and vaulted chapel but actually is a school with a 10 per cent Negro enrollment.

The average school, however, numbers something like 300 boys, charges yearly tuition of up to $3,500 and guarantees nothing except that tuition will go up next year. By number the prep school element has long been small, by influence large. There are about 30,000 boys currently in boarding schools, less than one-half a per cent of America's secondary school population. Most of these schools—115—belong to the National Association of Independent Schools (NAIS) as do 45 girls' and 35 coed institutions.

They are the direct descendants of the first schools established in America: Private academies organized by the Massachusetts Bay Colony with a strong tie to scholastic and church tradition of England's boarding schools that persists to today. (Witness any Sunday the striped school ties, blazer crests and Episcopalean tinge in the chapel hymnal.)

Other ties developed in the 19th century when specific boarding schools "prepped" boys to pass entrance exams of specific colleges: e.g. Andover for Yale, Exeter for Harvard and Lawrenceville for Princeton. The development of the general College Board entrance exam weakened these ties and the steadily growing acceptance of high school students into the Ivy League after World War II diminished them still further.

"The day is gone," says Bruce McClellan, the "head" of Lawrenceville, "when you could offer rigorous classes, chapel, a football team and a pass into the Ivy League."

Says the Rev. Matthew Warren, rector of St. Paul's: "If you can't be good, why bother?"

According to Esty's forecast, many won't have to. "Only those schools which are already strong and which plan now for their future shape and financial strength will survive."

For all their seeming solidity, with money in the bank and ivy on the walls, even the moderately well-to-do, such as St. George's, are vulnerable to economic events beyond the campus. "If there is a recession, we could be in trouble very quickly," says Harman.

Recession or no, prep schools are already experiencing economic strain. McClellan thinks Lawrenceville's deficit will rise tenfold by 1975. 'We're going to need an additional $18.5 million by then," he said.

At Hotchkiss with endowment ($19,200 for each of its 370 boys) tuition has gone up $600 to a total of $3,400 in the last six years.

"I don't see it levelling off until the cost of living does," says headmaster William Olsen.

The causes are not just higher prices for such staples as dormitories, milk and Bunsen burners. The schools are paying more for their students in the form of scholarship aid to maintain and-or broaden economic diversity of their student bodies.

"You'll turn every cent you can," says Warren of St. Paul's, "to avoid being accused of existing only for the very rich."

Taft, therefore, is spending $190,000 of its $1.4 million budget on scholarship aid, double what it did five years ago. Mt. Hermon, in Northfield, Mass., with a long tradition of taking less-than-affluent boys, spends a whopping $482,000 for the half of its 652 students who get scholarship aid. To help pay the freight, it raised $5.5 million five years ago and is now out for another $5 million.

"The upper middle class is always going to be able to afford them," said William Berkeley, director of the A Better Chance program which recruits poverty students for prep schools. "The question is the partial scholarship, the one whose parents earn $12,000 to $15,000."

Today's Scene

At Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, N.H., students pause for a few minutes of conversation between classes. In the background is the Academy building, which houses classrooms and the chapel. Exeter is one of the richer prep schools, but still faces contemporary problems. Budgeting is a big headache currently for most of the prep schools, due to economic events beyond the campus. (AP)

The Woolworth Library of Taft School, Watertown, Conn., presents a scene of tranquility. The atmosphere conveyed is in keeping with the well-established idea of the independent boarding schools as repositories of tradition, timeless and safe as bank vaults. (AP)

Smoking is still a hanging offense: Pot, not tobacco. "Any one who doesn't think he has a drug problem doesn't know what's going on in his school," said Archer Harman, headmaster of St. George's in Newport, R.I.

Wall Street is as appealing to today's preppie as "Silas Marner." "Business is a bad word," said an instructor at an old-line school. "I don't know who's going to run General Motors in 2000, but he won't be from here."

Headmasters, whose predecessors once read Dickens and Hugo to their charges before bedtime, are now out on the road to raise money. Their students, newly liberated by a more benign attitude towards the weekend, are on the road to the nearest city to raise whatever.

The students have not yet staged sit-ins in the headmaster's den, but many are restive. They find life at St. Grottlesex a blanket term woven from St. Mark's, Groton and Middle-

Life in Fallout Shelter Would Not Be Much Fun

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — While world leaders grapple with the grand and awesome issues of nuclear weapons, somebody else is stuck with the comparatively niggling problems posed if somebody does push that button.

Little things like how long could you survive in a fallout shelter packed with 48 persons in a temperature of 90 degrees and a relative humidity of 80 per cent with so many boxes of crackers and so many containers of water.

It's glamorous but essential things like that which concern personnel of Kansas State University's Institute for Environmental Research.

"To put it bluntly," said Prof. Preston E. McNall Jr., head of the department of mechanical engineering and associate director of the institute, "we're supposed to figure how many people would die if they had to stay in a given type of shelter for a certain period of time."

McNall, a husky, pipe-smoking thermal engineer, has bookcases loaded with results of four years of fallout shelter experiments the institute has been conducting for the Office of Civil Defense.

Most of the tests deal with the effects of heat and humidity on shelter occupants related to the amount of work they can perform, the quantity of food they eat, the amount of water they drink and other factors.

Answers to these and other questions are found by placing varying numbers of people in a specially equipped 12x24-foot room where heat, humidity and other conditions can be strictly controlled and physical changes in the occupants carefully recorded.

It's not much of a room to look at.

The walls are bilious yellow, the floor covered with scraggly strips of dingy gray carpet and the ceiling festooned with ugly light fixtures.

But if you wanted to duplicate the test chamber and its accompanying equipment, it would cost something like $150,000.

Volunteers for the experiment earn from $1.25 an hour for short stays in the simulated fallout shelter up to $200 for those who stick it out for five days.

There was one subject who appeared during the screening process to be the mildest of men. He objected to nothing, talked softly and agreed with whatever was suggested.

But once inside the shelter, he quickly became noisy, belligerent, and generally made a thorough nuisance of himself.

"If we could identify people like that ahead of time, it would be very helpful in a real emergency situation," mused Rohles, "but unfortunately we don't know how to do that yet."

Shelter occupants also have performed some odd actions en masse. During a five-day test, the subjects concluded about the third day that the lights were giving off heat and it would be more comfortable in the dark.

So for about 30 hours they sat, talked, ate and slept in total darkness—apparently oblivious to the fact it didn't lower the temperature a single degree. Institute personnel compensated for the heat lost from the lights by pumping more hot air into the room.

Test subjects soon learned it's difficult, if not impossible, to maintain a high level of mental activity under simulated fallout shelter conditions.

Occupants who had planned to while away the time playing bridge, chess or some other intellectually stimulating game soon dropped all that and idled through the hours with dominoes or simple card games.

One youth who intended to keep a meticulous diary of everything that went on in the shelter tossed the book aside after about eight hours.

Another student protested vehemently that he had been tricked, because the room temperature was 86 degrees instead of the 84 reading originally mentioned. He finally left the room before the experiment was over.

One study involved packing packing 48 young men—many of them school dropouts, parolees and delinquents — into the shelter room at a temperature of 96 degrees.

"It was pure bedlam," reported one observer. "You wouldn't believe the swearing, the arguing and the fights that went on in there. Heat is certainly a factor in bringing out latent aggressive behavior."

Institute personnel were intrigued to learn that during one long stay in the shelter, during which occupants suffered all manner of physical inconveniences, the thing they wanted most was to wash their hands before they ate. A supply of chemically treated soap cloths raised morale sharply.

Rohles emphasized the experiments are designed solely to show how the bodies of healthy persons react to fallout shelter conditions — not necessarily how everyone would fare.

"If we could go out on the street, grab 20 people at random—young, old, sick and well—and stick them in a shelter we might really have something," he explained. "But we can't do that."

The psychologist paused and added:

"But if they prove nothing else, our tests help point out how much we don't know about this creature called man."

Czech-Vatican Talks Opened, Reports Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI disclosed today that the Vatican and Czechoslovakia's government have opened negotiations to improve relations between the Roman Catholic Church and the Communist regime in Prague.

The pontiff made the disclosure in a special audience for more than 1,000 Roman Catholics who came here on a religious pilgrimage from Czechoslovakia.

The pontiff voiced hopes for religious and civil peace in Czechoslovakia.

Then he added: "The first steps undertaken reinforce our faith, and the good will displayed so far is a good sign."

This was the Pope's first public word that formal talks had started between the Vatican and the Prague regime on Church-state issues.

Earlier the Pope celebrated Mass with cardinals and bishops from Communist countries in a show of papal support for the people of Czechoslovakia.

Hong Kong has an area of 398 square miles.

Easter Seal To Be Headed By Mrs. Swezy

Mrs. Peggy Swezy, of 2412 South Quincy, will serve as chairman of the 1969 Easter Seal campaign in Pettis County, March 1 through Easter Sunday, April 6.

The traditional Easter Seals will be mailed with 13,000 appeal letters seeking support for treatment and rehabilitation services for physically handicapped children and adults in the county.

Ninety per cent of every dollar received is spent for direct and indirect services.

The local campaign and Easter Seal program are conducted by the Pettis County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, a voluntary agency.

Will Let Girls Into Fraternity

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity at the University of Michigan announced Thursday it will admit 20 girls as members in the fall. The girls will live in a separate wing of the house and the fraternity will hire a married couple to chaperone the house.

Aid Schemes Secondary To River's Importance

BEN TRE, Vietnam (AP) — It took just 24 hours to destroy this Mekong Delta community one year ago. Bombs, rockets and shells blasted the center of Ben Tre and the suburbs. A U.S. Army major here at the time said the city "had to be destroyed to be saved" from a horde of Viet Cong attacking in the Tet offensive.

The saving has come slowly. Only a handful of buildings in the center have been rebuilt. Most people just crudely patched up the holes.

And a three-day visit to the community 60 miles south of Saigon indicates the people see more hope in a little shack by the sluggish Ben Tre River than they do in the government and American aid schemes designed to improve their future welfare.

Living in the shack is the most popular of the local soothsayers, a wispy-bearded, bent old man who for 20 piasters—17 cents—predicts: "The year of the rooster will bring peace to Vietnam."

By the lunar zodiac the year of the rooster begins Monday.

The soothsayer's predictions have special appeal for people who have lived in Ben Tre for years.

"They want an end to the war, to the fighting," said a young Vietnamese lieutenant who has been here six months.

"The Tet destruction, the fighting, remains a living reality to these people," commented a young U.S. aid official. "The hope is for peace. Only the rich, and the government officials, want special terms for peace. They want their security guaranteed. For the rest of the people, peace will be acceptable on any terms."

The Tet holocaust that rolled across Ben Tre and three other major delta cities last February destroyed forever the fable that the Viet Cong were content with the large chunks of delta countryside they controlled, and were not particularly interested in the cities.

In Ben Tre 7,254 of the less than 11,000 homes were destroyed. Most of them were thatched-roofed places that were eventually rebuilt with the 10 bags of cement and 10 sheets of roofing iron provided each family.

The government has no plans to rebuild the ruined larger homes and business premises.

The 43,000 refugees left homeless after the battle included most of the city population of 34,000 plus people from nearby hamlets whose homes were razed. For months the refugees lived in crude conditions. Now only 8,000 remain, and they will be resettled soon.

The total number of civilians killed in Ben Tre has never been pinned down—mainly because whole families were wiped out in some homes and no records were kept of them.

Up to late last year, local records show, a total of 1 million piasters had been paid out to relatives of 366 persons of all ages killed in the city. That works out at roughly $23 a head indemnity. The 500 civilians wounded in Ben Tre received $12 each.

Government officials and Americans say that similar situations now are not possible, particularly since the U.S. Army's 9th Division has a brigade of infantry stationed in the Ben Tre area.

But the Americans add: given the same problem, namely a hostile force occupying most of the city and threatening the last strongholds of American and Vietnamese resistance, massive firepower would again be called in.

"Don't forget that the Viet Cong started the whole thing in the first place by entering the city and starting the fight," one senior American official said.

"The people of Ben Tre remember the helicopters and the bombers, but they remember that the Viet Cong by their presence brought them there. They hate the Viet Cong more."

Kipp Hosts Meeting Of Rose Society

Henry Kipp of Stover was host to the Sedalia Rose Society for their February meeting in the Pine Room of the Coffee Pot Cafe. A dessert course was served to 17 members.

After a short business meeting conducted by Everett Stumpf, president, the program was turned over to Mrs. James Richardson, 2226 West First Street Terrace, whose subject was "New Roses." Mrs. Richardson also had some 1969 rose catalogues on display showing pictures of and including the new All-American Rose Selections for 1969.

Commenting on each of the 1969 all-American rose selections, she said, "Angel Face is a vigorous floribunda rose with a double ruffled bloom of rich lavender color and very fragrant. Commanche is a fiery red rose with high centered blooms of orange red and with an over-all scarlet red effect. The blooms are four inches in diameter of 50 or more petals and fragrant.

"Gene Boerner is a very special 1969 all-American winner. It is a clear pink floribunda and a free blooming plant that stays literally covered with flowers throughout the season. The stems are 10 to 12 inches long thus making it a good cutting rose.

"Pascali is a winner of nine international awards. It is a pure white hybrid tea rose. The name of this rose symbolizes the meaning of Easter. The plant is essentially mildew proof. The bloom has a delicate fragrance."

The exhibit for the meeting "Cupid and Hearts" was displayed by Mrs. James Richardson and Mrs. P.L. Strole, each having an arrangement of hand made satin roses in a cupid container.

The March meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Smith of Otterville.

Offbeat Festival Is Coming

OCEAN SHORES, Wash. (AP) — It's about time for the second annual February Fog Festival and Paul Cornwell and his crew are hoping the sun doesn't come out and spoil everything.

"The weather here is looking very bad indeed," Cornwell reports with downright satisfaction. "We are confident the weather for the Fog Festival will be just beautiful"—meaning lousy to most folks.

Cornwell, known around this southwest Washington Pacific resort as "Leakyboot," dreamed up the festival idea with a few others to liven up a month normally about as exciting as wet sand.

The memory of last year's first annual FFF still rankles because, as Cornwell recalls, "Ocean Shores had a fearsome week of fine, clear weather."

What is a February Fog Festival? Well, it's anything from shooting fish in a rain barrel, a possible competitive event this year, to the planned "First Annual Kick-the-Can Superbowl."

The main event for the FFF on Feb. 22-23, of course, will be the annual North American Mid-Winter wading championships on Sunday.

That's a "soggy socks spectacular," Cornwell explains, "which sends intrepid competitors dashing 100 yards into the Pacific Ocean surf, around a pole and back, through waves up to seven feet high."

Last year 19 contestants assaulted the briny in this event, Cornwell says, and if they tended to turn a bit blue they knew they would be warmed by streams of hot water from an "Official contest reheater" at the finish.

"It's absolutely breath-taking," says one old-timer. "After one of them waders takes three steps in that water, they ain't nobody in the world can tell whether he's walkin' on goose feathers or crunched up carpet tacks."

S-C Students And Madrigal Give Program

Mrs. Jim Harms was hostess to Beta Tau Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Thursday evening, Feb. 13. The hostess was in charge of the program and introduced Mrs. Marilyn Van Horn, speech instructor at Smith-Cotton High School.

Mrs. Van Horn presented five of her speech students. They were: Con Chapman and Jon Jackson who interpreted a cutting from, "The Odd Couple," Bill Fingland who gave a humorous interpretation from, "Barefoot Boy With Cheek," and Cindy Van Horn who presented an interpretation about women of history, in which she portrayed Cleopatra, the Mona Lisa, and Betsy Ross.

The program finale was a visit from the Smith-Cotton Madrical Singers, who sang three selections.

Mrs. Deanna Franklin, president, presided at the business meeting and announced that Beta Tau members had been invited to contribute to the "International Cookbook on Meat and Cheese Dishes."

A service project was discussed and it was decided to investigate needs at Buena Vista.

The chapter women voted to invite their husbands to the Founder's Day banquet and dance, April 26.

Mrs. Glenda Glimpse, who is moving to Brookfield, was presented a farewell gift from her sorority sisters.

Secret sisters were revealed and different names were drawn for the year.

Mrs. Mary Curry assisted the hostess with refreshments.

ROY G. CHAPPELL, 804 Ruth Ann Drive, former district manager of the Sedalia - Warrensburg area for Modern American Life Insurance Co., has been promoted to vice-president of the state of Oklahoma. Chappell, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orin Chappell, Route 4, is a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School and the University of Missouri, Columbia.

'Knife at Throat' Of College Dean

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said Friday that a dean of admissions at a California institution enrolled 40 students while other students held knives at his throat.

"Thirty-five students made up a list of 40 people they wanted admitted and brought it to the dean and stood there with switchblades at his throat until he admitted them," Reagan said.

Neither Reagan nor his press secretary, Paul Beck, gave any details, including the people involved or the name of the school. Officials of the state's college and university systems said they knew nothing of the report.

Reagan made the statement at an Exchange Club meeting, then at a question-and-answer session with students at Newport Harbor High School.

With Nixon For Neighbor, Things are Real Peaceful

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — There's been a distinct absence of door-to-door peddlers at John Hardy's house since President Nixon moved in across the street.

Since the winter White House was established on the coconut palm-shrouded street, Bay Lane has been off limits for everybody but residents and their visitors.

Secret Service agents man a blockade at the head of the road 24 hours a day and make certain nobody wanders in. Residents must show their identification each time they pass.

"It can be annoying to be stopped when you're in a hurry," says Hardy, "but the advantages far outweigh the disadvantages."

"For instance," added Hardy, a British steamship agent, "It's fascinating to watch the President come and go. There are no itinerant salesmen and the security here is great."

Bay Lane is on Key Biscayne, an island on Biscayne Bay about four miles from downtown Miami. Like many other upper class residential areas, its had its share of burglaries. But not any more, with the security men on hand.

The President owns four homes and leases another on the Bay Side of the block-long, dead-end road. His complex is well hidden behind a 15-foot high hedge.

Nixon's not much of a yard man, says Hardy. Whenever he's outside, he usually walks on the beach or wades in the surf.

Boaters must stay at least 500 yards away from the President's beach and aircraft are forbidden to fly low over his part of the island.

Judd in Suspense

Carl Betz is well known enough through his role in the TV series "Judd for the Defense" to be hailed in the street with "Hi, Judd!" However, the Nielsen ratings have not so far provided such incontrovertible evidence of success. Betz is at present waiting to see whether the series will be renewed for a third season. Still, he feels confident enough now to accept the equanimity the final verdict in this personal case. (AP)

That Annual Time Of Waiting Again

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The poet of Ecclesiastes sang philosophically about "a season and a time to every purpose under the heavens." But the men and women who live by a later-day invention, television, have found that something new has been added and it is called "mid-season." For many of them, there is a time to dangle.

An actor named Carl Betz, whose employment record is the envy of his peer group, is currently going through his second actor-in-aspic period in two years. The star of the series "Judd for the Defense," Betz is awaiting the decision of ABC network program executives whether to renew the Friday night series for a third season or whether to root it out of the schedule at the end of next summer's reruns.

Thus, since the first of the year, when the last of 1969's batch of 24 shows was completed, Betz has been on a quasi-holiday—plenty of time for such activities as sun-bathing at Acapulco, making personal appearances around the country, working with architects, builders and interior decorators on the remodeling plans for his recently-purchased Santa Monica home. And for worrying about "Judd."

All he wants now is to know whether, come spring, he will again plunge into the seven-day-a-week grind playing a flamboyant Houston lawyer in a courtroom series or will he be scurrying around investigating film or stage offers.

"Last year, we didn't get the word until about the middle of March," Betz recalls. "We frankly didn't know whether we'd be renewed."

"Judd for the Defense," however, has had a ragged career in the critical Nielsen ratings. While it has received generally good critical notices, it has started two successive Septembers with failing grades in the vital Nielsen averages. But this has occurred primarily because it has been opposite CBS' Friday night movies. For the first few months of each season the ABC series was thrown against the second half of a series of star-studded powerhouse film features that attracted the lion's share of audiences.

Previous experience showed, however, that after mid-season, when the lesser movies and the turkeys turned up or when film runs appeared, "Judd" suddenly became healthy and started climbing the ratings ladder, sometimes as high as the top 10 or 20.

The mid-January Nielsens, however, have not shown much evidence of this spontaneous improvement although some cautious ABC executives still believe the odds for the series' survival at 3-to-1.

New Rule May Cut Sales on Sundays

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Prosecuting attorney Hugh A. Sprague today placed a new rule in effect which he hopes will discourage violations of the Sunday sales law.

It reads:

"Until further notice, the prosecuting attorney's office will not prosecute bad check complaints submitted to this office by individuals of business concerns engaged in continued, overt and purposeful violation of the Sunday sales law."

Show Sponsorship Given for Reason

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Can a generous serving of GBS make TRW as well known as IBM at MIT?

This, in abbreviated form, is one question on the minds of people at TRW Inc. formerly Thompson Remo Wooldridge as they wait for final returns on "By George," a Broadway production which TRW sponsored on a tour of 40 college campuses.

There were some raised eyebrows in the corridors at TRW when plans were announced last fall to sponsor the tour of British actor Max Adrian's one-man show at a cost of around 180,000.

"By George" is actually a reading of excerpts from the works of George Bernard Shaw, who was a socialist and a critic of Big Business.

And TRW is Big Business, with sales of more than $1 billion a year in automotive, electronics and aerospace products.

The sceptics at TRW were less concerned with the Shaw philosophy than with the question of what $80,000 worth of GBS would mean in practical terms for TRW.

When the tour opened Oct. 28 on the MIT campus at Cambridge, Mass., "We heard comments from campus recuriters such as, 'What we couldn't do with $90,000!'" says William J. Moran, assistant director of corporate relations.

"By George" has amade converts out of some of the sceptics.

TRW is still awaiting results of campus opinion surveys, but Moran says recruiters already can measure the effectiveness of the project in minutes—the minutes it takes to explain TRW to a potential recruit.

TRW representatives face a problem that recruiters from firms such as General Motors, General Electric and General Foods don't have—TRW has no consumer products and thus is not widely known to the general public.

"Interviewers had to spend 20 minutes explaining what TRW was," Moran noted.

But he insists that such practical matters were not in the minds of those responsible for the "By George" tour.

"There is a need to find new ways of reaching students and faculty members," said Moran.

"There is a new dimension to business and industry. I don't think the depth is really seen."

Putting Adrian's show on the road for big business was the brainchild of a New York ad agency man. When the idea was presented, "We literally jumped at the opportunity," says Robert A. Newman, director of corporate relations and public affairs.

"We wanted to knock down some of the old antibusiness campus cliches that give the youngsters of America an unfair and distorted impression of what the modern business environment is like today."

"Business has changed dramatically in recent years," says Newman. "So has the environment on college campuses, as current events indicate. But there has been no corresponding change in the content of the mentods of communications between these two interlocking institutions . . . There seems to be a widening communications gap here . . . ."

The tour concluded Jan. 29 at the University of Detroit, and Newman estimates that the show was seen by some 50,000 students and faculty members—although this is a guess since there were no ticket sales in most places where it was shown.

TRW took ads in campus newspapers to promote the show and took followup ads to explain why TRW got involved with "that Socialist, George Bernard Shaw" and, incidentally, to tell a little bit about the company.

"The man GBS is a mind-opener and we TRW thrive, corporately speaking, on open minds," the ad states.

Will TRW sponsor more cultural events for the campus crowd? Apparently no one will have any answers for that one until the final critical notice—the one from the opinion survey—is in.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Police say a man wearing only tennis shoes walked into the bedroom Friday of three girls who live in a Northside apartment. When one girl bit him on the arm and another threw a stuffed teddy bear at him, the nude fled out the apartment's front door, the police said.

Legion Post Hosts Supper

CALIFORNIA — A large crowd attended the covered dish supper preceding the February American Legion and Auxiliary meetings of Jobe-Elliott Post 17. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Woodard attended as new members. Hostesses were Mrs. Clarence Pummill, Mrs. Paul Hill and Mrs. Hattie Geier.

Twenty-four members were present at the auxiliary business meeting. President, Mrs. Ott Wells, welcomed Mrs. Woodard. Mrs. Tom Neuburger reported a total of 87 members, eleven of which are new.

Get well cards were sent to Mrs. L. V. Morrow, Russellville, and Mrs. John Hinkel.

A donation was given toward the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Washington, D.C. Donations were also given to Boy's Town, St. James, Mo., and the Centennial Floral Hall at the California Fair Grounds.

A dinner will be served to the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The legion birthday will be observed at the March meeting.

Mrs. Henry Ziehmer gave instruction concerning proper treatment of the flag and Mrs. Wells read the story of George Washington.

Five centuries ago, bakere considered thieves because so many gave dishonest weight. Therefore, honest bakers made it a practice to give 13 buns instead of 12, giving rise to the expression of "baker's dozen."

WSCS Views Films

SMITHTON — On Feb. 6, Mrs. William Green, president of the Smithton United Methodist WSCS opened the meeting in Fellowship Hall with a meditation from Chapter 11, Peter 5-7.

During the business meeting Mrs. Joe Verts, treasurer gave her report. Dates of future district meetings were given by the president. The secretary, Mrs. Clarence J. Hiltenburg, read her report and also read thank you notes. Mrs. Hazel Demand was elected delegate to the WSCS Conference March 20-21 in Springfield. Mrs. Virgil Quint is the alternate.

Mrs. George W. Meyer continued the study, "New Forms of Missions." A film, "The Captive" was shown by Rev. George W. Meyer. Impressions and suggestions of the film and characters were given by the audience. The study session closed with silent prayer.

The table grace for the noon meal was given by Rev. George W. Meyer. Hostess for the meal was the Mary-Martha Circle. Chairman was Mrs. Virgil Quint was assisted by Mrs. Euel Muschaney and Mrs. William Ratje. Valentines decorated the dinner tables and the piano. A golden cross and world mobiles on a royal blue table cloth trimmed the worship center.

The afternoon session opened with a song, accompanied by Mrs. Joe Davis, pianist. Mrs. Hazel Demand and Mrs. John Colvin were the leaders for the afternoon program. Mrs. John Colvin and Mrs. Shelby Kahrs gave a Valentine devotional skit.

The program topic was "What and Who is a Misionary?" and "Missionary Work in Different Countries." Those helping with the program were Mrs. August Oehrke, Mrs. Bob McCandless, Mrs. Frank Page and Miss Laura Kruse.

A film, "India" was shown by Rev. Meyer. A devotional and prayer by Mrs. William Ratje closed the program.

A visitor to the society was Mark Griffin.

Quotable Women

by THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"I was one of the guys. I was always afraid Vince would suit me up one day."—Mrs. Vince Lombardi commenting on life with her famous husband-football coach.

"Even if I don't get to be a superstar, as long as I make my own mark and know I've done it on my own, that will make me very happy."—Roslyn Kind, 18-year-old half-sister of Barbra Streisand, beginning a show business career as a singer.

———

"We'll be friendly—like we won't scowl at each other if we meet at a party. But we certainly will never date again."—Actress Jill St. John announcing she would seek a divorce from singer Jack Jones.

———

"When you have finished you are glad, but you want to go right out and play again."—Princess Irene of Greece after a piano concert at the Mormon Tabernacle in Salt Lake City.

———

"Progress is the law of nature. You just have to tune in on it. I knew all along he'd move ahead."—Mrs. J.D. Braman, after the appointment of her husband, mayor of Seattle, to a post in the Nixon administration.

Mrs. Barnes Speaks To Church Women

The Meanest Father...

Remember recent comment here about "The Meanest Mother." We understand it first appeared in the Fairbanks Daily News-Miner, away up in Alaska. Reproduction here stirred considerable comment.

But there is a sequel to it, a companion editorial in which the editor recalled the harrowing experiences of his childhood as the son of a small town newspaper publisher, who "had the weird idea that work was good for kids."

Among other things he published the facts when his sons were caught throwing rocks at street lights and fined $5 each. He couldn't come to their help except to pay the fine and take it out of their weekly salary for delivering newspapers. This invasion of their juvenile privacy caused all the kids in town to laugh, and the culprits were so embarrassed they never did it again.

The editor recalls that even in college there was no time to stir up a campus revolution or try to close down the school, because such wild activity would have interfered with washing dishes at the fraternity house three times a day and playing for dances two or three times a week.

"We've always blamed our father for not making a lot of money and sending us to school with all expenses paid, and a car, and making us miss out on all that fun the kids have nowadays. We could have had real fun destroying the furniture in the college president's office, only if we had done so our father probably would have jerked us out of school and put us to work until we paid for the damage. And if we had been arrested for inciting a riot, or even taking part in one, he'd have played it up big in our home town newspaper.

"Now if that doesn't add up to the meanest father a boy ever had we don't know what does. It makes it just that much more difficult to understand why so many people crowded into the church to pay honor to him when he died at the age of 93...or why the lump appears in our throat each time we think of him, even to this day."

"You Mean We Won't Be Able to Show Those Beautiful People?"

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Draft Decree Blithely Ignored

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's end-the draft directive to the Defense Department has been consigned to the Washington treatmill, where most good ideas spin in hopeless circles.

The brass hats are blithely going ahead, as if they were unaware of the President's wishes, with preparations to draft more men than last year. Even the Marine Corps, which prided itself on maintaining a volunteer force, has asked for draftees to fill its ranks during the year ahead.

Nixon has ordered the Defense Department to "develop a detailed plan" for ending the draft and establishing an all-volunteer Army, Navy and Air Force. In time, of course, the "detailed plan" will emerge from the Pentagon. But it will be endlessly debated and delayed by the Senate and House Armed Services Committees, whose members are courted by and take their cues from the Pentagon.

If they wish to take a vacation to Paris or Hong Kong, the Air Force will fly them there. If they prefer a more leisurely cruise, the Navy will provide a ship. All three services have promoted committee members to exalted ranks in the reserves.

The brass hats have also whispered to the southerners who dominate the Armed Services Committees that a professional army would become largely a Negro army, at least in the noncommissioned ranks. On the question of the draft, therefore, the congressmen who count will pay more attention to the Pentagon than to the President.

—Manpower Waste—

The Armed Forces find it simpler, of course, to draft than to recruit young men. As long as military conscription remains on the books, the services can disdain the bothersome scramble for manpower.

They need not compete with private industry to fill their ranks, nor persuade hesitant prospects to choose a military career, nor worry about the Army's appeal. They merely notify the draft boards how many replacements they need, a system only slightly more sophisticated than the British Navy's method of shanghaiing crews drom waterfront taverns in the 1700s.

The result is an Army of amateurs in the age of specialists, a compulsory force whose rank and file tried valiantly to keep out of uniform and can hardly wait to get back into mufti. Nearly half of the Army's enlisted men are draftees, ripped away from their private prusuits, rushed into training, ramrodded through two years of enforced service, and then released just as they are reaching their peak fighting trim.

It is not only a distasteful but a wasteful system, which virtually guarantees that no more than 43 per cent of the Army will have over one year of experience at any given time.

Note — It costs the taxpayers $50,000 a year to keep an American soldier in Vietnam, 20 times more than the expense of keeping an Asian soldier in the field. For every fighting man, the U.S. has half a dozen others diagnosing his combat effectiveness, analyzing his motivation, committing the results to paper and providing other back-up services.

—Hanoi-U.S. Link—

The FBI and military intelligence have established a definite link between the North Vietnamese and the American rabble-rousers who organized the Chicago Democratic convention riots and the Nixon inaugural demonstrations.

The trouble was provoked on both occasions by the National Mobilization Committee to end the war in Vietnam. After the bottle throwing and Viet Cong flag waving at the inaugural, Hanoi sent a special message of congratulation to the committee.

"We are deeply impressed," declared the message, "by the successful march on Washington during the presidential inaugural day to welcome the victory of the South Vietnam National Front for Liberation and demand the withdrawal of all American troops....

"We extend to you our sincere thanks. We hope that we would further coordinate our activities for peace and real independence in Vietnam."

Note — Demonstration leaders blamed the violence on what they called the "crazies." But intelligence reports charge that the mobilization committee brought in the hard-bitten agitators who provoked the violence.

—Miracle Metal—

Pentagon officials are dismayed over press stories that beryllium, the miracle metal used in missiles and spacecraft, could become a serious health hazard.

It is true that beryllium dust, if inhaled, can cause an incurable lung disease. Those who mine or machine beryllium must take special precautions. There is no danger, however, to anyone who worked around missiles, spacecraft and other equipment containing beryllium parts.

U.S. Beryllium and Beryllium International, which recently merged, have notified their stockholders: "Beryllium together with uranium and thorium are known to be toxic and, as such, for years they have been handled with great care and unusual precautions."

Note — Scare stories about Beryllium could affect the national security. For the remarkable lightweight, heat-resistant metal is involved in highly secret missile research.

—Quick Change—

Admiral Hyman Rickover, the Navy's gadfly, tells graduating students: "You are told by commencement speakers that you have got to go out and change the world. Well, you've got only one year to do it. Next year, another crop of graduates will be told the same thing."

DENVER POST: Our Uncouth Ancestors — Prehistoric man in America, as in Europe and Asia, was an uncouth critter with no regard for his contemporaries, let alone posterity.

Out in southeastern Washington, government and science have just broken ground for a coffeedam to surround a dig where Marms Man — some scientists say — was eaten by his hunter enemies some 11,000 to 13,000 years ago. Quite unintentionally those early Alfred Packers were doing modern science a favor when they roasted Marms Man's ribs, split 'em open for marrow and tossed them on the bone pile.

Why is that? Because such personal remains of early-day Americans are very rare indeed. Real collectors' items, in fact. The niceties of burial rites came later.

America's first settlers left quantities of stone and bone weapons, tools, ornaments as well as skeletal parts of mammoth, bison, elk, deer, but nothing of themselves save by accident.

So, fire-blackened or not, the Marms bones are a real prize. Fortunately an undisturbed layer of mussel shells deposited on top of (and therefore later than) the bonepile has been carbon-dated as 11,000 to 13,000 years old.

The point is, they're the oldest human bones yet found on this continent. Other men were here before Marms, but we know it only because their weapons, tools, ornaments and game bones can be dated in like fashion. Sandia Man is said to have lived in New Mexico more than 20,000 years ago, and Old Mexico claims relics even older.

But let's not be too critical of our forebears. At least they didn't denude the forests, despoil the soil and pollute the air and the waters for generations unborn.

Gen. George Washington said farewell to his officers at Fraunce's Tavern in New York City.

Music was introduced into Shakespeare's plays in songs and as incidental music.

Looking Backward

Miss Edna Broyles, 1802 South Summit Ave., has provided the editor with several pages of a Superintendent's Report cut from a book which remains unidentified. The pages list names of alumni of Sedalia High School of the years 1875 through 1912. Senior citizens and relatives may be interested in the names of the graduates.

Looking Backward starts today with the Class of 1875: Maud Gent, Dora Lamy, Ellen Hackett and Georgia Jackson.

Class of 1881: Lizzie Wagonlander, Anna Devlin, Lucy Reynolds, Allen Sturges, Orlena Heinlein, Leslie Porter, Winnie Armes, May Slaughter, Merritt Yeater, Stella Heinline, Mary Hogue, Fannie Owens, Addie Reed.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

John M. Sneed was elected chairman of the Pettis County Clover and Prosperity conference at the close of the 20th annual meeting at the First Methodist church. Olen Monsees was elected vice-chairman; E.C. Stevens, secretary, and Marvin Goodman, treasurer. The nominating committee was composed of George Wilkerson, P.S. Read and Edwin Heffernan. On the resolutions committee were: Bruce Claycomb, Raymond Kahrs, C.S. Arnold and J. Pierre Lamy.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Sedalia Theatre has added a new feature to its form of entertainment. A radio from the Middleton Battery Co., had been installed in the lobby, and will furnish music for patrons while waiting in the lobby to enter the theatre.

DAVID POLING

Burden . . . and Blessing Of Reform in the Church

Pope John XXIII once wrote to a friend: "If you hear anything good about me, praise the Lord as I do, for he has done it all. If you hear criticisms, pray for me, that the Lord may forgive me if the criticism is just and, if it is unjust, forgive whoever utters it."

Pope John had a divine instinct for reform and renewal in the church—the whole church. He also knew the resistance that would come, the forces that must be overcome if the church was to be truly Christian and truly reformed.

We are now at full crest as the waves of change wash across the beachheads of Christianity. The friends and associates and companions of good Pope John can hardly believe what he did in Vatican II. Nor can many of the hierarchy forgive him for the time-bombs that he set ticking all over the religious landscape. Now that the explosions of inquiry, dialogue and reform are releasing their deafening roar, the traditionalists are surrounded by their own fury at events and smoldering disgust of "good Pope John." As he said, "If you hear criticism. . . ."

The critics are groping for the arguments of rebuttal. Authority, tradition and discipline have become an almost new Trinity if you read Vatican statements with regularity. But these have not performed well in the winds of change.

With puzzled exasperation, Pope Paul told a St, Peter's throng recently that this generation is "intoxicated with the spirit of change, ready to forget the past, interrupt tradition and abandon customs."

As if this did not jar the faithful, he said that many were accepting the "forms and spirit of the Protestant Reformation." That was meant as a criticism, not a compliment, yet if the Holy Father had made that statement at any Catholic university in this country it would have been greeted with applause!

But not everywhere. Tormented conservatives within the church, unable to understand the urge for reform and unwilling to respect its advocates, have proposed a more evil explanation for all the ferment that is sweeping continents and cathedrals.

In her Open Line, predictions are made by Jeane Dixon, as well as interpretations of current events. She summarizes her feelings about Catholic renewal with this excerpted letter from a friend:

"There are about 30,000 Communist clergymen . . . reared in the Soviet or satellites of the Soviet under their 10- and 20-year plans who are now ordained ministers and clergymen of all religions throughout the world but heavily concentrated in the United States. These men of the cloth are playing havoc with religion . . . and ripping apart all principle and practice . . . changing tenets . . . destroying from within . . . all under the guise of righteous or much-needed change . . . due to normal need or deserved needs of the churches."

Such absurd charges can be made only by those who have no patience left, with the demands of change, no understanding of the requirements of this fast-moving century. As Pope John said, "If you hear criticisms, pray for me."

(The Reverend Poling is president of the Christian Herald Assn.)

One of the modern wonder bids is the "negative" double. This is a double of an overcall for take-out instead of business. We use the bid ourselves but are very careful with it when our partner has opened a minor, the overcall is in the other minor, and we don't have both majors.

Prof. John McGervey of Western Reserve University in Cleveland would be one of our really great bridge players if he hadn't chosen to devote his life to a career in mathematics. He is still mighty good and a very tough competitor.

His two-club overcall came in an international match point game when his side was trailing and against opponents who go all out for negative doubles. Sure enough, North did make a negative double. John's partner co-operated with Operation Monkey Wrench by raising to three clubs. South bid three hearts. We have no criticism of this bid. The negative double asks for a major suit and South had a sound opening with good distribution and four hearts.

North felt that he was in a trap but was afraid to make matters worse by bidding and it was up to South to play the hand.

John led a club. Dummy's ace won and the spade finesse lost to John's king. A second club was ruffed by declarer who led a diamond to dummy's queen and East's ace. Back came a third club and South decided to jettison his eight of spades. John overtook and led a fourth club. Dummy discarded, East ruffed with the queen of trumps and South overruffed with the ace. Then South played the jack of trumps and his last trump to dummy's king.

At this point the hand collapsed. John was able to ruff the next diamond, pull the last trump with his 10 spot and cash his last two clubs for down three. This represented a 10-IMP pickup since at the other table John's North-South partners played and made a diamond part score.

Sunset and Solitude

Sunset and solitude
As day begins to fade,
Deepening of the shadows
With each darkening shade;
Sunset and solitude,
Music soft and low,
It is in the twilight hours
Memories always grow;
Sunset and solitude,
Only God to share
Captured bits of beauty
In gentle thoughts and prayer;
Sunset and solitude
When we feel His power,
This is the restfulness
Of evening's golden hour;
Sunset and solitude,
Shadows growing deep,
Stars begin to twinkle,
Day has gone to sleep.

The Working Cabinet

By CYRENE DEAR

(This is the eleventh in a series of brief profiles of President Nixon's "Working Cabinet.")

WASHINGTON, D.C. — John A. Volpe, Secretary of Transportation, is one of three governors to become a cabinet member. He was the first Italian-American to reach that high office in Massachusetts. During a very bitter campaign last November Volpe, a Republican, worked hard to defeat Louise Day Hicks, who was running for Mayor of Boston and fiercely opposed desegregation of public schools. Volpe swung the election and his candidate Kevin White, the Democrat, became Mayor.

Governor Volpe's father gave his son some good advice when he was twelve years old. Vito Volpe was a plasterer. He took John to work with him and giving him a bucket half filled with plaster, showed him how to balance his weight as he climbed a ladder. His father then said: "I have helped you all I can. There is only one way to get up — climb rung by rung." John kept on climbing rung by rung until he reached the governorship in his state and now he is in the President's cabinet.

Volpe is an architectural engineer and formed his own construction company after graduating from Wentworth Institute in Boston. He became interested in politics through his 16-year-old daughter when she was watching the Kefauver crime committee hearings in 1950 on television. He soon became active in Republican politics, and one of his first assignments was to escort Richard Nixon, then vice presidential candidate, around the poorer sections of Massachusetts. They have been friends since then. Volpe was appointed commissioner of public works by the then Massachusetts governor, Christian Herter.

Volpe was influential in the movement for a national interstate highway system. In 1960, the year John F. Kennedy, the Democrat, swept his state for the presidency, John A. Volpe, the Republican, became the Governor.

As Secretary of Transportation, he expects to increase mass transit systems in the cities, and study the problems in the supersonic transport program. Through his construction firm, he has built transit buildings, but he has never done any paving or highway work. He said he would urge a greater public voice on highway construction. He has divested himself of his personal stock by selling it back to the Volpe Construction Company. "I have decided," said John A. Volpe, "that you must avoid not only the fact of conflict of interest, but the appearance as well.

Volpe is proud of his Italian heritage. He married his childhood sweetheart, Jennie Benedetto. They have a son John Jr. and a daughter Loretta Jean, who also married an Italian.

Rules for Avoiding Danger of Alcoholism

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

If we recognize that food, water, fire and alcohol are a part of life for a large proportion of the adult population, we must also recognize that any one of them can destroy a man unless it is controlled. The watchword is prevention.

In the case of alcohol it is well, first of all, to remember that persons who take only two drinks every day have a death rate that is 15 per cent higher than that of those who don't drink. There is always grave danger of alcoholism when a person drinks to get happy rather than because he is happy. Dr. W. B. Terhune, an authority on the subject, lists the following rules for the avoidance of alcoholism:

Never take a drink because you "need" it.

Sip your drinks slowly and allow at least a half hour between them.

Make two or three drinks your limit.

Take diluted drinks — never straight or on the rocks.

Don't drink every day.

Know the exact amount of alcohol you are getting — don't just pour a wee droppie out of the bottle.

Don't make "luncheon," "before dinner," "a little nightcap" or "celebrating because it's Thursday" an excuse to have a drink.

If you need to unwind, take a short nap or a shower.

Never take a drink in the morning.

An interesting experiment was conducted by a group of psychiatrists in Philadelphia on three alcoholics for whom all efforts at treatment had failed. They took movies of the men while they were drunk and showed them the films after they sobered up. Although this is not a guaranteed cure, these three saw for the first time that it was the alcohol and not some mysterious outside force that had caused their trouble. They all stopped drinking.

Q — How can one determine a safe amount of alcohol to take in an evening?

A — Although the rate at which different persons burn alcohol varies, the average speed is about two-thirds of an ounce of 100-proof whisky per hour. Equivalents for other drinks can be computed from this. For safe driving, space your drinks an hour apart and wait an hour after your last drink before you take the wheel.

Light travels only a few hundred feet through ocean water, but sound waves can be sent and received under sea for thousands of miles.

Organize Divisional LNP Federation

Mrs. Patricia Jean Hanson, LPN, President of the Missouri Federation of the LPN installed officers for the National Federation of Licensed Practical Nurses Tenth Division Jan. 28, at the Fair View Nursing Home.

Those installed were Mr. Donald M. Hainline, president; Mrs. Joyce McNeil, secretary; Mrs. Beatrice Woolery, 1st vice president; Mrs. Mildred Chatman, 2nd vice president; Miss Erma Sch akenberg, treasurer. Board members are Mrs. Glenna Danforth, Mrs. Anna V. Sneathen, Mrs. Clara Harvey, Mrs. Lela Russell, Mrs. Ethel Tubesing, and Mrs. Deloris Schafermeyer, advisor.

The federation, new to this area, was originally organized in 1949. The NFLPN, composed entirely of licensed practical nurses, numbers 31,000 members throughout the United States.

The advisory council provides liaison with the American Nurses Assn.; the American Medical Assn.; the U.S. Office of Education and several other related groups.

Meetings for the newly formed Tenth Division NFLPN will be held at 7:30 p.m., the third Wednesday of each month at the Fair View Nursing Home, 1714 West 16th Street.

A Surprise Reception Honors Prices on 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Richen H. Price, 900 Ruth Ann Drive, were honored with a surprise reception in the Medallion Room of the Holiday Inn, Saturday afternoon, Jan. 25. The reception, marking the Price's Silver Wedding Anniversary, was given by the Price's daughter, Pamela Price Boul, and Mrs. Price's mother, Mrs. Virginia Cozart. Mr. and Mrs. Price were married Jan. 22, 1944 in Clay, Ky.

Over 100 relatives and friends congratulated the Prices during the afternoon.

Out-of-state guests were Mrs. W. E. Northcutt, Evansville, Ind. and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Tibbals, Detroit, Mich. Other out-of-town guests attended from Lee's Summitt, Independence, Warrensburg and St. Louis.

Upon the couple's arrival, Mrs. Price was presented a white orchid corsage and Mr. Price a white carnation boutonniere. Members of the family and friends assisting wore corsages of pink roses. Pink roses had been Mrs. Price's wedding flowers.

Mrs. George Nix registered guests. Serving at the cake table were Mrs. Jack Maxwell and Mrs. Ike Warren. Mrs. Jack Blackwell served punch and Mrs. J. C. Braden served coffee. Music was by Mrs. Rosalie DeLozier.

The cake table, covered with white net, was decorated with pink roses entwined with smilax. The all-white, three-tiered anniversary cake was decorated on the lower layer with wedding bells and doves and was topped with an anniversary loving cup filled with white sweetheart roses. White candles in silver candelabra were at each end of the table.

The punch table, also covered with white net, was centered with a large floral arrangement of pink carnations and white snapdragons. The silver coffee service and punch bowl were at the table ends. White and silver ornaments trimmed the gift table.

Mr. and Mrs. Richen H. Price

Deliberate MU Tigers Upset Kansas, 56-55

Sedalia Possum Trotters To Host KC Chiefs Cagers

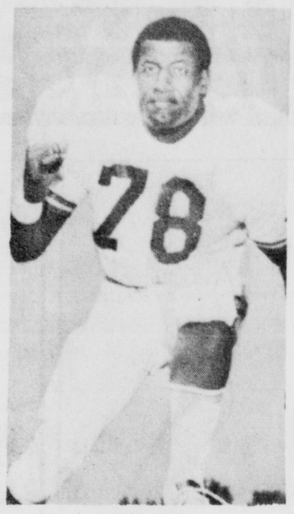

The Sedalia Possum Trotters will host the Kansas City Chiefs basketball team in a benefit game to be held in the Smith-Cotton gymasium Friday, Feb. 28, at 8 p.m. Half of the proceeds from the game will go to Sacred Heart Church.

The Possum Trotters, composed of Larry Bell, Cye Casey, Enos Johnson, James Whitney, Eugene Sims, Nat Newbill, Tom Cline, Lee Brown, Fletcher Gravitt, Chuch Stocksall, Ronald Spencer, Billy Shobe and James Montgomery, have a 12-0 record for the season.

Bobby Bell, linebacker, Buck Buchanan, defensive tackle, Ed Budde, guard, Dave Hill, tackle, Otis Taylor, flanker back, and Jerrell Wilson, kicker, make up the Chiefs' team which sported a 25-11 record for 1968.

Buck Buchanan, averaging 26 points per game, and Dave Hill, averaging 24.5, top guns for the Chiefs, scored a total of 1,743 points in 36 games in 1968.

The Chiefs traveled some 8,613 miles last year in Missouri, Iowa and Kansas and helped raise over $30,500 for worthwhile charities, non-profit groups and organizations.

The starting line-up for the Possum Trotters includes Bell, captain, Casey, Johnson, Whitney, co-captain, and Sims.

Advance tickets selling for $1.50 are available at many local businesses. The cost at the door will $2 for adults and $1 for children ages 6-12.

Free pictures of the Chiefs will be available at the game.

Winner's Conference Hopes Remain Alive

LAWRENCE, KAN. (AP) — Poised Missouri, playing a deliberate game and cashing free throws profusely, upset 12th-rated Kansas on the Jayhawks' home court Saturday 56-55, and threw a serious crimp into the losers' Big Eight championship hopes.

The defeat dropped Kansas to 7-3 with only four games remaining. The Jayhawks are 18-4 over-all.

Missouri remains faintly in contention with a 5-4 Big Eight record, and it could be improved to 6-3 if the Tigers receive a forfeit from Oklahoma State for a January loss in which the Cowboys used Amos Thomas, since ruled ineligible. That decision will be made in two weeks.

Missouri cashed 30 of 38 free throws, including 17 of the Tigers' last 19 points when Kansas, pressing to catch up, fouled repeatedly in the regionally-televised game.

Kansas led 43-37 with 7:15 left, but Missouri outscored the Jayhawks 10-0 in less than three minutes to take a 47-43 lead.

It was tied at 53-53 when Chuck Kundert sank a free throw to put Missouri in front 54-53 with 46 seconds to go. Two more charities by Don Tomlinson with 11 seconds left made it 56-53. Dave Robisch's long jumper with two seconds to go wasn't enough for Kansas.

Tomlinson, who hit 15 of 18 free throws, had 23 points for Missouri, while Robisch finished with 16 for Kansas.

Johnson Turns To Juggling

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dave Johnson of the Baltimore Orioles, who tries more stances than a nervous go-go dancer, has now taken to juggling his team's batting order.

It all started as an outgrowth of Johnson's off-season course on computers at Johns Hopkins University and his part-time job with Litton Industries, which runs the Institute of Computer Management.

But after programming eight different line-ups and determining that the most productive had him batting in the second spot, the Baltimore second baseman may get serious about his project.

"The third best line-up had me hitting third," Johnson noted. "Maybe if I spread the word around, I'll get to the plate more this season."

In 1968, Johnson was used mostly in the sixth or seventh spots in the batting order. He hit .242, with nine homers and 56 runs batted in.

Johnson said he would show the results of his labor to Orioles' Manager Earl Weaver and "hope for the best."

"I spent a lot of hours trying to get this programmed correctly," the 26-year-old Oriole said. "Now I know what a manager has to go through."

At the outset, Johnson made a major error in the feeding of data to the computer and for 100 games the Orioles averaged about 100 runs on 70 or more hits, while leaving only seven men on base.

When he stopped laughing, Johnson correctly set up a table for eight players who figure to be Baltimore regulars this year, using last year's batting averages in the programming.

"Actually, what I did was to recreate the 1968 season to determine the best batting order," Johnson said. "By using a random 'number generator,' each simulated game was different."

The most productive line-up had catcher Andy Etchebarren leading off, with Johnson second, followed by Frank Robinson, Boog Powell, Don Buford, Brooks Robinson, Mark Belanger, Paul Blair and the pitcher—with the averages of Dave McNally, Tom Phoebus and Jim Hardin lumped in the ninth spot.

That line-up averaged 3.826 runs per game on 8.504 hits, while leaving 8.273 man on base.

The second best order, producing 3.7 runs a game, had the players batting according to their averages—starting with the lowest figure. Conversely, a line-up in inverse order, was the worst, averaging 3.2 runs.

"I don't know whether to tell Weaver," Johnson said, "but the sixth worst line-up was the one we used most of the time last season."

Johnson, who needs 15 more semester hours for his math degree, next wants to add variables such as double plays, sacrifices, errors, speed of the runners, pitchers' strengths and batters' weaknesses.

"I don't know how to program myself," he said. "I just hit the ball and run like heck."

Stewart Proud Of Team

"This definitely keeps us in the title picture," happy Missouri Coach Norm Stewart said following his Tigers' 56-55 upset of 12th - ranked Kansas Saturday afternoon.

In spite of its 5-4 Big Eight Conference record, Missouri remains in contention because it could receive a forfeit from Oklahoma State of a game the Tigers lost at Stillwater on Jan. 4. The Cowboys used Amos Thomas, since ruled ineligible.

Missouri also stands 12-8 for the season, and possibly 13-7—depending upon how conference fathers rule at a Kansas City meeting in two weeks. That means the Tigers have a definite chance to win the most games since 1920-21 when they were 17-1.

"I'm very proud of this team, because as a unit we are well up in shooting, free throwing and rebounding," Stewart said. "We have no special individual leaders in any category, which means we have to be getting a great team effort."

Stewart said the Tigers had to have two things to beat Kansas Saturday — "great effort and more poise then we have shown all year. We got both, and swung it."

He explained that Missouri's game plan "was to keep Dave Robisch from getting the basketball, if at all possible. We jammed the middle every chance we could and it was pretty effective."

Robisch managed only one point in the first half, although he wound up Kansas' top scorer with 16 points.

"We almost kicked it away in the final minute, when we had a chance to get breathing room," Stewart concluded. "But we had the poise when it counted."

Kansas Coach Ted Owens, whose Jayhawks slumped to a 7-3 Big Eight record, said "we have to get some help" from somebody else to win the title.

"We had our opportunities," Owens said, "just as many as they did, and failed to take advantage of them.

No Player Strike To Interfere With Royals

KANSAS CITY (AP)—If there is strength in numbers, the Kansas City Royals ought to be favored to win the American League baseball pennant their first time out in 1969.

The expansionist Royals, one of four teams added to the major league baseball structure in the coming season, are scheduled to open their first spring training camp at Fort Myers, Fla., Friday. They don't expect any player strike to interfere with their 62 players, including 31 pitchers.

The Royals debut with a major league record 7,300 season tickets sold, the money of Kansas City pharmaceutical tycoon Ewing Kauffman behind them and a wealth of enthusiasm for making a new baseball start. Kansas City was without baseball last season after Charles O. Finley moved the Athletics.

Finley is in Oakland now with his Athletics, and if anything is certain, it is that Kansas Citians will do all within their power to show up Finley. The best way, they figure, to do that is to support the Royals in droves in their maiden season.

Finley moved his As to Oakland after the 1967 season following a continuous feud with the local press and city officials which wound up costing him at the boxoffice.

The Royals hope to capitalize on the new enthusiasm, and if that doesn't do it, they will move into a spanking new park—part of a two-stadium sports complex being built six miles southeast of downtown Kansas City—in 1971.

Joe Gordon is the Royals' manager, and it's his first managerial job since Finley fired him as manager of the As back in 1961.

The Royals went for youth in baseball's expansion draft last fall, and it may cost them in the first year or two while their players mature. However, Gordon is convinced that within three or four years the Royals will be contenders when the other expansion teams may be burdened with fading talent.

The "stars" of the Royals draft were pitchers Roger Nelson, Wally Bunker and Moe Drabowsky from Baltimore, Dave Morehead from Boston and Tom Burgmeier from California. Nelson, Gordon says, "could definitely be in the Dean Chance category."

The top catching candidate is Elizeo Rodriguez, drafted from the New York Yankees.

Another ex-Yankee is a hitting hope, if he can control his temper. The Yanks gave up on Steve Whitaker because of his temper tantrums, but everyone agrees he can hit if he can lick his problem.

Other candidates include first baseman Mike Fiore from the Orioles, second baseman Jerry Adair and third baseman Joe Foy from Boston, shortstop Jackie Hernandez from Minnesota, and outfielders Bob Oliver and Pat Kelly from the Twins and Ed Kirkpatrick from the Angels.

"We're not thinking thinking about winning. We're not going to be a pushover."

Boys Club Cage Teams Travel To AAU Tourney

Four Sedalia Boys Club basketball teams will participate in the annual Missouri Valley AAU Basketball Tournament being held in St. Joseph, Feb. 22 and 23.

Sixth and seventh grade teams from across the state will play in the tournament; Sedalia will enter two teams in the sixth and two in the seventh grade divisions. First, second and third place winners of the tourney will receive AAU awards.

Some 50 Sedalia boys will leave by bus next Saturday and will stay at the Robidoux Motor Hotel in St. Joseph Saturday night.

Participating in the tourney will be teams from all of Kansas and western Missouri.

The following sixth and seventh grade boys are scheduled to participate in the tournament:

Seventh grade, "Buffaloes", Coaches: Paul Klover and Ralph Lee. Team members are: Tony Steele, Mark Edwards, Steve Bartlett, Steve Reed, Rick Rios, Bill Buckholtz, Thomas Turnes, Aaron Johnson, David Baker, Robert Marshall, Michael Boggs and Larry Balance.

Sixth grade, "Navajoes", Coaches: Howard Bechtel and Chuck Stockstill. Team members are: Jim Williams, Mark Stockstill, Mark Harrison, Wayne Leicher, Greggory Bechtel, Larry Miley, Rick Pondell, Marty Thomas, Bradley Welk and Jim Fall.

Sixth grade, "Mohawks", Coaches: Kon Kearney and Ray Faubion. Team members are: Doug Young, Terry Colfelt, Marvin Spruell, Tom Buckner, Keith Parish, Craig Faubion, Terry Kearney, Floyd Gilmore, Steve Emery, Greg Wear, Kelley Schilb and Brian Hosking.

Ten players from each team above will go, as two boys are on each team in the capacity of alternates and will only go if regular members cannot go.

Ellis Is Named Outstanding Boy

Chris Ellis, 211 West Tenth, son of Billy Ellis and Mrs. Francis Ellis, has been named the "Outstanding Boy of the Year" by the Sedalia Boys Club.

Chris, a sophomore at Smith-Cotton is the ninth boy to receive the award according to Palmer Nichols, director of the Boys Club in Sedalia. In commenting about the award and how the most outstanding boy is chosen each year, Nichols stated that Chris is a "wonderful, outstanding boy".

Attendance, leadership, participation in school, church, community and the club's activities are all factors in the choosing of the outstanding boy each year. "We try to pick the boy who is most deserving" of the award according to the standards of the Boys Club, commented Nichols.

Local winners of the award are elegible for competition in regional, sectional and finally the national contest for the most outstanding boy of the year. The President of the United States will present a plaque and a $1,000 scholarship to any school to the winner of the national contest to be held in March.

Chris Ellis

Chris has represented the Sedalia Boys Club at the United Fund banquet for the past two years and is now elegible for competition in the regional contest.

BULLETIN

Sacred Heart's Grems defeated Precious Blood of Liberty Saturday night 53-47 at Sacred Heart.

The Gremlins grabbed an early lead and held onto it the remainder of the game.

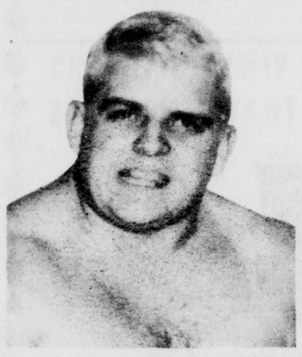

Jim Wanserski grabbed game scoring honors with a hot night's total of 23 points. Ed Gonser gave him needed support with 15 markers, and Ron Huhman added 11.

For Liberty, Pikul was tops with 15 points, followed by Kennally with 12 and Tobin with 10.

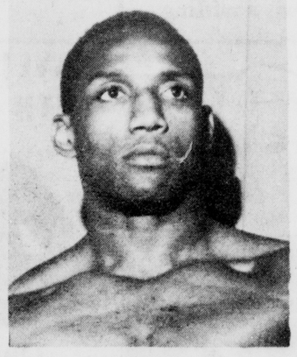

In the B game, Sacred Heart was again on top, 33-28. Boss and Cook led the way for the winners with ten and eight points, respectively.

Individual scoring: Sacred Heart — Gonser, 15; Huhman, 11; Fanghor, 1; Liberty — Pikul, 15; Kennally, 12; Tobin, 10.

Wrestling Returns To Sedalia Tuesday Night

Dusty Rhodes

Earl Maynard

Professional wrestling night when the Pettis County night when the Pettis county post of the American Legion presents a five-event program.

Heading the lineup will be an eight-man tag team battle with many of the area's leading heavyweights in action.

Making up one unit will be Don Kent, reigning Central States champion. Earl Maynard, Ronnie Etchison and Rudy Martin. They'll be going opposite brawlers Tornado Murdock, Dusty Rhodes, Stan Moose and the masked Phantom.

Speed and experience will be with the team captained by Kent. Etchison is a veteran of nearly 30 seasons and Kent has had wide experience throughout the country. Maynard, a former Mr. Universe, has plied his craft on an international basis, while Martin is swift and agile.

Murdock and Rhodes have had success as a tag combo and figure to strengthen their alliance through the addition of the 275-pound Moose and the sturdy Phantom.

Etchison is scheduled to renew his rivalry with Rhodes in another pairing.

Kent will tackle Moose in what figures as a test of strength and punching prowess.

Rudy Martin will try to boost his stock with a victory over the dangerous Murdock, and Maynard will have the kingsize assignment of trying to tame the unpredictable Rhodes.

US Has Slim Lead In Bobsled

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Gary Sheffield of the United States took a slim lead in the first day of the World Two-man Bobsledding Championships Saturday despite a spectacular run by Italy's Nevio DeZordo.

DeZordo and brakeman Adriano Frassinelli flashed down the 1,500-meter run in an unofficial time of 1:06.62—a record for two-man bobsleds at the Mt. Van Hoevenberg bob run.

The mark was only .22 second off the course record for the heavier and faster four-man bobsleds.

Sheffield, a 32-year-old Air Force recruiter from Lake Placid, and brakeman Howard Siler of Hampton, Va., posted heat times of 1:08.13 and 1:08.01 for 2:16.14 in the first day of the international competition.

The final two heats will be run Sunday.

The Rumanian sled was second in an over-all time of 1:08.90 and 1:07.83-2:16.73.

Switzerland took third place in the first led with times of 1:08.25 and 1:09.19-2:17.44

DeZordo, driving the Italy Two sled, managed only a fourt-place showing over-all. His first heat was timed in 1:10.08.

Records were shattered consistently during the first day of the championsiips, which are part of the Kennedy International Memorial Games at Lake Placid.

Louisville Defeats Shockers

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Louisville is still in the thick of the Missouri Valley Conference basketball race, but no thanks to Wichita State which battled the Cardinals on even terms before falling 65-62 in the television game of the week Saturday.

"I feel like a man who has been strapped in the electric chair and then given a reprieve by the governor," Cardinal coach John Dromo said after Jerry King had dropped in two free throws with nine seconds to play. He capped a Louisville comeback with the shots.

"If my coaching career was on the line I'd want King shooting the free throw," Dromo said.

"We played Wichita State's game the first half," the Louisville coach said.

The Shockers spurted to a 33-26 lead on the strength of an 8-point outburst at the start of the game before Louisville could get on the board on a Butch Beard jumper with 17:34 to play.

The Cardinals, now 10-2 in conference play and only a half game behind Tulsa, pulled to within three points on two occasions in the first half.

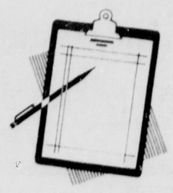

Jaycees Planning Memorial Day Race

The Sedalia Jaycees are presently completing plans for a super-modified race to be held at the Missouri State Fair racetrack on Memorial Day, May 30.

The race will feature local Central Missouri drivers plus top drivers from out of state.

Time trials for the race will begin at 11 a.m. Memorial Day. Advance tickets can be obtained by writing Sedalia Jaycees, Box 11, Sedalia.

Smithton 51, Warsaw 50

SMITHTON — The Smithton Tigers edged the Warsaw Wildcats here Friday night 51-50 in overtime to take first place in the Kaysinger conference. Both teams were undefeated in conference play when they met on the court.

The Tigers took a one point lead in the first quarter, added three more in the second for a four point margin. The nip-and-tuck battle reversed in the third quarter with Warsaw gaining back three points then recovering the final point for a 44-all tie before the final buzzer sounded.

In overtime play Smithton took the final edge in one of the most exciting games of the season.

Smithton now have a 16-6 record for the season while Warsaw is 20-5. Smithton will face Lincoln next Tuesday night and Northwest Friday night.

Smithton 14 13 7 10 7 — 51

LaMonte 101, Green Ridge 45

LaMonte's Vikings scored 41 points in the first period and went on to a 101-45 victory over Green Ridge's Tigers Friday night.

The outcome was never in doubt as LaMonte outscored Green Ridge in every quarter on their way to hitting the century mark again this season.

Sevier and Campbell topped the winners with 21 points each, and they received help from Bennett and Bybee, with 19 and 14 points, respectively.

Stevens had 13 for Green Ridge and Bailey 12.

The B contest went to Green Ridge, 52-36. Durham led LaMonte with 12, while Fiedler was high in Green Ridge's winning effort, with 15 points.

LaMonte's girls' volleyball team was victorious, winning 34-17. Lind was high server for the winners with nine; Ragar topped Green Ridge with nine also.

The Vikings will next see action against Cole Camp Tuesday night at LaMonte.

Score by quarters:

LaMonte 41 26 17 17 — 101

Tipton 66, Iberia 42

TIPTON — The Tipton Cardinals thumped Iberia here Friday night, 66-42 in conference action. The win brings Tipton's record to 13-9 overall. They were led by Fulks with 15 and Wolf with 13. Iberia's high point man as usual this year was Williams, with 27.

Tipton's next game will be here with California next Friday.

In the "B" game, Tipton easily defeated Iberia 61-33 behind the hot shooting of Gross who dropped in 22 big points. High for Iberia was Shelton who scored 11 points in their losing effort..

Individual soring: Tipton — Fulks, 15; Wolf, 13; Allison, 12; Finger, 11; Devine, 4; Donley, 4; Lutz, 2; Franken, 2; Iberia — Williams, 27; Wilson, 7; Pemberton, 8.

Stover 56, Sacred Heart 49

Sacred Heart's Gremlins appeared on their way to a conference win over Stover Friday night, but they were sidetracked by a poor fourth quarter and lost the game, 56-49 at home.

Facing a six-point deficit after the first quarter, the Grems went to work in the second and pulled to within two points at the half.

The locals appeared to be off and running at the start of the second half, as they scored 16 points while holding Stover to seven in the third stanza, taking a seven-point lead into the final period.

But a six-point quarter total killed the hopes of Sacred Heart and gave the victory to the comeback-minded Bulldogs.

Sacred Heart's consistent Ed Gonser again led his teammates in scoring, drilling in 19 big points for game honors. He was assisted by Wanserski and Huhman, with 14 and 13 points, respectively.

For Stover, Stevens had 16, Rowland 12 and Mueller 11.

Sacred Heart's B squaders were victorious, 32-26, with Coxon high point man, scoring eight points. For Stover, Calmen and Boeschen each had seven.

Stover's phenomenal girls continued to turn in victories in volleyball, walloping the Grems 45-7.

Score by quarters:

Stover 17 12 7 20 — 56
Sacred Heart 11 16 16 6 — 49

Individual scoring: Sacred Heart — Wanserski, 14; Gonser, 19; Huhman, 13; Fanghor, 2; Stover — Geary, 7; Rowland, 12; Byler, 5; Stevens, 16; Mueller, 11; Worthley, 4.

Northwest 83, Cole Camp 47

The Northwest Mustangs handed Cole Camp a resounding 83-47 defeat Friday night at the Northwest gymnasium. The contest was a Kaysinger conference tilt.

Outscoring the Bluebirds in every quarter, the Mustangs drove to a 35-25 halftime lead, then outscored Cole Camp 27-6 in the third quarter to turn the game into a rout.

Bratton and J. Coffelt both had good nights as they turned in 28 and 24 points, respectively. Wagner helped them with 17.

For Cole Camp, Donnell was tops with 14, as no other Bluebird hit for two figues...

Coach Jim Wingard's Mustangs are now 8-14 for the season.

In the B game, Cole Camp came out on top 63-55.

Score by quarters:

Northwest 14 21 27 21 — 83
Cole Camp 12 13 6 16 — 47

Individual scoring: Northwest — Bratton, 28; B. Coffelt, 11; J. Coffelt, 24; Wagner, 17; Shireman, 3; Shull, 1; Cole Camp — Donnell, 14; Goosen, 7; Miesner, 6; Eckhoff, 4; Nesse, 3; Bergman, 3; Weisterberg, 2; Schumachen, 5.

Otterville 73, Liberty 50

OTTERVILLE — The Eagles defeated Liberty 73 — 50 in a non-confrence cage bout here Friday night.

Otterville took the lead in the first, more than doubling Liberty's first quarter total, and coasted out the rest of the game.

Marcum was high point man for Otterville with 28 followed by Hardy with 17. Taber scored 13 points for Liberty.

Otterville's junior varsity downed Liberty 48 — 38 in the evening's opener. Stone was high for Otterville with 10 points while Richina took top scoring honors for the game with 11 points for Liberty.

Score by Quarters:

Otterville 18 14 22 19 — 73
Liberty 8 15 15 12 — 50

Montrose 74, Calhoun 57

Montrose took the championship of the Golden Valley Conference Friday night with a 74-57 victory over tough Calhoun. The contest was played at Montrose.

Moving out by four after one quarter, Montrose turned it on in the second period to take a 41-28 halftime lead. They were never threatened after that.

The victory gave Montrose a 6-0 conference record and a 14-3 season mark. For Calhoun the loss meant a 3-3 conference and 10-15 overall mark. Calhoun finished third in conference play.

Smith of Montrose pushed through 11 field goals and four charity tosses to garner 26 points and take team and game scoring honors for Montrose.

Four Calhoun starters hit for double figures, with Micke's 13 leading the way. Everetts had 11, Curry, 12 and Dennis 10 for Calhoun.

In the B contest, Montrose again defeated Calhoun, 67-46.

Score by quarters:

Calhoun 11 17 10 19 — 57

Eldorado Springs 60,

The Knob Noster Panthers, in the midst of one of their finest basketball season performances, suffered their second West-Central Missouri Conference loss against five victories as they fell to Eldorado Springs 60-56, on the winners' court Friday night.

Eldorado started off cold, trailing the Panthers 20-8 at the end of the first quarter, but in the next stanza they seemed to find the range, pulling to a one-point halftime lead.

Knob Noster kept pace in the third quarter and at the beginning of the final period the game was tied, 34-34. Eldorado outscored the Panthers in the final period by four points to provide the margin of victory.

Hoover and Counts of Eldorado Springs turned in outstanding performances with 24 and 17 points, respectively. For Knob Noster, Hutchins, Hardtke and Harris scored in double figures, turning in 16, 14 and 12 points, respectively.

The B tussle went to Knob Noster by a close 36-34 margin. Kenderick has 16 points for the winners, while Thompson scored 12 for Eldorado Springs.

The Panthers next oppose Sherwood Tuesday at Knob Noster.

Score by quarters:

Knob Noster 20 9 15 12 — 56
Eldorado 8 22 14 16 — 60

Individual scoring: Knob Noster — Hutchins, 16; Hardtke, 14; Harris, 12; Wharton, 8; Fuller, 6; Eldorado Springs, Hoover, 24; McPeak, 7; Vickers, 6; Counts, 17; Derer, 6.

St. Paul's 65, Wellington 57

CONCORDIA — St. Paul's College High rallied in the third and fourth quarters of cage play here Friday night and defeated Wellington 65-57 following St. Paul's JV victory of 45-17.

St. Paul was trailing 30-37 at the half, rallied in the third quarter to tie the score and took an eight point margin at the end of the game. Ten of Concordia's 19 points in the fourth quarter were scored on free throws.

Wurdeman gunned for 9 points in the "B" team game to lead St. Paul's to a 45-17 sweep over Wellington's JV team. Nutt was high scorer for Wellington with 4.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The University of Nebraska Board of Regents Saturday approved the hiring of two ex-Cornhusker football players as assistant coaches.

Bill (Thunder) Thornton and Warren Powers were assigned salaries of $11,000 apiece. Monte Kiffin, already an assistant football coach, had his salary raised by the regents to $11,000 from $8,500.

Thornton is also the first full-time Negro coach ever hired by the university. NU officials said that some Negro graduates have helped coach in the past.

Hubbard, Jefferson Win Elementary Cage Titles

A large crowd witnessed the final round of the Sedalia Grade School Basketball Tournament held in Smith-Cotton Physical Education Gymnasium.

The Gold Division championship was won by Hubbard with a 28 to 23 victory over the Heber Hunt "A" team.

In the Black Division Jefferson took the champions trophy by virtue of a 36 to 22 decision over the Heber Hunt 'B' team.

The first game of the evening was a consolation match between Mark Twain and Whittier with Whittier gaining the win by a 17 to 12 count. Clifford was high point man for Whittier with 12 points. Leading Mark Twain was Marcum with 6.

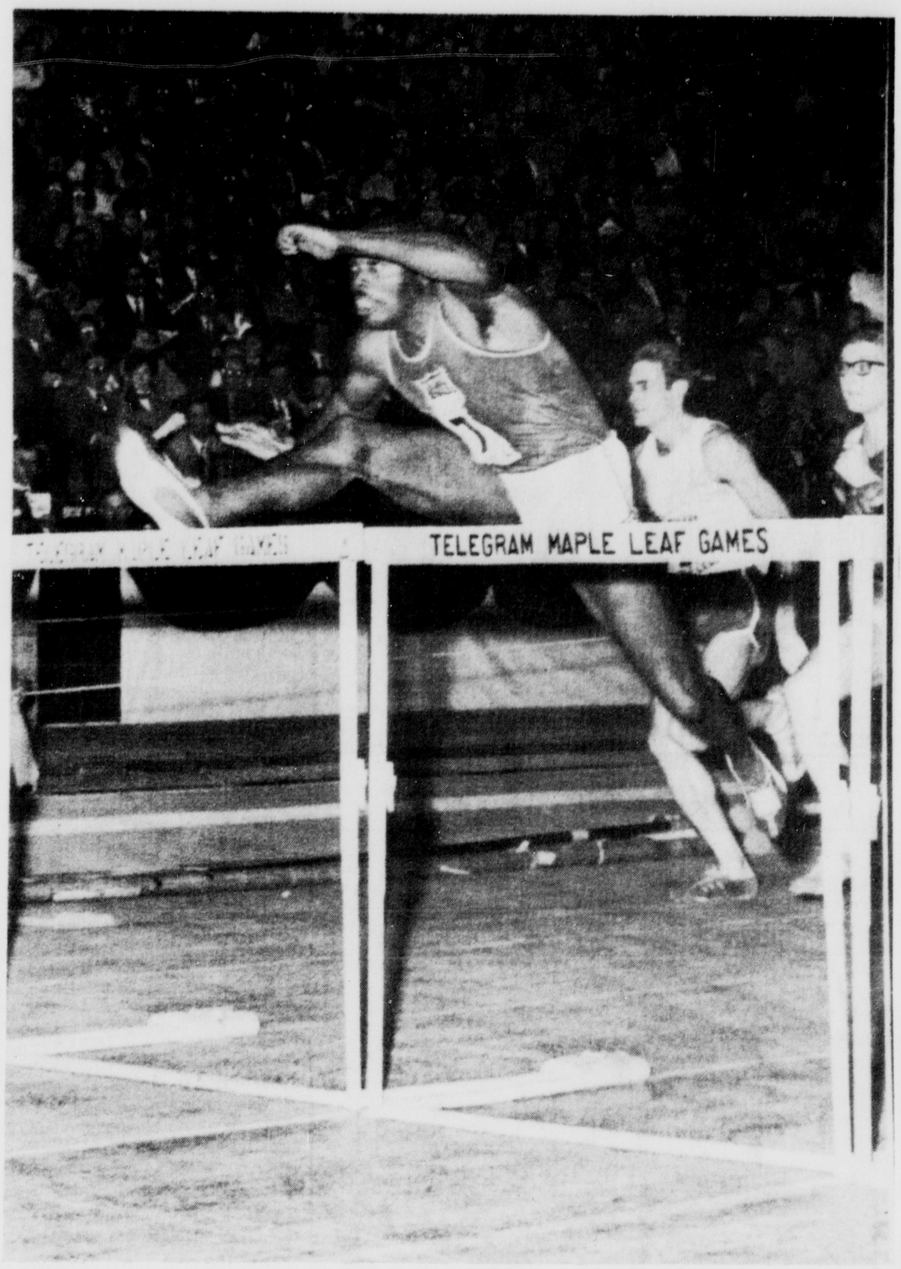

At 6 p.m. Horace Mann and Washington met in the Gold Division consolation contest with Horace Mann edging Washington by a 16 to 14 count. Scoring honors for Horace Mann went to Knight with 8 points while Masters scored 5 for the Washington squad.

The Black Division championship game saw the Jefferson cagers grab an early lead and maintain the scoring pressure throughout the contest to bump the Heber Hunt 'B' team by a 36 to 22 count. Leading the victors was Bartlett with 12 tallies, while Lamm paced the losers with 9.

The final contest of the evening was the Gold Division championship with Hubbard going against the Heber Hunt 'A' team for the title. Hubbard emerged the victor by a 28 to 23 score. Leading the Hubbard attack was Ballance with 9 and Marshall with 8. For the losing team Boehne kept the offense going with a 9 point total.

Officials for the tournament games were Bob Edmondson, David Backer, Bill Rose.

Emerson Matthews, Gerhardt Jaeger, Paul Schwartz, William Rabourn, Max Fields, Melvin Sands, Gerald Holman and P. A. Sillers.

Gets 2nd Crack At Title

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World lightweight champion Carlos "Teo" Cruz of the Dominican Republic, who successfully defended the crown against Mando Ramos here last Sept. 27, gives the young Californian another crack at it Tuesday night.

The match, scheduled for 15 rounds, goes on in the Sports Arena. Promoter Aileen Eaton of the Olympic Boxing Club expects a crowd of around 15,000 to pay $140,000 or more to see the rematch.

There will be no television or radio broadcast.

The 31-year-old Cruz, who has done most of his boxing in Puerto Rico, his adopted home, upset Carlos Ortiz for the championship June 29, 1968. He decked Ortiz early in the fight and won a unanimous decision.

This will be Cruz' second title defense—both in encounters with the 20-year-old upstart from nearby Long Beach. He is getting the same guarantee as before, $60,000. Ramos' $10,000 is also the same.

As a teen-ager, Ramos and his older stablemate, Raul Rojas, were the biggest things in boxoffice boxing here the past few years—until last Sept. 27 in Mrs. Eaton's doubleheader title card.

Rojas that night lost his World Boxing Association version of the featherweight title to Japan's Shoz Sijyo and Ramos failed in his bid for the 135-pound division title.

It was only the third loss in 24 matches for Ramos, but after losing the early rounds to the smaller, crouching Cruz, Mando rallied in the last three rounds to make it exciting for his supporters.

"I was worried about going 15 rounds for the first time and I guess I was too cautious in the first part of the fight," said Mando, who had no quarrel with the unanimous decision against him.

Cruz, however, maintains his training was late starting because of a flu attack last fall. It caused him to tire in the later rounds, he said.

"However," he said through an interpreter, "I learned things about Ramos which I can use to advantage this time. You'll see them in the fight but I won't say what they are before the fight."

Cruz has a 53-14-2 record. He has scored 22 knockouts and was stopped once, by Carlos Hernandez in Caracas in 1963.

Ramos' other losses were to Kang Il Suh of Korea and Irish Frankie Crawford, both in Los Angeles in 1967. He reversed the loss to Crawford early in 1968.

MIAMI (AP) — Defending champion Ken Harrelson of the Boston Red Sox carried a one-stroke lead into the final round today of the National Baseball Players Golf Championship.

Harrelson shot a 77 Monday for a 232 total and a single stroke advantage over George Culver of the Cincinnati Reds, who shot a 78.

In third place at 235 were Jim Hardin of the Baltimore Orioles and Sammy Ellis of the Chicago White Sox, who won the tournament in 1967.

Tigers Drop CMC Game To Jeff City

Senior forwards Tom McHenry and Charles McMurry paced a productive Jefferson City attack Friday night as the Jays rolled up a 23-point halftime advantage to clobber Smith-Cotton 75-46 in a conference match in the Capital City.

McHenry and McMurry's combined efforts netted a total of 32 points to surpass the locals tally in either half. McHenry hit on eight field goal attempts from just about anywhere on the Jay's homecourt while the lanky McMurry patrolled the baseline to acquire his 15 markers.

Jim Lewis and Dave Nash were the only Tigers to finish with double figure totals. Nash shot for what his usual 13 as Lewis, a pleasant surprise in the season's second half, added 10 to the Bengals' total.

In Junior Varsity action the Jays needed one overtime to subdue Sedalia as the Baby Bengals came out on the short end of the score for only the third time this season in a 42-40 defeat.

A home team field goal in the final three seconds nullified one of the Junior Tigers finest efforts of the season. Steve Gerlecz led the locals down to the wire and close to a scond overtime with 13 points.

The loss revenges an earlier Smith-Cotton win over the Jays, evening the conference series at 1 - 1 .

Sedalia 11 7 14 14 — 46
Jefferson City 18 23 16 18 — 75

Varsity Totals:

Louisville Still In Loop Race

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)— Jerry King connected on both ends of a one-and-one free throw opportunity with nine seconds to play to start the Louisville Cardinals off to a 65-62 come-from-behind basketball victory over the Wichita State Shockers Saturday afternoon.

Wichita, which led at the half 33-26, was in front until the last few seconds in the regionally televised Missouri Valley Conference game.

Louisville's victory, their 10th in 12 conference starts and their 16th in 19 games, kept the Cardinals in the thick of the fight for the Valley title. Louisville trails Tulsa, which plays Cincinnati tonight, by one game.

It was Wichita's seventh conference loss against five wins. Their overall record is 9-13.

King, the Valley's third ranked free throw shooter, went to the line after being fouled by Jack Matthews and connected on both ends of the free throw chance to give Louisville a 63-62 lead, their first of the game.

Wichita's Greg Carney fouled Louisville's Dennis Deeken at the buzzer and Deeken put in two free throws with no time remaining.

Trailing 49-37 with 11:50 to play, Louisville reeled off a dozen points with King, Butch Beard and Mike Grosso leading the way and with 3:05 to play, Louisville was within one point at 60-59.

Celebrate Pakistani Decision

KARACHI (AP) — Riots gave way to merrymaking today after President Mohammed Ayub Khan freed his main political foe and announced Pakistan's 41-month state of emergency will be lifted Monday.

Chanting crowds danced in the streets of Karachi and planned elaborate festivities at Larkana, 300 miles north of here, to celebrate the release from detention of former foreign minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, the symbol of opposition to Ayub's 10-year-old regime.

Thousands of wellwishers crowded outside Bhutto's house, demanding that he come out every half hour to make speeches. Bhutto told them he will not call off his planned hunger strike until "Ayub's promise to lift the state of emergency becomes reality."

Bhutto was released Friday when Ayub bowed to massive opposition pressure. The day was marked by wild riots, fires and gun battles that required army intervention in three cities. Five persons were reported killed in a general protest strike.

Ayub's decision to terminate the emergency, imposed Sept. 6, 1965, during the Indian-Pakistani war, appeared to pave the way for a round-table conference with the eight-party opposition coalition, known as Democratic Action Committee.

DAC was to meet in Lahore today to consider Ayub's invitation to the conference Monday in Rawalpindi. The coalition's mood was expressed by an opposition spokesman who said: "The government might back out. They've done so in the past so many times they can do it again."

Bhutto's release came three months and one day after he was jailed on charges of inciting Pakistani masses to violence. He was placed under house arrest last Tuesday after being removed from jail.

Ousted as foreign minister in 1966, Bhutto has been trying to get back into the government ever since, mainly by trying to oust Ayub.

Cease-Fire Proclaimed By Formosa

TAIPEI (AP) — The Nationalist Chinese garrison commander of the Quemoy Islands proclaimed today a five-day cease-fire Sunday through Thursday. "To enable our dear Chinese people along the Fukien coast and the brethren of the Communist troops to enjoy the Chinese new year."

The commander said his troops would keep their guns silent unless the Communists indulge in "provocative military action."

... your newly appointed Butler Agri-Builder in West Central Missouri
No longer do you have to shop all around for the farm structures and equipment you need. For we are your newly-appointed Butler Agri-Builder. And we can help you solve all your farmstead automation problems . . whatever they might be.
We are equipped to sell and erect the full line of quality Butler metal buildings, bins, tanks, and handling equipment...plus many related products. This means we can counsel with you independently—with no favoritism for any certain type of product. And this results in the structure—or complete system—that's best for your farm, best for your budget. You save time, trouble and money.
We invite you to stop by and get acquainted with us whenever it's convenient for you. Ask us about our layout planning service—our complete construction service—our financing—our service after the sale. Or call or write us for further information. We serve farm-related businesses as well as farmers.

BUTLER STOR-N-DRY. America's most thoroughly engineered bin drying system—used by more farmers than any other brand.

BUTLER STOR-N-FEED. Oxygen-controlled storage for the feeding of low moisture silage and high moisture grain.

India Is Losing A Foreign Friend

NEW DELHI (AP) — India is about to lose a foreign friend who often seems to have more faith in this country than many of its own citizens show.

Chester Bowles is expected to leave India within two or three months after serving two terms as U.S. ambassador, 1951-53 and 1963-69.

"I think if India succeeds you have a major chance for peace and stability in Asia," he says.

His critics argue that Bowles has oversold his case, become an unwitting prisoner of his friendliness to the Indian government—and lost all leverage over it.

His admirers retort that many American ambassadors in developing countries behave like powers behind the throne—while Bowles has fashioned a new, more compassionate vision of his job.

"Today we're not roaming around the world trying to be loved and fawned upon," commented the 67-year-old diplomat, occasionally touching a wide, gold tie clasp that spells out his name in Hindi.

"We've learned that aid does not buy friends—or buy votes in the U.N.

"The only way you can justify aid, I think, is that it helps a country like India stand on its own feet, become self-sufficient, make its own decisions, maintain the freedom and independence of its own people."

Under Bowles' stewardship the American operation in India, dominated by a leviathan aid program, has become, outside Vietnam, the largest in the world. It involves Americans in almost every aspect of Indian society and government except defense, a field left largely to the Russians.

The ambassador stresses: "We've tried very hard to play all our programs in low key out here."

But he is proud of the aid mission's accomplishments in rebuilding the Indian railroads, nearly wiping out malaria, pushing agricultural development and, more recently, forcefully backing the government's family planning program.

India is beginning to pull itself out of what earlier seemed an economic nose-dive. New seeds, fertilizers, improved irrigation have combined to create what is officially embraced as an "agricultural revolution."

Bowles believes India will be self-sufficient in food by 1972 and completely free of all foreign aid by 1975.

Notwithstanding his reputation for optimism, Bowles is deeply troubled by inadequacies in India's family planning program.

"This worries me greatly," he said, admitting that a runaway population is his greatest fear.

"Not because they'll go hungry," he added quickly. "They won't go hungry. But because there'll be too few school teachers, bicycles, houses—just things. And it will be suffocating."

Pass-Fail Grading For MU

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A limited pass-fail system of grading was announced today by the University of Missouri to go into effect in September on its Columbia campus.

Under the plan a student may take up to 20 per cent of the class hours required for graduation under the new system. The student is limited, however, to one such course a semester.

In such a course, the student will receive only an S for satisfactory performance or a U for an unsatisfactory grade. The cutoff for the satisfactory grade will fall between the grades C and D.

The new procedure is planned to make it easier for students to maintain high grade averages and still select courses in other fields without fear of having the grade average pulled down by a course difficult for a student. The S-U grades will not be figured in grade averages.

The use of the system may have some disadvantages for certain students and consequently is not expected to be used by some individuals. These cases involve areas in which academic achievement are evaluated for intercollegiate athletics, draft deferments, academic honors and admission to professional or graduate schools.

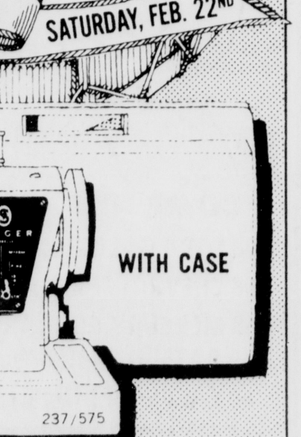

New Burn Salve Gets Approval

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration has approved for marketing an Army developed salve that dramatically reduces the chances of death from burns.

Called Sulfamylon, the antibacterial cream was developed by the Army Institute of Surgical Research at Brooke Army Medical Center. The FDA said it has been highly successful in preventing bacterial "invasions" of burns, a major cause of death in burn patients.

What to Serve When Teen-Agers Get Together

Ask Them Yourself

FOR DAVID KENNEDY, Secretary of the Treasury

What is the highest denomination of U.S. paper currency in circulation? Whose face is on it?—Michael M. Mills, Austin, Texas

● The $10,000 note, which bears the portrait of Salmon P. Chase, Secretary of the Treasury from March 7, 1861, to June 30, 1864.

FOR ART FLEMING host of "Jeopardy"

Do you know the quiz answers from memory, or do you have hidden cue cards?—Ann Chism, Northport, Ala.

● I know most of the answers, but I also get signals from backstage.

FOR ED McMAHON, announcer, "Tonight" show

Have you noticed your resemblance to Vice President Spiro Agnew? Do you expect any mistaken identity problems because of it?—Mrs. Chester Strong, Blossburg, Pa.

● No, I haven't. No, I don't.

FOR JEANE DIXON

Did you predict the Republican victory in 1968, with Richard Nixon the winner? Have you also predicted a depression in 1969?—Dwayne Grosse, Anchor, Ill.

● In "A Gift of Prophecy," published in 1965, I predicted that "the Republican party will be victorious at the polls in 1968," and in October, 1968, I stated in my quarterly forecasts that Richard M. Nixon would be elected President. I did not predict that a depression would occur in 1969, but I do see a slight dip in the stock market early in the year. It will soon come back up again, however.

FOR LAWRENCE WELK

You often mention your daughter-in-law, singer Tayna Falon. Is your son also on the show? Is he an only child? Mrs. Henry Hensel, Medford, Ore.

● My son Larry, Jr. is a vice president of a recording company, Randwood International. Larry and the rest of the Welk family have appeared on our Christmas shows. My wife and I have three children, Larry and two married daughters, Shirley and Donna, and six grandchildren.

FOR DR. JAMES A. BRUSSELL, author of "Casebook of a Crime Psychiatrist"

Just what does a "crime psychiatrist do"?—Mrs. Viola O'Connell, Amityville, N.Y.

● I apply both intuition and psychiatric training to interpret evidence supplied by law-enforcement officials seeking my help. In the case of New York's "Mad Bomber," for instance, I had only descriptions of the bombs themselves, where they were placed, and a few handwritten notes to go on. From them, I was able to deduce a description of the unknown criminal that fitted him exactly. A good crime psychiatrist must fit together all the pieces of a puzzle before giving police a description of an unknown criminal.

FOR BART STARR, quarterback, Green Bay Packers

What has been your greatest thrill in sports?—T.M., Lancaster, Pa.

● It was scoring the winning touchdown against the Dallas Cowboys in the 1967 NFL Championship Game at Green Bay.

FOR SEN. JOHN McCLELLAN of Arkansas

Are you provided with special police protection when you make speeches around the country?—Harold G. Roberts, Pine Bluff, Ark.

● No. The only protection I have is that which is given to any other citizen of the U.S. Of course, if some special need developed where it might be necessary, I am sure it would be provided.

FOR BARBRA STREISAND

Is it true that the Government wants you to go to the Soviet Union and give several concerts?—Arthur Bosh, Muncie, Ind.

● Yes, and I would love to entertain audiences there and in every other country around the world. But, as yet, I don't know when I will be able to go.

FOR MEADOWLARK LEMON of the Harlem Globetrotters

How many games do the Globetrotters play each season?—Leo L. Smith, Detroit, Mich.

● About 250. We start our tour through the U.S.A. in October. Then in April we go to Europe for three months.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Will Colleges Drop Out? Private universities are facing a financial crisis which could cause a decline of such education. Endowments have dropped from 50 percent of their income needs to only 10 percent; foundations—such as Ford—are turning elsewhere with their funds; Federal Government grants are small, uncertain, and full of red tape. Cost-per-student has risen 7.5 percent a year; faculty salaries, 5 percent; and maintaining the library, 15 percent. And it is predicted that operating cost will triple in a decade.

Perils of Stardom Eight-year-olds Heather Ripley and Adrian Hall, the British children in "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang," like to talk about friends they left behind while making the film. Both were firm for "loyalty" as the main qualification of a "best friend." Adrian added, "Someone who likes you, who'll play with you, who keeps his promises, and who, if I'm a ha'penny short, will give me one." Heather has a slightly different opinion: "Not taking your money! I thought I'd be getting all the money from the film to spend—you know, like an allowance. I told them that at school, big blabbermouth that I am. When I came back, they all said, 'Let's have our share.' "

Nails, Pro and Con "I always wanted long fingernails," actress Britt Ekland ("The Night They Raided Minsky's"), confesses, "but no such luck. Suddenly last summer they just grew, long and very strong. I'm so proud of them. I use them instead of tweezers, for putting on false lashes, instead of a brush for putting on eye liner, and instead of a comb to do the center part of my hair." Any disadvantages? "I can't push elevator buttons, open windows, or button buttons. I have to use my knuckles or chin."

Travelers in Trouble What happens when you're in a foreign land and suddenly fall ill? For such emergencies, the International Association for Medical Assistance to Travelers, a nonprofit organization supported by donations, has set up offices around the world. If you call them, they'll give you the names of at least two doctors who measure up to American standards, charge reasonable fees—and speak English. For information, write, IAMAT, Dept. FW, 745 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y., 10022.

Awkward Age Does your favorite two-year-old have flat feet, knock-knees, and a pot belly? Then he's normal, says ABC-tv's "The Children's Doctor," Lendon Smith, M.D. Two is an age only a mother could love because the typical tot whines a lot, is sleep-resistant, has one overused word in his vocabulary ("No!"), and poor eating habits. Some advice to mothers: you're not alone, and next year (age three) will be better. It can't be worse!

Lendon Smith, M.D.

The Three Lives of Samantha Eggar

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

IT SEEMS strange that a beautiful, 28-year-old actress can appear in big-budget films with big-name stars, be nominated for an Academy Award ("The Collector"), and still remain a mystery to the public as well as to those she works with.

Part of the mystery of Samantha Eggar is her reputation for being aloof, withdrawn, and uncommunicative. At interviews she is always polite and correct—and unresponsive. At parties—and she is admittedly an avid party-goer—she is always the loner.

But most of the mystery lies in the fact that there are really three Samantha Eggars in one: the girl who was reared in a convent outside London, the Chelsea swinger, and the wife and mother.

Samantha's childhood did little to make her an extroverted, happy-go-lucky person. "I've seen little of my father since I was six years old (he is a British army general now stationed in Germany), and I spent 11 years in a convent school," Samantha says. "The nuns didn't have too much success with me—I've always had a violent temper. In fact, once I almost killed one of the nuns.

"A friend and I were keeping diaries of imaginary romances, and this nun took my book. I begged to have it back, but she wouldn't give it to me. She started down the stairs, and I threw a chair at her. It missed her by inches. That cost me a week in 'solitary,' bread and water and all that."

When she got out of the convent school, Samantha changed her whole way of life immediately. It was easy to understand why. "I guess it was a sort of rebellion for the discipline and regimen of the previous 11 years," Samantha admits. "I spent two and a half years trying to be a fashion artist, and when that didn't work out, I decided to try to be a swinger, a free-wheeler in the Chelsea section of London. I got fed up with that, too. So then I tried acting."

Samantha's impact on the movie world was not what you would call smashing. She appeared in a number of second-rate films, all of which did little for her career. Then came William Wyler's "The Collector," an Oscar nomination, instant stardom, and big film offers opposite such stars as Cary Grant, Rex Harrison, Sean Connery, and Richard Harris.

Still, Samantha seemed listless, unhappy, unfulfilled both as an actress and as a woman. That all changed when she met actor Tom Stern at a London night club. "I knew I was going to marry her as soon as I saw her," says Tom. "The only thing I needed was an introduction." He got that through a mutual friend and proposed to Samantha via long-distance telephone from New Mexico some months later. They were married in Chelsea in 1964.

The aloofness that has marked Samantha's personality has seemingly disappeared now, and the reason may well be—her children, Nicholas, 3, and Jenna Lee, 1. "Having the children made me feel complete as a woman," says Samantha. "They seem to have changed my whole personality. For the first time, I feel secure."

Samantha feels more secure in her career, too. To date, only one of her films, "The Collector," could be called a success, and she's reluctant to talk of her most recent effort, "The Molly Maguires." But you can read between her lines, and you know she believes it's good and that she is proud of it.

Samantha, son Nicholas, and husband Tom.

It is not typical of Samantha to hedge like that on anything. She is one of the most straightforward persons in the movie business. And when it comes to her marriage, she is honest to the point of being blunt. "We have our share of troubles," she says matter-of-factly. "I make more money than Tom, and that's bad. And, too, there is a religious difference (she's Catholic, he's Jewish), but we have it worked out pretty well.

"Finally, Tom and I have little in common as far as leisure time is concerned. He's sports-oriented, headstrong, impatient. I'm not. I have little time for anything except raising the children. Still, I wouldn't want it any other way."

It's obvious from that statement which one of her three lives Samantha Eggar likes best. ◆

HOW TO MAKE [illegible]R BISCUITS AND 50¢

These are new Biscuit Fan-Tans.
They're flakier than other biscuits. That's because Fan-Tans are made with New Bisquick (with a new, lighter flour) and layered in Miracle Brand Margarine . . . the delicate, whipped margarine from Kraft.

You try Fan-Tans. Then mail us the New Bisquick box top plus the star from the front of the Miracle package, and we'll mail you 50¢.

Biscuit Fan-Tans

2 cups New Bisquick
½ cup cold water
2 tablespoons chopped green onion or crumbled crisply fried bacon
⅓ cup (1 stick) Miracle Brand Margarine by Kraft

Heat oven to 450°. Stir New Bisquick, water and onion with fork to a soft dough. Gently smooth dough into a ball on floured cloth-covered board. Knead 5 times. Roll ¼ inch thick. Spread half of margarine over half of dough. Fold in half and roll ½ inch thick. Cut with 2-inch floured cutter. Place 2 biscuits cut sides up in each muffin cup. Bake about 10 minutes. Makes 8.

To get your 50¢, mail this coupon, one New Bisquick box top and the star from the front of the Miracle Brand Kraft Margarine package.

Unregulated Credit Reporting

Computer error, an unpaid $5 bill, malicious gossip— for many, they mean harassment

By Sen. WILLIAM PROXMIRE (D.-Wis.)

Chairman, Subcommittee on Financial Institutions

IT MAY seem incredible to you, but for mere failure to pay—within a week or so—a $5 item on a credit transaction, it is entirely possible for you (or any average American):

1) To be hounded two or three or more times by either individually or computer-written letters, threatening you with legal action and permanent impairment of your good credit rating.

2) To be denied a chance to get into the credit record any extenuating circumstances (such as illness, absence on a business trip, or even defectiveness of the merchandise).

3) To be turned down, as a result, in an application to buy a home insured by the Federal Housing Administration because you are a "poor credit risk," although you otherwise may have had an excellent credit standing and ample funds for the down payment.

All this because of one skipped $5 payment on some trivial item!

It may sound farfetched, but these things have happened to people, and they can happen to you! The results may not cause you to lose your sanity (although there are instances in which it has caused sensitive individuals to encounter mental, marital, and even medical difficulties). But they certainly can seriously affect everyone's life, his good standing in the community, and his right to a sense of mental peace.

Let's face it. Many consumers have been and continue to be victims of serious abuses in the field of credit reporting. As of now, with relation to the credit-reporting situation, there is much which needs to be corrected. I can state this without equivocation on the basis of sworn Congressional testimony, a mass of letters from individuals who have been victimized by a faulty credit-reporting system, and the facts that already have come out about credit-reporting agencies in every area.

It is clear to me that we must enact safeguards over credit reporting now in order to help assuage the problems of the ghetto, as well as of upper-middle-class citizens who are concerned with credit matters.

Here's what a college upper-classman in Madison, Wis., wrote to me recently:

"I received two oil corporation credit cards as part of my entry in a promotional contest for college students last spring. In June, I began to use the card. I also got married and moved. The corporation never sent a bill during July, August, and September.

"My mail was forwarded regularly from my old address. In September, my husband and I received an overdue bill notice. We paid the amount and sent with it a covering letter explaining that my change of name and address probably confused their billing department.

"In reply, we received a letter demanding payment of the same overdue bill and return of our credit cards. At this point, we were only too happy to get rid of the cards, but we still owed the corporation more than they had attempted to collect. At this writing, they still have sent us no bill.

"A poor credit rating will be foisted on us as a result of its mistake. As young marrieds, we are just beginning to need a good credit rating. This company's mistakes can cause us grief."

If this young woman, already nervous, could see some of the letters sent to me by responsible individuals about their credit experiences, and the results, she would be downright frightened. These individuals, for having reacted exactly as she and her husband did with regard to this cockeyed billing, have been prevented from getting FHA approval on the purchase of a home; have been unable to buy cars or appliances on time in a convenient manner; and, in all, have been robbed of the opportunity to enjoy many of the benefits that should be considered normal.

We live in an economy grown big and prosperous through the use of credit, and let me make it clear that I am not opposed to consumer credit or to credit-reporting agencies, which are a vital part of the system.

But the "facts of life" make it essential that we put some legal safeguards on the activities of credit-reporting agencies so that they will do a more precise and useful job.

Literally anybody—if he has the desire and can afford a telephone and a listing in the yellow pages—can get into the credit-reporting business today. The Credit Bureaus (members of the Associated Credit Bureaus, Inc.) in the various areas are the biggest single factor in the credit-reporting business. But they are far from the only ones. These credit bureaus generally operate under the tutelage of principal merchants. They strive to get facts from their members and pass on this information to all subscribing companies, when requested. If these were the only credit-reporting agencies, the problems might not be as bad as they seem, but there still would be good reasons for regulatory laws.

But there are some agencies which specialize in collecting (and selling to clients) only derogatory information about you. It can be, and sometimes is, merely scandalous gossip. Just because a person calls and says he is with a "credit bureau" does not mean he necessarily is with the local Credit Bureau, Inc., sponsored by merchants you know and trust.

Since the courts traditionally have upheld the right of "credit-reporting agencies" to disseminate bona fide credit reports without fear of being held accountable for libel, the

Credit Bureaus Question Need for Legislation

Associated Credit Bureaus, Inc. and Senator Proxmire have the same objective—protection of the privacy of the American consumer. At the same time, we must preserve the advantages of our American system of credit, by preserving the credit granters' rights to pertinent information.

When you consider the volume of credit extended and its impact on our whole economy, it is important to keep the few isolated complaints against credit bureaus in proper focus.

Credit bureaus have a long-standing policy of encouraging consumers with credit difficulty to visit their local credit bureau and review their credit records. The credit bureau is glad to make any necessary reinvestigation and correct any errors. If a particular transaction is disputed, credit bureaus want the record to reflect both points of view.

Credit bureaus neither approve nor reject credit. They supply routine, factual information to credit granters in objective terms. Credit-bureau files deal primarily with the credit histories of consumers. Credit bureaus do not employ outside investigators, and their credit files do not include medical records, opinions of neighbors, or detailed employment histories.

The confidentiality of credit reporting is protected by written contracts between credit bureaus and credit granters. Credit bureaus provide information only to those with a legitimate need to know.

Senator Proxmire has proposed that credit bureaus notify a consumer when a derogatory item of public record is filed. This costly procedure would have to be borne by all consumers and would substantially increase the cost of consumer goods and services.

The credit-bureau industry, working with credit granters through an Advisory Committee on Protection of Privacy, has now adopted standard operating safeguards. These will relate to the areas of confidentiality, correction of errors, and deletion of outdated information from credit records.

We believe that these safeguards will substantially answer Senator Proxmire and other legislators and can be most effectivly enforced by the industry itself.

—John L. Spafford, Executive Vice President of Associated Credit Bureaus, Inc.

Could Ruin Your Life and problems in buying anything from an appliance to a house

entry of other firms (besides merchant-sponsored bureaus) obviously points to a whole "twilight zone" of possibilities that can be exposed and controlled only by official regulation.

The practices of even the best credit agencies are not foolproof in light of the inherent problems of compiling information. What are some of these problems?

Millions of Americans marry (or get divorced) each year. One researcher went to the local credit bureau to check his credit record. He was chagrined to learn that, although he had been divorced seven years (and this fact was on the credit record), there were scores of entries relating to purchases he had made at Washington department stores in those years, although, in fact, he had never made a single charge-account purchase during the time! The stores (and the credit bureau) still are recording, on his files, the purchases being made by his previous wife. Good or bad, he is cursed with her credit record, although they were legally divorced and he, in fact, hasn't seen her for years.

Literally millions of Americans have names similar to, or identical with, those of others. There are thousands of "Mary Smiths" and "Jim Jones" in this society. Yet many companies blithely bill one "Mary Smith," ignore her repeated denials that she ever even traded with the stores, sue her, get judgment (because she hasn't the means or knowledge of how to get a competent lawyer), and give her a bad credit rating—even though she may be the wrong "Mary Smith"!

Here, for example, is a letter from a respected Pennsylvania businessman: "I am currently doing battle—for the fifth time—with a major credit-card company. Previously, it was computer error, but this time it was clerical (human) error. But I have every reason to believe it will be just as difficult to correct.

"Meantime, I am resigned to receiving the usual stream of computerized collection notices, becoming progressively more ominous in threatening me with everything from legal action to loss of my credit standing if I do not pay at once."

"All private reporting, for business reasons, should be regulated," a college senior wrote to me. "My college roommate lost his car insurance without any reason. The agent, a good friend, was very apologetic. He confided that while he had no proof, he thought (an adverse credit report) came from a next-door neighbor. These people have never spoken so much as one word to us and could not possibly have 'known' the student in question. Nevertheless, my roommate was maligned—and could not defend himself, since the persons making credit reports on him are protected from possible libel action."

Early in the first session of the 91st Congress, I introduced a bill which would institute Federal safeguards on credit-reporting agencies, with the prime purpose of protecting both the businessmen who have a stake in extending credit and the tens of millions of consumers who virtually must have it to buy "big ticket" items.

The bill would establish these three basic requirements:

1) Credit-reporting agencies are required to maintain procedures giving consumers an adequate opportunity to correct inaccurate or misleading information.

2) Credit-reporting agencies would be required to set up procedures to safeguard the confidential nature of the information in their files. By law, information could be furnished only to businesses about to enter into a prospective transaction with the consumer. Others—including Federal, state, and municipal agencies, employment bureaus, and so forth—could not obtain such information, legally, without the consent of the individual concerned.

3) Credit-reporting agencies would be required to update the information in their files systematically and to weed out obsolete information. They also would be required to notify any individual whenever any derogatory item of a public nature is entered into his file.

Here are some thoughts about possible regulatory points that have been suggested by many individuals.

First, to require credit-reporting agencies to cease all collection activities, if they use their same firm name in such activities. It is, according to many, a conflict of interest.

Second, to make it clear in law that the credit-reporting agency has as great a responsibility to the consumer as to the businessman who allegedly "pays" the agency. Actually, through his purchases, the consumer pays the entire bill and deserves a true report—and is not getting it.

Third, to make clear in law the type of information which credit-reporting agencies legitimately may seek and record, and, at the same time, to require a record of the source of the information recorded.

"We are neither hippies, yippies, nor members of a protest group, but we are protesting," a couple wrote to me from Texas. "The credit system today is probably the wildest, most mixed-up 'system' of any system or business in our country!"

To an extent, I agree. We must move legislatively to make it work far better. ◆

Freedom fighter?

Yes, you. In a way, most everything you do shows your fighting spirit. You're enough of an individual to wear the clothes you want to wear. Do what you want to do. Study the things you want to know. That's probably why you use Tampax tampons. Chances are it has nothing to do with the fact that Tampax tampons outsell all others combined. Or the fact that millions of women all over the world use them and trust them.

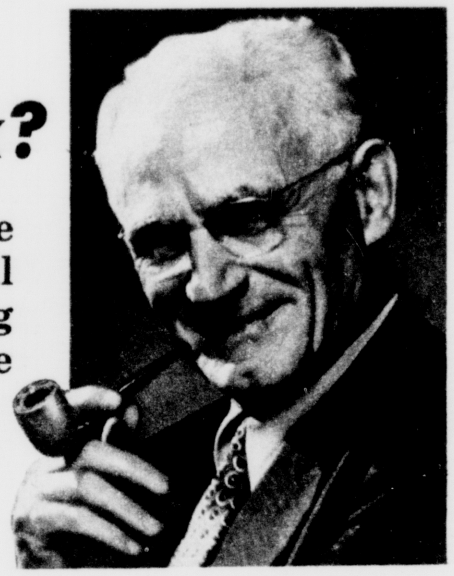

No. The reason you use Tampax tampons is the comfort and the freedom they give you. Worn internally, they let you wear your sort of clothes. Do your sort of things. Tampax tampons are never bothersome or obtrusive. Can't cause chafing or odor. And they're a cinch to carry in bag or purse. In a very real way, Tampax tampons are freedom fighters in themselves.

WILL YOU SMOKE MY NEW KIND OF PIPE

30 Days at my Risk?

All I want is your name so I can write and tell you why I'm willing to send you my pipe for 30 days smoking without a cent of risk on your part.

By E. A. Carey

My new pipe is not a new model, not a new style, not a new gadget, not an improvement on old style pipes. It is the first pipe in the world to use an entirely new principle for giving unadulterated pleasure to pipe smokers.

I've been a pipe smoker for 30 years, always looking for the ideal pipe—buying all the disappointing gadgets, and never finding a single, solitary pipe that would smoke hour after hour, day after day, without bitterness, bite, or sludge.

With considerable doubt, I decided to work out something for myself. After months of experimenting and scores of disappointments, suddenly, almost by accident, I discovered how to harness four great natural laws to give me everything I wanted in a pipe. It didn't require any "breaking in." From the first puff it smoked cool—it smoked mild. It smoked right down to the last bit of tobacco without bite. It never has to be "rested." AND it never has to be cleaned! Yet it is utterly impossible for goo or sludge to reach your tongue, because my invention dissipates the goo as it forms!

You might expect all this to require a complicated mechanical gadget, but when you see it, the most surprising thing will be that I've done all this in a pipe that looks like any of the finest conventional pipes. The claims I could make for this principle in tobacco enjoyment are so spectacular that no pipe smoker would believe them. So, since "seeing is believing," I also say "smoking is convincing" and I want to send you one Carey Pipe to smoke 30 days at my risk. At the end of that time, if you are willing to give up your Carey Pipe, simply break it to bits—and return it to me—the trial has cost you nothing.

Please send me your name today. The coupon or a postal card will do. I'll send you absolutely free my complete trial offer so you can decide for yourself whether or not my pipe-smoking friends are right when they say the Carey Pipe is the greatest smoking invention ever patented. Send your name and mailing address to me today. As one pipe smoker to another, I'll guarantee you the surprise of your life, Free. Write:

Now— The "Mini" Desk!

By ROSALYN ABREVAYA

Heritage's secretary desk is just two feet wide but tall enough (76") to lend architectural interest to any den. It is made of sturdy pecan solids, grained cherry veneers.

DESKS DO their own thing this season. In an array of design motifs and finishes, many of them are so compactly scaled that they can be accommodated in a tiny corner. They add inspiration to an entry hall, double as a vanity in the boudoir, and are even portable!

If you've always wanted a handsome writing unit (to pen a thank-you note, compose a couplet, or stash those overdue bills) and never had the space to spare—this, the year of the mini-desk, might well be the time to solve the problem. ◆

Medallion's reproduction of an old English design, the coaching table, folds easily, has an embossed leather top, and is built of distressed walnut veneer.

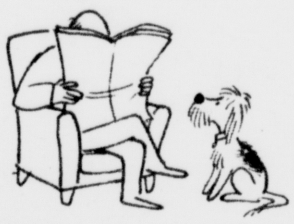

This country-French desk from Thomasville can easily become a vanity by substituting a mirror for painting. It is made of wormy oak solids and veneers in a wood or painted finish.

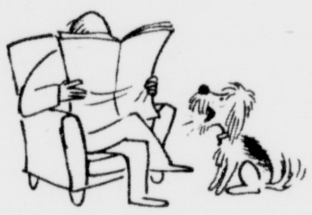

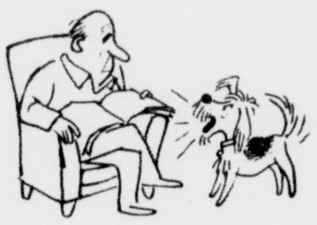

This handsome Victorian desk from Drexel is a marvelous accent piece. It sports an attractive brass gallery on top with a porcelain pedestal and has a painted cast-aluminum base.

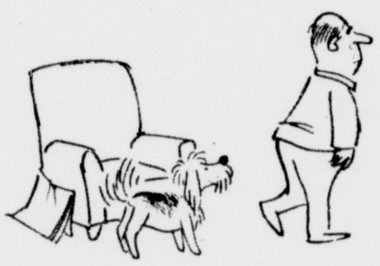

His Master's Voice

By JACK TIPPIT

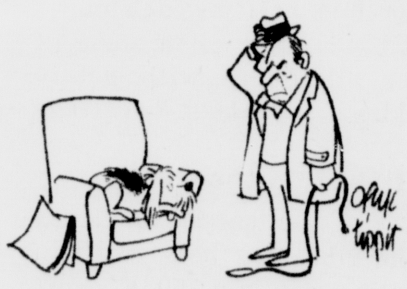

At 4½ she's reading 3rd grade books

a child prodigy? not at all! your child, too can be reading one, two or three years beyond his present age level...even if he's a "poor" reader now

Prove it to yourself...with this 10 day free trial!

Reading is fun for Sarah—as it should be for every child. At age four and a half, she's already choosing her own books at the San Diego, Cal. library.

She reads books many third graders find "hard going." Yet she won't enter first grade for another year.

Sarah is typical of thousands of children who learned to read with "Listen and Learn with Phonics"—a reading kit that actually makes reading fun.

"Listen and Learn with Phonics" was developed by a reading expert. It has been endorsed, after extensive testing by teachers, schools, and educators.

This practical (and inexpensive) home-learning kit fascinates eager young minds from three to ten. The child hears the letters or sounds on the phonograph record, sees them in his book and repeats them himself. This makes an absorbing game of better reading—with amazing results!

FOR EXAMPLE:

- Slow or average readers show sudden, often spectacular improvement in reading, in spelling, in understanding.
- Older children often advance their reading skills several years beyond their age levels.
- Young "pre-schoolers" actually teach themselves to read by this simple but startlingly effective phonics method of words, pictures, and records.

6 TEACHING GAMES INCLUDED FREE
Set includes six separate "word building" games. All six are sent with your Listen and Learn Phonics Set FREE of charge!

TEACHERS & PARENTS ACCLAIM RESULTS

"I received your Combination Teaching Set and am positively delighted with it! . . . your marvelous approach to reading is just what we need."
Mrs. Rogavin, Central High School, Snyder, N.Y.

"We purchased 'Listen and Learn With Phonics' . . . for our nine year old son . . . within two weeks his reading had improved 100%."
Mrs. Gregory Knight, San Leandro, Cal.

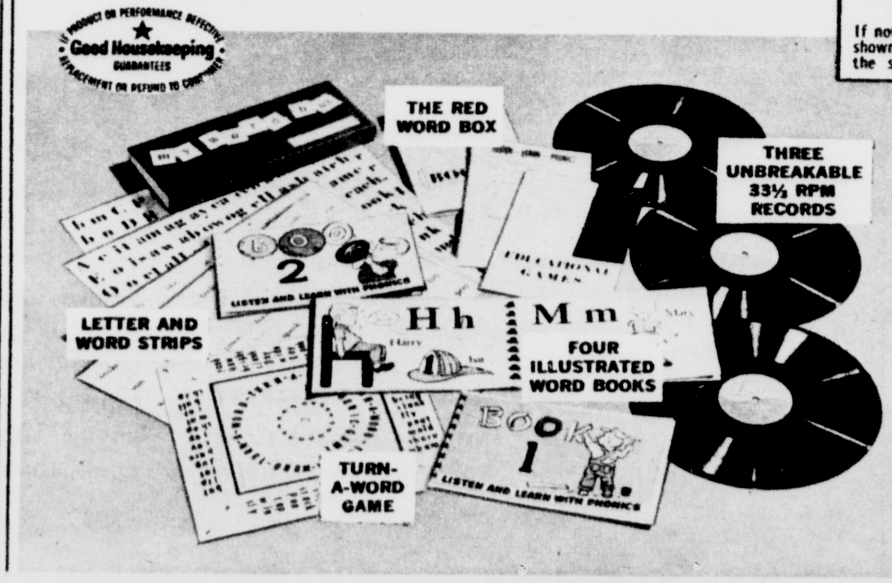

These "Learning Tools" Simple to Use!
You don't need special teaching skills to use this program. Nor do you need any special knowledge of phonics.

In fact, your child needs no special supervision on your part. This set is so simple, so fascinating, he can learn "on his own" without help.

10-DAY FREE TRIAL—PLUS 4-MONTH MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE!
Results are so dramatic, the publishers will make the complete kit available to your child with an equally dramatic FREE trial and guarantee.

Under the terms of this unusual offer you can test the kit free of charge for ten days. Moreover you may use the kit for four months and then return it for full refund if you're not completely satisfied with your child's progress!

See for yourself how fast your child can learn to read. Just fill out and mail the coupon attached. There's no obligation, and six teaching games are included free—yours to keep whether you buy or not. Americana Interstate, a division of Grolier, Inc., publishers of Book of Knowledge, Mundelein, Ill.

4-MONTH UNCONDITIONAL GUARANTEE
If not delighted with the progress shown by your child—just return the set for complete refund.

Artificial Teeth Must Be Cleaned like fine jewelry

Tests prove that modern dentures are 15 times softer than natural teeth. Thus they are easier to scratch and damage from harsh brushing or abrasives.

That's why more and more dentists now suggest soaking dentures clean in KLEENITE instead of hard brushing with abrasive pastes or powders.

Special Triple-Action

KLEENITE's triple-action formula—(1) detergent; (2) oxidizer (3) solvent—cleans your dentures like fine jewelry. It helps soak away stains—penetrates even toughest tobacco stains. Helps restore original whiteness to teeth and true pink color to gums. The difference it makes will amaze you!

IMPORTANT: To clean artificial teeth like fine jewelry, get KLEENITE today at all drug counters.

How You May

Never Take a Laxative Again!

Hospital-Tested Regulator Helps Relief Come Naturally

New York, N.Y. (Special)—Research has discovered a wonder-working substance that helps correct constipation without laxatives!

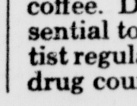

Doctors say most constipation occurs when waste loses moisture in the colon. To give relief, laxatives often force action—cause griping, cramping; can become habit-forming.

This hospital-tested substance works in a completely different way. It helps natural moisture in the colon work more effectively. Thus by working on the problem, not on you, it helps correct constipation as no laxative can.

This discovery is now available under the name REGUTOL®. It is not habit-forming. No warning on the label—no prescription needed. Try REGUTOL—you may never take a laxative again!

Treats for Teens

MELANIE DE PROFT Food Editor

Peanut butter in a banana-cream filling and cocoa in a topping crowned with peanuts—all in a crumb crust make for this teen delight, Peanut Pie served with cola.

■ When teens get together, appetites and records get a workout. We won't suggest what to put on the record player, but here are some treats for those zestful appetites. Remember, keep it all casual—paper napkins, "hot" and "cold" cups, plastic-coated paper plates.

Peanut Pie

- 1 pkg. (3 pouches) cream pie mix, banana-flavored
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- ⅓ cup butter or margarine, softened or melted
- 2½ cups cold milk
- ⅓ cup chunk-style peanut butter
- 3 tablespoons cocoa
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- ½ cup cold milk
- ½ teaspoon vanilla extract

1. Prepare graham crumb crust following pouch 1 directions, using the 3 tablespoons sugar and the butter or margarine. Press mixture firmly over bottom and sides of a 9-in. pie plate; chill.

2. Blend the contents of pouch 2, the 2½ cups cold milk, and the peanut butter in a bowl. Beat until thick and creamy. Pour into prepared crust, spread evenly, and chill.

3. Blend cocoa with the 1 tablespoon sugar in a deep, narrow-bottom bowl and then the contents of pouch 3. Add remaining cold milk and extract. Whip following pouch 3 directions. Spread over filling. Garnish top of pie with salted cocktail peanuts and chill. One 9-in. pie

Peanut-Caramel Clusters

- 1 pkg. (14 oz.) vanilla or chocolate caramels
- 2 tablespoons water
- 1¼ cups ready-to-eat cereal
- ¾ cup salted cocktail peanuts

1. Melt caramels with the water in a heavy saucepan over low heat, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat and at once mix in blend of cereal and nuts.

2. Working quickly, drop by spoonfuls onto buttered baking sheets. Let stand until firm. About 1¼-lbs. candy

Chocolate-Peanut-Caramel Clusters

Follow recipe for Peanut-Caramel Clusters mixing in ½ cup semisweet chocolate pieces with the cereal and nuts.

*Cereal flakes tend to crumble; other cereals are preferred.

Saucy Ribs

This recipe may be prepared hours, or even a day or two, in advance.

- 6 lbs. meaty spareribs or back ribs, cut across ribs and in 3-in. lengths
- ¼ cup lightly packed dark brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons dry mustard
- 2 tablespoons seasoned salt
- ½ teaspoon seasoned pepper
- 2 cups ketchup
- 2 cups water
- 6 tablespoons lemon juice
- 6 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
- ¼ cup cider vinegar
- ½ cup instant minced onion
- 2 teaspoons prepared horseradish
- 6 drops Tabasco

1. Brown ribs on both sides in Dutch oven, heavy skillets or saucepots, pouring off fat.

2. Meanwhile, in a saucepan prepare the sauce. Blend sugar, mustard, salt, and pepper; stir in remaining ingredients. Bring to boiling, cover, and simmer about 10 min.

3. Pour hot sauce over ribs. Bring to boiling and cover. Simmer and steam 1 to 1½ hrs. or until tender, basting and turning ribs frequently.

4. Put a toasted buttered sesame or poppy seed hamburger bun half on each paper plate. Top with ribs and spoon some of the sauce over all. Serve with potato chips and pickles. About 6 servings

Saucy Ribs from the Oven

Follow recipe for the sauce in Saucy Ribs. Brown the ribs in a jelly roll pan or shallow roasting pan in a 350°F. oven, pouring off fat. Spoon sauce over ribs, cover tightly with aluminum foil and cook about 1 hr. or until tender.

New! For Men and Women—

SACROTONE

END STOMACH BULGE

...instant relief from backaches, incisional hernia pain! *

PLEASE TAKE MEASUREMENTS TIGHTLY

SACROTONE — for men—Adjustable hook-and-eye front for easy-on, easy-off. (Style #10) Waist Size 26" to 52" — only $4.98 -2 for $9.50

RANGER RESEARCH, INC. Dept. 924-G 220 5th Ave., N.Y.C. 10001

SACROTONE — for women—comes with 4 long-life garters. (Style #12) (Please specify waist and hip size) Waist Size 26" to 52" only $4.98- 2 for $9.50

What nature doesn't, undetectable Sacrotone does! Acts like a whole set of new young "muscles" to give you that athletic, youthful control you used to have. Stomach becomes flatter, waistline slimmer, flab disappears. You look up to 5 pounds thinner instantly, and feel so much better.

An end at last to nagging backache*. Scientifically designed, medically approved Sacrotone gives you the kind of firm, but gentle lumbar, sacroiliac and post-operative hernia support most of us need so badly. No wonder Sacrotone is recommended by so many doctors. The design, the flexible stays that bend with you, the choice of material are all part of the immediate freedom-from-back-pain, the good feeling that Sacrotone gives you.

Custom-Cut from Quality Elasticized Material

Firm, yet marvelously soft. So comfortable, you can wear for tennis, golf, bowling — women wear while doing housework! Carefully made from special elasticized s-t-r-e-t-c-h fabric, cut to your exact measurements; no binding crotch, reinforced with flexible stays front and back, zig-zag stitched for additional support, long wear. No rolling, no wrinkling, no riding up!

MONEY BACK IN 10 DAYS IF YOU'RE NOT DELIGHTED – If you don't look better, feel better, if you are not completely free of back pain, if at least one person has not said to you: "you look so much younger — what have you done?" — your full purchase price will be refunded — no questions asked.

Just Add Water— you've got "INSTANT LIFE"®

ONLY $1.00

Yes, it's the living truth! In only five minutes you will actually hatch a whole tumbling, playful, happy troupe of Sea-Monkeys that are even more fun that a zoo full of chattering, howling jungle monkeys! World's most amazing new pet, children and adults alike will laugh and thrill with wonderful excitement. Watch the comic antics of these fantastic underwater buffoons that are really alive. Any minute of the day or night, you'll see them chase one another in a playful game of tag. The loser gets caught by his tail and is spun in a dizzy circle. See the "showoffs" turn cartwheels of joy in the water . . . see the ticklish ones "scratch" each other's backs. Watch them swim singly or in ever-changing graceful formations, creating a live sea-circus.

Watch the Miracle of Life

These genuine living sea animals begin life from a seemingly inanimate handful of glittering crystals which contain the secret of life. A fantastic genetic material that stays alive for as long as twenty years. And these delightful pets that are born alive are so tiny . . . only three-quarters of an inch long when full grown, you raise an entire troupe in an ordinary glass of water from your sink. It's so safe, just empty the package of crystals we send you into the fish bowl of water and you will immediately see "Instant Life." Best of all, you can create a whole new brood at any time, to give as gifts or sell if you wish.

They Obey Your Silent Commands

You can actually make these marvelous Sea Monkeys behave like a bunch of trained seals as they follow a beam of light anywhere. Just darken the room and watch them follow a flashlight or candle beam forward, backward, sideways or around like a pack of happy kids playing Follow the Leader. So don't delay! Order now. Only $1.00 plus 25c shipping charges complete.

FREE! Receive with each order, a magnificent, fully-illustrated "Instant Life" Handbook of instructions, tricks, training and amazing life history of Sea-Monkeys. PLUS a FULL YEAR'S SUPPLY of special Sea-Monkey Growth Food to feed your fantastic pets! Note: Sea-Monkeys are so simple to handle, even a 6 year old child can raise them successfully!

NOW! Run Your Car Without Spark Plugs

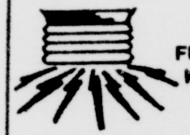

THE IMPORTANT DIFFERENCES BETWEEN ORDINARY SPARK PLUGS AND JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS

Your car's power comes from tiny explosions of gasoline vapor and air in your cylinders. The bigger the explosions, the faster you go.

SPARK PLUGS
NARROW SPARK

CONVENTIONAL PLUGS explode this mixture with a spark jumping across an air gap. The spark is just 35-thousandths of an inch across — not wide enough to explode all the fuel in the cylinder. Unburned gas escapes through your exhaust. In time, the electrodes become eroded and caked with carbon. The gap widens, the spark gets narrower, you lose more power, waste more fuel . . . and finally have to replace your plugs.

JET-FIRE
FUEL IGNITER
WIDE SWATH OF FLAME

JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS use no sparks. Instead a fanning swath of flame walks across a semi-conductor bridge from one electrode to another, exploding far more fuel, getting far more power. There is no gap that can widen, and carbon deposits actually improve performance. They do not have to be adjusted or replaced—ever!

BOAT OWNERS! Fuel Igniters are better for your boat engine, too!

NEW JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS

Will deliver up to 30 more horsepower, 5 more miles per gallon using only regular gas!

THEY NEVER WEAR OUT

Pat. No. 2899589

- get up to 5 more miles per gallon of gas
- add up to 30 more horsepower to your engine
- save $100 each year for you, year after year while you use the cheapest grades of gasoline!

YOU'LL NEVER CLEAN, ADJUST OR REPLACE PLUGS AGAIN!

Save $100 a Year With Jet-Fuel Igniters!

If you drive 15,000 miles, you can easily save:

- $50 by switching to regular gas.
- $40 on your better mileage.
- $10 by not replacing plugs.

You are protected by this

4-WAY GUARANTEE

1. GUARANTEED for the life of your car (or 30,000 miles) without cleaning, servicing or replacing.
2. GUARANTEED to increase miles/per/gallon of gas on regular gas!
3. GUARANTEED to increase horsepower, increase engine RPMs!
4. GUARANTEED to improve ease of starting and acceleration!

JAY NORRIS CORP., Dept. L-13, 31 Hanse Ave., Freeport, N.Y. 11520

Spark plugs are obsolete! Now there's a far better way to run your car.

With conventional spark plugs, only a fraction of the fuel that enters your cylinders is turned into power. The rest escapes through your tailpipe as unburned vapor. That is because their spark is so narrow—only 35-thousandths of an inch wide—that it cannot possibly ignite all the fuel mixture in the cylinder. As plugs get older, their sparks get narrower and less efficient till they have to be replaced.

New Jet-Fuel Igniters do a far better job of turning gasoline into power. Instead of a narrow spark, they send out a wide swath of flame that "walks" across a semi-conductor tip, fanning out in all directions and exploding far more fuel in the cylinder.

Proof That You Get Up To 30 Horsepower More

Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters look like spark plugs merely because they have to be screwed into the spark plug socket. But what they do is far different. Here's how to prove it:

1. Run your car till it's fully warmed up.
2. Stop on a perfectly level stretch of road.
3. Put the car in Drive (1st gear with manual transmission), and see how fast the car rolls at idling speed.
4. Remove plugs and install Jet-Fuel Igniters (a 10-minute job).
5. Now see how fast your car rolls at idling speed. You can expect it to go 4 TO 6 MILES PER HOUR FASTER without touching the gas pedal — dramatic proof that Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters increase engine RPMs by 100 to 150 with no increase in gas consumption. (At high speeds, RPMs increase by 300 to 350.)

So, first thing, you can reduce the gas flow by adjusting the idling screw, and start saving money before you've even driven a mile!

(At the same time, you can make your air-to-gas mixture leaner. Fuel Igniters require only a 15:1 ratio instead of the conventional 9:1. It's a simple adjustment that you or your mechanic can make in one minute. It provides even greater economy.)

Start driving and you'll notice even more improvement—up to 30 more horsepower of acceleration power, climbing power, and passing power. All this while burning less gas!

SWITCH TO REGULAR

The next time your gas gauge gets near the "Empty" mark, tell the attendant to fill it up with REGULAR! Chances are you'll no longer need premium which costs four to eight cents more than regular gas.

And this second saving is only the beginning. Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters provide easier cold-weather starts . . . and that means less drain on your battery, and no drain on your patience as you try to get started.

NO REPLACING OR ADJUSTING EVER

The more you drive, the better your Fuel Igniters perform. They don't become eroded, wear out or require adjusting. And carbon build-up—the natural enemy of old fashioned plugs—actually makes fuel igniters perform better. Carbon becomes an additional carrier for the igniter's big jet flame.

So there you have a third saving. One set of fuel igniters will last the life of your car!

Invented To Save Air Force Lives— Now They Can Save You Money

Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters were first developed to save airmen's lives. During World War II, there were times when more men were killed by spark plug malfunction than by enemy action. A failure-proof replacement was needed, and Fuel Igniters did the job. Both the Navy and Air Force have approved them for jet engine use.

Now at last they have been modified for automobile use. They won't save your life, but they can save you big money—up to $100 a year with ordinary driving.

Some day, all cars may come equipped with Fuel Igniters like these. But why wait when you can install a set yourself now. Just mail the coupon with the make and model of your car, and we'll rush you a set with full instructions.

Just $12.80 per set of 8 — $9.60 per set of 6.

QUIZ

Are You a Helpful Wife?

BEHIND EVERY successful man is a helpful woman. That's an overworked saying, but psychologists agree with it.

In fact, this quiz is based on psychological studies designed to evaluate a wife in terms of how much she helps her husband in climbing the ladder of success. So if you want to find out how you qualify as a helpful wife (or if you're a husband, you can evaluate her), check off which of the three answers you feel is best for each question:

1. Your husband has just been promoted over the head of one of his coworkers. You previously have invited this man and his wife to dinner. How would you handle this situation?

a) I would invent some kind of excuse to call off the dinner. b) I would go right ahead with plans for dinner, realizing that I'd probably have to face them sooner or later anyway. c) I'd go ahead but dread every moment.

2. How would you feel about your husband working overtime at night?

a) It would make me unhappy. b) I wouldn't like it, but I would be able to adjust to it. c) I'd take it in my stride.

3. Do you enjoy entertaining?

a) Not particularly. I would rather be invited to parties and dinners. b) I like to entertain, but I'm always worried and tense for fear everything won't go right. c) Yes. I enjoy getting people together.

4. In his climb to success, your husband could be transferred from time to time to other cities. How would you feel about pulling up stakes?

a) I think it would be challenging and exciting. b) I might not like it, but I would be willing to accept it. c) I'd say no.

5. Would you worry about the affect on the children of being uprooted?

a) No. I think it would be broadening and educational for them. b) I think it would be most undesirable so far as the children are concerned. c) I think it would depend on where we moved to—and how often. But I would try to make the best of it.

6. If your husband brought home his boss and his wife to dinner, and one of them asked you how you felt about a controversial issue, how would you handle it?

a) By giving a straightforward answer. b) By adroitly drawing out the questioner on his own view, without committing myself. c) By trying to change the subject.

7. You are about to go on vacation when your husband's boss asks him if he would like to go on a long business trip. How would you react?

a) I would feel it was most unfair, and I would be very upset if my husband went. b) I would leave the decision entirely up to my husband. c) I would talk it over with my husband and try to work out an agreement together as to what to do.

8. Do both you and your husband have the same idea about "success"?

a) Almost. He places more emphasis on power and prestige than I do. b) My husband believes that happiness and material success go hand in hand. I don't. c) Yes, we both have the same goals.

9. Do you have a sense of humor?

a) A lot of things most people think are funny leave me cold. b) I consider myself better than average. c) I enjoy humorous situations.

10. Do you often attempt more than you are capable of doing?

a) Yes, but I usually manage to muddle through. b) No, I'm a pretty good judge of what I can accomplish. c) Yes, I'm usually sorry for it afterwards.

ANSWERS

1. Answer b is best. It is better to face up to social problems with poise and tact.

2. Answer c. Inability to make necessary compromises will hurt your husband.

3. Again c.

4. Answer a. A woman who will go anywhere with her husband is a great asset.

5. Again a. This answer signifies family solidarity on important matters.

6. Answer b. Tact in such a situation is really the only answer.

7. Answer b. It is a wise wife who let's her husband make such a difficult decision.

8. Answer c. The more a wife believes in what her husband believes, the greater the potential for helping him.

9. Again c. A good sense of humor facilitates getting along with people.

10. Answer b. It is a wise person who knows her capacity. ◆

I lived in maternity slacks, until I lost 98 pounds

By JoAnne Lawrence—as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

Understand me, I wasn't pregnant all the time I wore maternity clothes. I was just plain fat and nothing else fit. It started the first year I was married. I was only 16 and gained 75 pounds in twelve months.

We had moved to Austin, Texas, and our apartment was so small there wasn't much to do. So I cooked and ate and ate and cooked. Then, when I found out I was expecting, I started eating even more. I thought that to have a healthy baby you had to eat a lot.

My doctor kept telling me the weight would be hard to get off. But I wouldn't believe it. I was sure I could take it off in no time. The "no time" lasted nine years. I just kept getting heavier and heavier, as I had another child, and another.

Occasionally, I'd buy some yard goods, and a dress pattern with a waistline, and I'd run it up. Then I'd hang the dress in the closet. It was always too snug to wear. I made things that way on purpose, hoping it would make me do something about my weight. But it never did. I'd just wind up wearing my maternity slacks, which had an elastic waistband.

By the time my last son was born, I was really in bad shape. I weighed 230 pounds. It was hard even to breathe. The doctor thought I'd lose the baby.

He even thought he'd lose me, the fat was squeezing my heart so hard. But, fortunately, we both pulled through.

It wasn't like I hadn't ever tried to reduce. Doctors had prescribed diets and reducing pills for me time and again. Sometimes, I'd stay on a diet five days, then I'd have to eat big. Fried chicken and candy. I couldn't seem to live without them. As for the pills, they made me too nervous. Besides, when you swallow them, they're gone. It's the same with liquid diets. You drink them, and they're gone. It's not like having something you can chew on.

After the baby came, I was desperate to lose. And I wanted sympathy so bad, it hurt. Finally, I made an appointment with another doctor. While in his waiting room, I picked up a magazine and suddenly saw this story about a woman who'd lost a tremendous amount of weight. When I looked at her fat picture, I said: "That's me." Then I looked at her slim picture. And I thought, if she can do it, so can I. So I read every word and I found out that she did it with the help of Ayds Reducing Plan Candy.

Now that I'm 132 pounds, even my little boys are proud of me. The oldest keeps saying to his pals: "Hey, you, this is my Mom!"

I didn't even wait to keep my appointment with the doctor. I told the nurse I was sick and left. And I went right to the drugstore and got some vanilla caramel Ayds. Later, I tried both the plain chocolate fudge type and the fudgy chocolate mint. And I started losing on the Ayds Plan.

I didn't set myself too strict in what I ate for meals. I was just careful. But I took the Ayds, as directed, and they helped me curb my appetite. They really did. I kept my Ayds in the refrigerator and that made them real chewy. And that's what I wanted. Something to chew on. Why, if I'd wake up in the middle of the night and start thinking about food, I'd just get up, get an Ayds and chew away.

When I'd gone down 26 pounds, I was able, at last, to get into one of those dresses hanging in my closet. You can't imagine how good that made me feel.

Soon I began looking at pretty dresses in magazines. Bright, bright colors, too. After all, I was just in my mid-twenties and I was tired of wearing black.

About this time, I also started doing exercises to help me firm up. But I have to admit, when it came to touching the floor, I cheated. So I decided to switch to walking — eight blocks every evening. And it made me feel real good.

When I finally lost 98 pounds, I couldn't believe it. I was like a new person. I bought myself some shorts. Some dresses with belts, to show my waistline. And even a couple of minis. Fact is, we've had to add three new closets to our house. I just can't get enough of dressing up.

I've been down to 132 pounds for some time now, but I still keep a box of Ayds in the refrigerator. When I feel myself slipping, I look at them and say: "You satisfy me, Ayds, or I'm in trouble." And they do. They've helped me cut my appetite way down. And my weight. The only thing out of line now is my clothes bill.

QUIPS AND QUOTES

The flashily dressed young woman was on the stand in a casualty case. The lawyer for the insurance company, hoping to discredit the witness, sneeringly asked, "And when the elevator started to fall, I suppose all the sins of your past flashed before you?"

"Certainly not," was her cool reply. "The elevator fell only seven stories." —Dorothea Kent

A little boy of six or seven was seated next to a little old lady in church. When the usher started to approach with the collection plate, the little old lady fumbled in her cluttered purse but was unable to find her money. Suddenly the little boy nudged her.

"Here," he said quietly. "You take my money, and I can hide under the seat." —V. D. Palat

Diet: Something a person does for bad breadth. —Ben Cassell

Sign on Five-Minute Speedy Car Wash: "Would you believe ten?"
—Lane Olinghouse

Small Son

He washed? I doubt the story—
Too clean a lavatory!
—Ruth Chadwick

A man who had been up for the position of executive vice-president of a large corporation finally received his promotion. To surprise his wife with the good news, he invited her to the company headquarters one afternoon, knowing that the moment she stepped into his large, swanky office, she would know he had received the coveted job. His wife walked in, and suddenly he saw that she was on the verge of tears. Taking her in his arms, he asked her what was wrong.

"You didn't even notice my new hairdo," she said. —Dan Bennett

- Produces Fruit Up to 10 Years
- Bears a Colorful Array of Flowers from Spring to Fall, Followed by Hundreds of Plump, Juicy Red Tomatoes

FROM CALIFORNIA'S FAMOUS NURSERYMEN'S EXCHANGE COMES AMAZING NEWS! BRAZIL'S RARE — EXOTIC — ASTONISHING TREE TOMATO is now available anywhere in the U.S.A.!

And in a newly-developed super-hybrid variety that harvests up to 40 lbs. (hundreds of tomatoes) yearly — thousands of tomatoes up to 10 years — FROM ONE TOMATO TREE!

An astonishing South American tomato fruiting tree that gives stunning blossoms for months, blooms yearly even in the North, grows as a tree outdoors and with tropic ease indoors, now is perfected and made available by plant scientists anywhere in America.

What Happened In Half Moon Bay!

The growing fields of California's famous Nurseryman's Exchange are located in Half Moon Bay and there the Danish American Hybridizer, Jerry Jensen, married Brazil's tree tomato to the U.S.A.

South America's luscious tree tomato was discovered by Brazilian Indians; brought to richest, fullest flavor and lushness by Portuguese missionaries; and hybridized to a super-resistant super-easy-to-grow variety by Jensen.

There are 30 different varieties of tree tomatoes in South America but only one is the lushest, most delicious and easiest-to-grow of them all! And that one was made over after four years of hybridizing at Half Moon Bay — working with various universities — discarding weaker, keeping stronger strains — until the final super variety was ready for you.

Who Put All Those Tomatoes In That Itty Bitty Seed

Imagine one seed does produce over 400 lbs. of tomatoes in one lifetime.

And Brazil's super Tree Tomato is so easy to raise that 80% of normally-planted seeds take. So easy it will grow inside anyplace a philodendron will grow! So easy that outside in actual tests seeds thrown at random in plowed fields, it grew naturally with no human care.

Each seedling grows to 3 or 4 ft. indoors or up to 8 ft. outdoors or you can stop the growth of the tree at any height you wish between 3 and 8 feet. It is super disease-resistant.

Imagine stunning exotic-shaped leaves up to one foot long! Imagine the constant changing show. First the lovely leaves — then a shower of delicate, fragrant flowers — and finally a beautiful array of juicy luscious tomatoes.

And so prolific that as one crop ripens, Mother Nature sees to it that another crop is taking it's place, and this fruiting period goes on for five months.

A Family Delight

Show your children nature's mysterious way of bringing a South American fruit-bearing season right into your own home and reversing the U.S. season. Surprise and delight your friends.

Enjoy delicious, mouth-watering salads, freshest sauces, special jams and deserts — all winter long. See huge hanging clusters of succelent red and plump and juicy tree tomatoes in successive waves month after month.

Grow indoors. Pluck your dinner tomato from the tree. Grow on the or patio in the garden. Indoors or outdoors, see a colorful array of flowers from Spring to Fall.

Each Tomato Costs Tiny Fraction of a Cent!

Accept our introductory offer. Frankly we want everyone who enjoys delicious fresh tomatoes and gorgeous beautiful blooms and blossoms to enjoy this super-hybrid Tree Tomato.

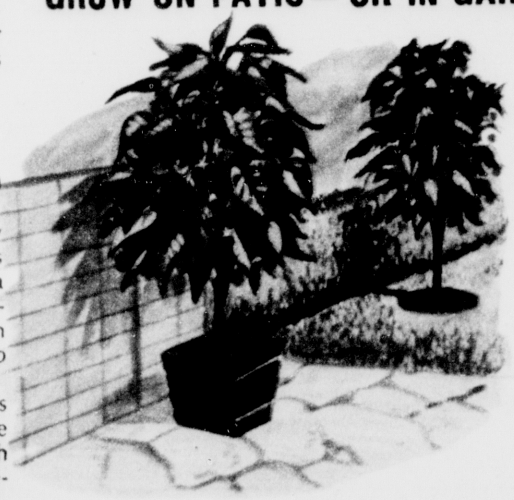

And we are shipping you a full season's supply of these super seeds for $1. But the Tree Tomato, up-to-now too rare and difficult to obtain, is in demand. it's first come, first served. Rush your order before midnight tonight as specified below and receive as a FREE gift special recipe booklet, yours to keep FREE even if you return seeds on our money back guarantee.

How to Spark Your Child's Interest in Reading

By VIRGINIA WARREN Author of "Tested Ways to Help Your Child Learn"

IS YOUR child "allergic to print"? That is, he can read—but doesn't.

If so, he's as deprived educationally as the much-publicized "Johnny" who can't read at all. Reading is essential in high school and college, of course, but also a requisite for success—in career and cultural enrichment—after school.

What can parents do to correct this negative attitude? Here are some tips from noted educators:

1. Tempt them with paperback books.

"It has been found that paperback books are more appealing to poor readers than hard-cover books," says Dorothy A. McGinniss, former executive secretary of the American Association of School Librarians. "Paperbacks are more attractive and less formidable." One teacher tells about the time he left a paperback copy of "The Return of the Native" on top of his desk. Within several weeks the book had been picked up, read, and returned by 11 students. Yet the hard-cover edition had been in the school library for months—unread.

2. Appeal to their hobbies, interests, and needs.

One of the basic principles of teaching is to "start where the student is." This means using the student's current interests, needs, and enthusiasms to help him expand and learn.

One teacher used a wart on a boy's thumb as a device to start him reading. Barry was worried about the wart but extremely superstitious about where warts came from and how to get rid of them. The teacher recommended a book titled "Superstitious? Here's Why!" and asked him to read the chapter on warts. Barry almost memorized that section and finished the entire book in four hours. On this first trip to the library he also discovered some very readable books on health and strength—major interests of his. Sixteen-year-old Barry suddenly became an interested reader.

3. Subscribe to a magazine especially for your child.

Few youngsters—whether they like to read or not—can resist the appeal of their very own magazine arriving in the mail.

Magazines for younger children are geared to their interests and written at their reading level. Reluctant young readers find themselves reading instructions for easy make-and-do projects. Their eyes are then drawn to riddles, puzzles, and stories. Before long they are hooked—looking forward eagerly to the next issue.

4. Introduce him to the public library.

Take your young child to the nearest library. Help him get his own library card and introduce him to the children's section, so he can make his own selections.

5. Make the most of your daily newspaper.

"The newspaper communicates a sense of vitality and immediate excitement equaled by no other public writing of our time. It is just that sense of excitement which has been so sadly missing from the texts of our public schools," says Daniel N. Faber in "Hooked on Books." Pique your child's interest by clipping articles that will appeal to him.

6. Join a children's book club.

The regular arrival of books with your child's name on them—books of his very own—can be a strong inducement to reading. Several clubs now exist which make available well-written children's books with illustrations.

7. Let him choose.

Parents, and even teachers, too often choose children's reading material by their own likes and dislikes. The fact is, children are individuals. They have their own "favorite" stories. Let them make their own selections—and likely they'll overcome their "allergy" to print.

More Ways to Improve Your Child's Skills

Readers who want to help their children get more out of school may send for either or both of these books: For better elementary school grades, send $4.25 for "87 Ways to Help Your Child in School" to F. W. Books, Dept. A125/1, Box 707, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017. For improved high-school grades, send $4.00 for "How to Succeed in High School" to F. W. Books, Dept. A126/1, Box 707, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Without Nagging Backache

Nagging backache, headache and muscular aches and pains may come on with over-exertion, emotional upsets, or everyday stress and strain. If this nagging backache, with restless, sleepless nights, is wearing you out, making you miserable and irritable, don't wait, try Doan's Pills — an analgesic, a pain reliever. Doan's pain-relieving action on nagging backache is often the answer. Get Doan's Pills — not a habit-forming drug but a well-known standard remedy used successfully by millions for over 70 years. See if they don't bring you the same welcome relief. For convenience, always buy Doan's large size.

PIN-WORMS A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, loss of sleep and a tormenting itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . small, easy-to-take tablets . . . special sizes for children and adults.

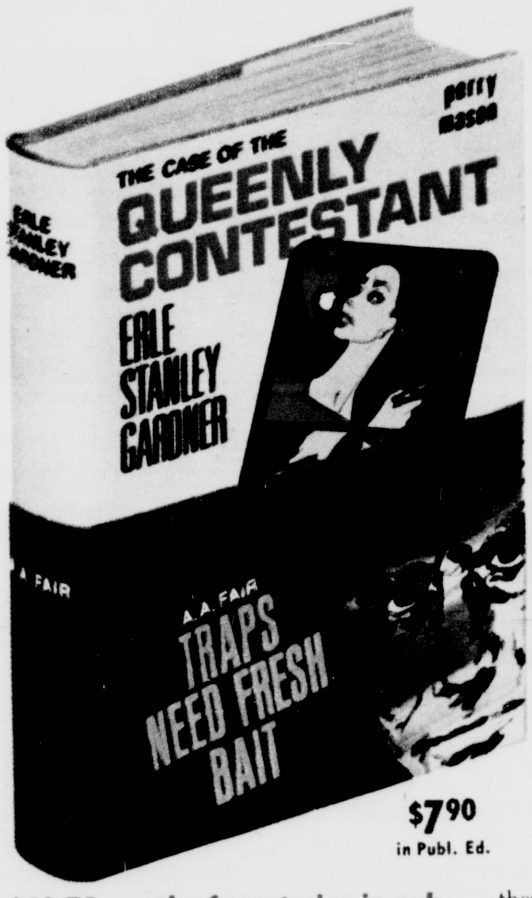

Now Many Wear FALSE TEETH With More Comfort

To overcome discomfort when dentures slip, slide or loosen, just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. FASTEETH holds dentures firmer. You eat better, feel more comfortable. FASTEETH is alkaline—won't sour. Helps check plate odor. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get FASTEETH at all drug counters.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY—After I buy a supply of baby food, I arrange the jars on a shelf according to meal plans. There must be chicken soup and peaches for lunch, lamb, beets and custard for supper and so on. When it is time to feed a hungry baby, everything is together and right at my fingertips.—JOYCE

DEAR POLLY---Do not throw away your spray starch or hair spray cans until you have removed the spray tips. I have bought new ones that lacked tips or one may not work so you have a spare on hand that will save the day.---ALICE

DEAR POLLY—A tea pot makes an ideal "string" holder. Place the ball in the pot and then run the string through the spout. —MRS. R. J.

DEAR POLLY---When I am cooking I tear off a piece of waxed paper and put it on the counter top near the stove. On it I put drippy spoons, onion peels and so on and then all I have to do is fold up the paper and throw away the mess.---MRS. R. N.

Polly pays a dollar for every idea used. Send them to her, care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—I covered my Daddy's old Army foot locker with brightly colored contact paper in a green and yellow daisy pattern and put yellow plastic strips around the edges. I took this to college this fall to hold my sweaters, sheets and towels. It also provides extra seating.—C. T.

DEAR POLLY---Thank you for the helpful hints. When putting many foods and vegetables into the garbage disposal, put a lemon or lime in last. This leaves a nice smell in the kitchen. Never put an onion in last unless you want a real onion smell in the kitchen.---DIA

DEAR POLLY—When having a party for a small child, save time and money by writing each guest's name on his paper drinking cup. This identification enables a child to use his cup over again. He will not ask for a new one when he returns for that second or third drink.—BEVERLY

DEAR POLLY---We recently bought a new king-sized bed but I needed king-sized pillowcases. My mother-in-law solved the problem by ripping the hems out of regular pillowcases and then sewing hems of colored material on the ends.---DIANA

DEAR POLLY — After ice cream is opened place a piece of plastic wrap over it before returning it to the freezer. This prevents frost from forming on the ice cream and spoiling its looks and taste. (Polly's note: Before closing an ice cream carton, I stuff a plastic bag inside the open carton.)—LYNNE
